Years' Experiments Bring Success.

New presses ordered by THE TRIBUNE yesterday will open new vistas in color printing in this newspaper. After several years of experiments, THE TRIBUNE'S engineers, working with the mechanical staffs of the Goss Press company, have perfected means by which, within two or three months, the pages of the everyday TRIBUNE may reflect every color and shade of the spectrum.

The same color schemes produced in many magazines and weekly publications will be available for editorial and advertising purposes.

Chief Obstacle Overcome.

The great obstacle which has perplexed the engineers in the producing of color combinations, and in printing one color over another, has been the speed with which daily newspapers must be printed. In the course of a few hours, every night, hundreds of thousands of TRIBUNES must issue from the presses. To achieve clear color effects without smearing has been thought a beautiful hope impossible of attainment.

But the perseverance of the engineers has won the task. The job has been done successfully on an experimental press unit tied into THE TRIBUNE press system. Colors have been made to blend artistically.

Three primary colors may be used on the new type press, and these may be impressed one over another to achieve any shade or color. Experiments have proved that by using red, blue, and yellow inks any color or color combination may be obtained. Even black may be obtained by blending certain shades of the primary colors.

Contracts Are Signed.

When the success of the years of research was made certain THE TRIBUNE awarded to the Goss Press company an order for complete color equipment for its present line of presses. Contracts for the new presses were signed yesterday.

While the process will produce a finer TRIBUNE, it is also contributing toward an alleviation of unemployment, giving work to men in the press trade and stimulating similar improvements generally elsewhere in the publishing field. It will also be necessary for this newspaper to employ additional men in the producing of the color pages.

Nine color press units, built on the same lines as the experimental unit, will be installed, so that THE TRIBUNE equipment may produce nine press deliveries with color pages sufficient to supply THE TRIBUNE'S circulation.

Four Pages of Full Color.

The new units will make it possible for THE TRIBUNE to include four pages in each issue displaying full color combinations. At the same time an indefinite number of two color pages, which have been available for some time, may be included, in addition to the regular black and white and full color pages.

THE TRIBUNE, while these experiments were in progress, had already contracted with another printing press concern, the Wood Press company, for a new color press. The Wood press, ordered last February for delivery early in 1932, is also an experimental venture, and its success remains to be proved.

Although the Wood press may surpass the effect achieved by the presses now to be installed, THE TRIBUNE decided not to wait upon the delivery of the Wood press, but to install the present equipment at once so that it may be made available to advertisers and readers at the earliest possible time.

May Adopt Wood Equipment.

It is conceivable that the Wood presses may outdo the remarkable effects produced by the Goss units, and in this event THE TRIBUNE will adopt the Wood equipment throughout. There is a promise that greater flexibility of color combinations may be obtained.

The new color presses will not produce the same quality of printing as is possible in color-rotogravure processes, but will compare with the color printing in the comics section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

THE TRIBUNE was the first to produce color rotogravure in the Sunday paper, and it was the first to present two color advertising in the daily paper. The history of these achievements which so greatly enlarged the scope of newspaper effectiveness was discussed yesterday by W. E. Mac-

RACE BETTING IS PRESENTED AS HIS DEFENSE

City's Gambling Life Told at Tax Trial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Al Capone's defense against the efforts of the United States government to send him to the penitentiary for failure to pay income taxes is that he lost most of his money in gambling on horse races.

Eight witnesses, making a sort of parade of Chicago's gambling underworld, took the stand in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's courtroom yesterday and swore to losses by Capone aggregating $200,000 during the period from 1924 to 1929, covered in the indictments.

In One Door, Out the Other.

As the case now stands, Capone's income, which was derived from his interest in gambling houses in Cicero, came from the general public, the small time, daily patrons of the handbooks. Now, according to the defense testimony, it went out the other door, tossed away in bets of thousands of dollars on one horse, in bets as high as $5,000 a day at the tracks, and in transactions with downtown gamblers at which he was always the loser.

The government attorneys did not appear worried last night over this development of the case, recalling that Gene Oliver, member of the Cook county board of assessors, made the same sort of defense in his income tax case and was convicted.

Torrio Awaits Call to Stand.

Just what the rest of the defense will be was not disclosed by Capone's attorneys. There are more witnesses of the bookmaker character and Johnny Torrio, old-time boss of the levee and Capone's first Chicago employer, waits on a bench outside the courtroom ready to take the stand for the defense.

Unless some new line of evidence is presented the defense is expected to conclude today, and there is no indication that Capone himself will go on the witness stand.

Taking the $200,000 losses testified to yesterday and the expenditures shown by the government in the case, Capone's income stands at about $100,000 a year. This, of course, does not touch any evidence in the way of a flow of gold to him through the illicit liquor traffic, for the government is saving this evidence for the conspiracy case against Capone.

Defense Tactics a Surprise.

The tactics of the defense in summoning Torrio and other witnesses who have been used by the government before the grand jury and kept dangling for months as prospective federal witnesses in this case and then discarded was somewhat of a surprise to the prosecutor's staff. The government did not call these witnesses because it was not ready to vouch for their testimony.

The prosecutors made the most of the situation in cross-examination yesterday, bringing out the character of the men with whom Capone associates, building a strong gang atmosphere around the defendant. They also prodded and badgered the defense witnesses into many admissions of gambling activities which may be of interest to the state and municipal authorities. The record has many addresses in it where gambling has been carried on for years and is going on today.

Honor Among Gamblers.

The gambler witnesses proved a naive lot, their mental outlook formed in a world of which the rural jurors could have little conception. Their word with each other goes a long way. They have a code of strict honor applied to their own business. They have little sense of being outlaws, or of doing wrong in the accepted sense. To circumvent "the law" is part of their life, a sort of game.

Capone watched them closely, sometimes an amused grin crossing his face as they told of his betting, sometimes on two or three horses in the same race, sometimes two or three thousand dollars on a horse to win and the same amount on the same horse to show.

It was a careless use of money, according to any standard. Capone always settled up, they said. His word was good to them over the telephone or given at the track. They kept no books, settled each day as it came and forgot it.

Their memories were raked by Capone and his attorneys in a con-

Radio Realism Pervades This Home and How

Mrs. Olive Muehlnicken, 31 years old, was curled up on the sofa beside the radio in her flat at 3807 Osgood street last night prepared to enjoy twenty minutes of mild fright.

The hour was 8 o'clock. The program was one of those playlets drawn from the writings of the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, reenacting the adventures of his famous detective, Sherlock Holmes.

Mrs. Muehlnicken's husband, Emil, was away at a turnverein. But the shades were closely drawn, the doors were locked, and the floor lamp gleamed cozily.

A Message from Sherlock.

From the radio floated the voice of Dr. John H. Watson, faithful companion of Holmes and author of the detective's memoirs. Dr. Watson was reading a telegram.

"Have you a couple of days to spare?" the message queried. "I have just been wired from the west of England in connection with the Boscombe valley tragedy. Shall be glad if you will come with me. Leave Paddington station at 11:15 — Sherlock Holmes."

There was the clatter of a hansom cab as Watson drove off to Paddington station. Then came the clang of engine bells and the slamming of the door of a railway coach.

Comes a Noise at the Door.

From the radio came the creak of the railway car as Watson sat back to peruse the newspaper accounts of the murder. From a more immediate spot, at Mrs. Muehlnicken's kitchen door, came another sound—footsteps. The housewife rose in alarm.

There came a scratching noise, then a knock which shook the door. Mrs. Muehlnicken shrieked and darted for the hallway. Her foot caught on the lamp cord and the room was plunged in darkness. Somehow she found the telephone.

"Help! Police!" she screamed. Within six minutes the call had been traced, a police radio alarm sounded, and Sergt. Emmett Mullaney and his squad of four were at the flat. Rushing to the rear they found a tall man in a black hat, hammering at the door.

In an instant he was searched and manacled. In another instant the door was forced and Mrs. Muehlnicken was found in a faint beside the telephone. The sergeant dashed a glass of water in her face. Slowly she revived and opened her eyes. "Emil," she exclaimed to the manacled man. It was her husband.

FLYING U. S. PRIEST, HIS NECK BROKEN, IS FOUND IN A RAVINE

Known as Flying Priest.

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Father George Woodley, flying Catholic priest, took up aviation through the influence of his brother, Arthur, a graduate of an army flying school.

Father Woodley was assigned to a remote parish, deep in the Alaskan wilderness. He used a plane to cover the wide territory of his parish.

3d 'Governor of Louisiana' Takes the Oath

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Gov. Huey P. Long had an armed force ready tonight to combat any efforts former Lieut. Gov. Paul N. Cyr might make to oust him and seize Louisiana's chief executive office.

Cyr took the oath of office as governor yesterday and announced he would attempt to remove Long and assume the governorship, on the grounds that Long has been elected to the United States senate and therefore cannot be governor at the same time.

A third "governor" appeared today when a hitherto unknown and unemployed citizen, Walter L. Aldrich of Shreveport, went before E. G. Eagle, a notary public, and took the oath as governor.

Anybody's Job, Why Not His?

"All good lawyers," he said, "know that any one may take possession of and retain abandoned property."

"If what Paul Cyr asserts be true, both in fact and in law, that Gov. Long vacated the office when he was elected to the senate, of course the office was then and there abandoned by him.

"Mr. Cyr erred in continuing to serve as lieutenant governor. Therefore, we find that the office may be abandoned and probably is abandoned, if what Mr. Cyr contends be true. All good lawyers know that any one may take possession of and retain abandoned property. The people are entitled to a governor. I am qualified for the office, probably better than some who are candidates for the office."

He Warns Other Governors.

He closed with a warning to both Long and Cyr not to interfere with his authority and said that within the next few days he would give instructions to the state department.

Squads of state highway policemen remained on duty during the day and the state capitol, with orders from Gov. Long to resist any attempt by Cyr to take over the duties of chief executive.

A special guard was placed in the office of the secretary of state, presided over by Miss Alice Lee Grosjean, with orders to eject Cyr if he came in and to arrest him if he formally pressed his claim to the governorship.

Late today Senator Alvin O. King, president pro tempore of the state senate and third in the constitution line of succession to the governorship, took the oath as lieutenant governor at the state capitol on the claim that Cyr vacated that office when he took the governor's oath in Shreveport.

Carry Relief Drive to All Chicago Today

Chicago today looks to all of its citizens who have, to give all to those who have not.

The general public is asked to help in the raising of the $8,800,000 winter relief fund for the poor and unemployed.

Although for two weeks the representatives of the joint emergency relief fund of Cook county have been soliciting funds from well to do citizens and already have raised $1,200,000, the intensive drive for funds will open in earnest today.

Hope to Fill Chest Quickly.

With one-eighth of the sum sought already in the coffer, the chief money raisers, Edward L. Ryerson, president of the fund, and Samuel Insull Jr., chairman of the fund raising campaign, expressed the hope yesterday that the public would be swift and generous and fill the chest quickly.

An army of volunteers will be abroad in the city and county, beginning today, carrying the requests for funds into every walk of life.

Twelve hundred workers in the trades, industries and professions division of the campaign will meet at the Hotel La Salle this afternoon, hear instructions from Charles S. Dewey, charman of the division, and then set out on their mission to seek systematic aid from every business house in the county.

Explain Campaign at Luncheon.

Some of the major purposes of the campaign were discussed yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce, addressed by Mr. Ryerson, Mr. Insull, and Mr. Dewey.

Mr. Dewey prepared the business men for what is in store for them. He said every worker—white collar man, mechanic, laborer—would be urged to donate one day's pay every month for the next six months. Every business house will be asked to give in proportion of its earnings. Every executive, and even the directors and stockholders of every company will be solicited for similar gifts, and in most cases, Mr. Dewey hopes, these men will be able to give much more generously.

One point was emphasized several times by the campaign leaders, and this was that every penny collected for the fund will be spent for the needy. There are no administrative costs in this campaign, no paid workers. All personnel, all materials have been donated or volunteered without cost to the fund.

The money raised will be delivered to the five major relief agencies cooperating in the campaign, and to more than 100 other charitable organizations, all accredited groups, and these agencies will undertake the distribution of funds to those who merit it.

How Money Will Be Spent.

Mr. Dewey indicated yesterday that the $8,800,000 fund will be expended approximately as follows:

For family relief	$7,350,000
Shelter and food	300,000
Child welfare	800,000
Suburban and county agencies	350,000

The campaign is to be formally inaugurated at noon today at the La Salle street entrance to the city hall, where Mayor Cermak will read a proclamation. Flags will be raised, including the emblem showing five chevrons—service stripes they are—which is the official emblem of the campaign and represents the five charity organizations participating. A drum and bugle corps will lend a martial note. Attending this ceremony will be officials of the fund and city officers.

Simultaneously in the other cities and towns of the county similar proclamations and flag raising ceremonies will be staged.

Mayor Cermak's proclamation will

JAPAN BLOCKS GENEVA

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 14.—American participation in the league of nations discussion of the Chinese-Japanese dispute in Manchuria was blocked today when Japan's delegate expressed opposition to inviting the United States to send an observer. China, however, welcomed the plan to have an American at the horseshoe table.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who is presiding at the meeting, is trying to find a solution by requesting Washington to ask to be invited instead of merely intimating it will accept if asked.

Stimson Approves Coöperation.

Prentiss B. Gilbert, American consul here, this morning delivered to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary of the league, a note from Secretary of State Stimson saying the United States is ready to assign a representative to sit with the council if the league desires.

The French foreign minister immediately called Lord Reading, British foreign secretary; Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and Gerhard von Mutius, German delegate, into a conference. All agreed that the presence of an American would help materially to overcome the Japanese resistance to interference by the league.

Yoshizawa Says "No!"

Briand then invited Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, into his parlor and for an hour and a half tried to induce the inscrutable oriental to agree. Yoshizawa stood pat on his original viewpoint that direct Sino-Japanese negotiations are the only way for his government to settle the situation and that there is no use in making a lot of bother by dragging in the Americans and other outsiders for such a trivial case.

When Briand insisted, the best that Yoshizawa would do was to promise to cable Tokio immediately asking for instructions.

Briand then summoned Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese delegate. The Nanking representative welcomed the presence of the United States.

Put It Up to Stimson.

The "big four" then held another meeting and decided that, since it is a matter of procedure, they can invite the United States by a majority vote, regardless of Japan's blackball.

Everybody agreed it would be better to settle the difficulty in a gentlemanly way, however, and while hop-

Warfare in Manchuria

MUKDEN—Warlike hostilities occurred yesterday in Manchuria when Japanese and Chinese troops clashed. Seventeen persons were killed in two battles. Japanese airplanes continued to drop bombs on Chinese soldiers.

SHANGHAI—The Manchurian provisional government withdrew from its temporary capital at Chinchow, leaving all of Manchuria in Japanese hands. New headquarters were set up in Peiping.

TOKIO, Oct. 15 [Thursday].—(AP)—The foreign office indicated today that Japan is likely to oppose proposals that an American observer sit with the league of nations' council in considering the Sino-Japanese Manchurian dispute exclusively.

However, if American participation in the league is to become permanent and include European as well as far eastern discussions, it was said Japan would welcome such a move with open arms.

Press dispatches today said Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's delegate to the league, applied to Tokio for instructions regarding the league's proposals, including that for an American delegate to participate. The Japanese delegate's query has not yet been received here.

Sees No Reason for Move.

On the strength of press dispatches, however, the foreign office emphasized that Japan is facing the Manchurian situation in the fairest manner possible.

The foreign office pointed to the fact that heretofore in not a single instance has America participated in the council's debates.

"Under the circumstances," the statement continued, "it is difficult to understand why, in the present instance, an exception should be made and America should be invited to take part in the council meetings."

ing that the Tokio government will reply favorably to Yoshizawa's query, they decided to nail the matter down by suggesting that the American state department clinch the situation by proposing to sit in instead of merely hinting it is ready to accept.

It is not believed here that Secretary Stimson will go that far, however, in view of the gingerly manner in which the Manchurian incident has been handled from Washington.

League members want Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, assigned to the job, as they believe he would be extremely helpful in exerting pressure on the Japanese.

Moscow May Seek to Get In.

If the league violates all precedent and invites the United States to sit in, the Kremlin, it is said, will ask similar dispensation on the grounds that since Russia is the nearest outside power through geographical location, and because she is especially interested in Manchuria, she is entitled to this consideration.

Moscow's demand to participate is said to have been conveyed through a third party, and it is reported that Germany and Italy will support the proposal.

Provided For in Covenant.

It is pointed out that any state not a member of the league can be invited under article IV. of the league covenant, although it is admitted that this was an oversight in the drafting of the document, which aimed to include only members.

Japan is said to be stressing the differentiation involved by inviting the United States and not Russia as one of the objections to America being present.

Briand explained the difference, however, by pointing out that Washington is a signatory of the nine power Pacific treaty of 1922. The other signatories are Holland, Belgium, Portugal, China, Japan, Italy, France, and Great Britain.

Hoover Marks Time.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover again conferred with Secretary of State Stimson on the Manchurian situation today, but no comment was forthcoming regarding the next step to be taken by this government in its efforts to bring about a settlement of the dispute between China and Japan. It is apparent that the United States will await decision by the league of nations council before making any further move.

Questioned by newspaper men at his daily press conference, Mr. Stimson denied that the United States had entered the league when Prentiss B. Gilbert, American consular representative at Geneva, was authorized to participate in the sessions of the league council, if asked by the league to do so. He asserted this country has not entered the league either through the front or back door.

Due to the machinery the league of nations has for making representations in a world emergency and the communications that have already been exchanged among all the foreign offices it will come as no surprise should the nine power treaty of 1922 guaranteeing the territorial and administrative integrity of China figure outstandingly in diplomatic representations that may be made. This treaty provides primarily for an exchange of communications in an emergency confronting China, and that has already been accomplished.

Troops Clash as Nippon Army Advances.

BULLETIN.

New York, Oct. 15 (Thursday).—The Herald-Tribune in a copyrighted dispatch from Tokio this morning says:

"The Japanese war office has been advised that George C. Hanson, American consul general in Harbin, Manchuria, and Laurence E. Salisbury, secretary of the American embassy in Tokio, who were investigating conditions in Manchuria for the United States government, were held up by Chinese bandits while on their way from Mukden to Chinchow and were obliged to turn back to Yingkow."

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Oct. 14.—An unofficial report this afternoon said Japanese troops who were sent to the Hsinmin area early this morning had met and fought with a band of 300 Chinese troops. Seven Chinese soldiers were killed, the report said. There were no Japanese casualties.

Official Japanese military reports today announced that two Japanese soldiers were killed in a clash with 300 Chinese troops yesterday morning northwest of Mukden. Eight Chinese were killed.

Japanese Aviator Wounded.

A Japanese bombing squadron reconnoitering northwest of Mukden yesterday, the Japanese announced, was also fired on and one Japanese aviator was wounded. Other aviators received bullet holes in their clothing. The planes dropped all their bombs.

Japanese planes also flew over the towns of Changwu and Kowpangtze, where Chinese troops are alleged to be congregated.

Japanese reports say that disorganized Chinese troops, some in bands of 300, are beginning to form in various districts. They carry, it is alleged, anti-Japanese banners indicating their intention to "drive on to Mukden."

U. S. Investigators Delayed.

The American commission investigating the Manchurian crisis, which was prevented from leaving Mukden for Chinchow this morning due to sudden Japanese military movements along the Chinese owned Peiping-Mukden railway, finally succeeded in leaving this afternoon.

The members of the commission were forced to take a roundabout journey over the Japanese owned South Manchurian railway line to Newchang and from there to Kowpangtze.

Due to the delay, only George S. Hanson, American consul general at Harbin, and Laurence E. Salisbury of Chicago, second secretary of the American legation at Tokio, left Mukden.

Send Report to Washington.

It is understood the United States consular authorities here have sent full details of the affair to Washington, but the complications which prevented the American commission's departure were, apparently, due to the failure of Japanese consular officials to notify the Japanese military of the commission's intention to go to Chinchow this morning.

GOVERNMENT MOVES OUT

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 15.—[Thursday.]—The provisional government of Manchuria today formally withdrew from its temporary seat at the city of Chinchow, thus leaving Manchuria wholly in the hands of the Japanese. The provisional headquarters of the government was transferred to Peiping. This move was taken following another air raid on Chinchow by Japanese planes.

Conflicting reports have been received here of bandit depredations along the Peiping-Mukden railway north of Chinchow. The entire district from that city to Hsinmin, about 65 miles south of Mukden, is in the hands of bandits. One report said they had Japanese rifles, yet flew the Chinese Nationalist flag.

Another report said military operations against Chinchow by Japanese troops was imminent. A report from Hsinmin said five Japanese troop trains, carrying cavalry and infantry, had arrived there.

Twenty passengers and two policemen were killed and nine policemen wounded in an attack on a train by bandits near Hsinmin Monday, it was revealed here today.

Meanwhile interest centered today on the purpose of the visit to Nanking of Nelson T. Johnson, American minister; Sir Miles Lampson, British minister, and the French and Spanish ministers. They arrived at Nanking from Peiping yesterday. Mr. Johnson said he had been instructed by Washington to go to Nanking, but he did not reveal why. He conferred for an hour yesterday with Frank W. Lee, acting foreign minister, and also paid a formal courtesy call upon President Chiang Kai-shek.

Break Off Negotiations.

TOKIO, Oct. 14. — (AP) — Japan and China broke off preliminary discussions today for a peaceable settlement of the Manchurian controversy.

China ordered its minister, Chiang Tso-Pin, to cease conversations with Baron Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister. The two officials had been considering the opening of direct negotiations between their governments.

The Chinese government was said to have feared the talks might be misconstrued to indicate China had yielded in her contention that before direct negotiations could take place with Japan, the latter's troops should give up Manchurian districts they seized in Manchuria on Sept. 18.

Shidehara Makes Threat.

On his part, Baron Shidehara firmly stated Japan's position that Japanese soldiers would remain in Manchuria until China gave assurance that Japanese lives and property would be protected.

How to save its "face" worried China. Chiang asserted China's face was lost when Japanese troops occupied numerous strategic cities outside the zone of the Japanese owned South Manchurian railway after one day of fighting with Chinese soldiers a month ago.

HOOVER TO PAUSE ON YORKTOWN TRIP FOR RELIEF SPEECH

The address will be made in the name of the President's unemployment relief committee, which is headed by Walter S. Gifford.

The President will leave for the sesquicentennial ceremonies probably on Saturday afternoon, motoring to Annapolis, there to board the U. S. S. Arkansas. The war vessel will cruise down the Chesapeake, reaching Newport News on Sunday.

On Monday morning the President will address the gathering at the celebration and that afternoon will review the pageant depicting Lord Cornwallis' surrender. He will be back in Washington before noon Tuesday. Mrs. Hoover is to accompany him.

The Yorktown celebration, beginning Friday, is to draw many other celebrities, among them Gen. John J. Pershing and Marshal Henri Petain. Marshal Petain heads a delegation of high ranking representatives of the French army and navy, who are expected to arrive in Chesapeake bay tomorrow aboard the French cruisers Duquesne and Suffren, under the command of Rear Admiral E. G. A. Descottes-Genon.

LOOP HOTEL PAYS $261,383 TAXES DUE LAST MAY Move Launched Against Other Delinquents.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Morrison hotel paid $261,383 yesterday on its 1929 taxes due May 15, last.

It is the first of the wealthy holders of real estate, now fighting tax assessments in the County court, to come forward with a payment of what it deemed fair. The total taxes on this property, according to Leonard Hicks, vice president and general manager, are about $300,000. The hotel company obtained a certificate of errors from the board of assessors for $19,000, and will continue to contest the remainder as unjust and illegal.

McDonough Names Committee.

Spurred by this success, County Treasurer McDonough appointed a committee yesterday afternoon "to persuade"—as he phrased it—other protesting wealthy real estate owners to pay at once the part of their 1929 taxes which they deem fair, leaving only the remainder to be contested in court. This action followed a two hour conference in McDonough's office of city and county officials on the means to be adopted to get taxes from those able to pay.

In addition to Treasurer McDonough, the committee is composed of:

State's Attorney Swanson.
County Clerk Sweitzer.
J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer.
President Wheelan of the county board.

First they will have a list compiled of the largest real estate tax payers who are protesting their taxes in the courts and haven't paid any part of their bills. From this list probably will be selected the largest owners, against which the committee plans to proceed at once. The method is yet to be determined.

Swanson Pledges Aid.

State's Attorney Swanson told the conferees that he would go along with any reasonable plan agreed upon.

County Judge Jarecki, one of the participants in the meeting, said that there was one effective method of collecting taxes from revenue producing property.

"Taxes," he explained, "are a prior lien. A receiver can be applied for and appointed to collect the rents or income for the purpose of paying the taxes."

County Clerk Sweitzer suggested that the Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission [its chairman, Joseph K. Brittain, was present at the meeting] recommend a new law for tax objectors. He would require an objector to present his tax bill for the previous year, which he had paid without protest. This amount he would require the owner to pay before filing an objection in court.

Sweitzer Charges Unfairness.

"The owner who refuses to pay any taxes before he files an objection in court," said Mr. Sweitzer, "does not give any evidence of his good faith. He goes into court with unclean hands. He doesn't play fair with the city and county."

Hayden Bell discussed at length the tax delinquency, which he said was "a tax rebellion—the result of an organized movement." He went on:

"Many of the objections filed are for the purpose of delaying tax payments. Many of these cases have no legal or factual foundation in court, but there are 200,000 tracts of land involved and it takes time to dispose of them.

"At the last session of the legislature the law was changed so that the penalty on forfeited property is now 10 per cent, instead of 25 per cent, as formerly.

"There is one feature of the situation which should be brought to your attention. It is the federal law that provides that when fraud is shown in any part of a tax assessment roll the whole roll is thereby invalidated. This federal law will sooner or later be put upon Chicago. Our tax law says that all assessable property must be taxed uniformly, and the federal courts have decided that any systematic or intentional omission of any class of property or its undervaluation invalidates the assessment roll.

"Some property owners are claiming that personal property in Chicago is intentionally and systematically left off the roll, and we must meet that situation. That issue is coming, and we must have an assessment roll that will stand up. Putting it mildly, personal property assessments have been loose, so loose that the state's attorney's office cannot apply the law."

Fox Tells of Errors.

Mr. Fox, speaking for the board of assessors, asserted that there were thousands of errors in the real estate assessments. He continued:

"The sane, sensible and honest course for us is to correct our errors. Many property owners would pay their taxes, as did the Morrison hotel, if we give a certificate of error. We haven't the funds with which to investigate and correct the errors. The property owners' division of the Oak Park real estate board offers in a letter I have to lend us $3,000 to $3,000 so that we can corect the errors in which they are interested."

Much was said about the large increase in taxes and relief for the small home owner. One of the most striking illustrations was presented by State's Attorney Swanson, who bought his lot for $2,750 and erected his home at a cost of $8,600 sixteen years ago. For taxing purposes the assessors valued his home at $13,000 and his land at $10,000.

Mr. Jacobs pleaded for action which would restore public confidence of the taxpayers in their government. He urged the use of all legal means to make the wealthy pay their fair share of taxes.

USED OLD STUFF, MA EXPLAINS WHY AIMEE FLOPPED IN BOSTON

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Minnie Kennedy Hudson tonight discussed the none too successful evangelistic sojourn in Boston of her daughter, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton.

"I am sorry to see that Aimee's Boston meeting is not going over so well," she said. "I can't for the life of me see why she used that motorcycle speeding arrest sermon at Boston.

"We used that sermon here in 1927 at a time when we actually had been given a ticket for speeding. I don't see why she went back into the old stuff for that one. I think in the first place she made a mistake in picking such a huge hall for her meeting. It is better to have a hall half that size and have it filled with some waiting outside. The poor kid, I am sorry for her."

FINED $2,350 FOR PARKING CAR 47 DAYS ILLEGALLY

Boston, Mass., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Found guilty on 47 counts of illegal parking on downtown streets, John A. Kelley, 38, of Mallon road, Dorchester, was fined a total of $2,350 by Judge Francis Good today.

More than twenty police officers testified to instances of Kelley's parking activities, dating from February to October of this year.

Prior to pronouncing sentence on 44 counts Judge Good declared:

"This man has continually sneered at the law. He is a defiant and bold type who has ridiculed both the police and the courts and has continued to do so this morning through the fact that he has failed to offer a single explanation in a single instance."

TEACHERS TAKE ACTION TO SPEED TAX COLLECTION

4,000 Ask More Judges to Clear Up Cases.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Pressure for the collection of $75,000,000 of unpaid taxes, tied up in the Cook county courts, was started yesterday by public school teachers who have been without a pay day since April.

A mass meeting of 4,000 south side teachers at the Hyde Park High school, after hearing remarks that the teachers had been getting mostly sympathy to help them out, voted to send its delegates to the county board to insist that action on backward cases be speeded up.

The program is to demand that a battery of six to ten judges be brought from downstate to help County Judge E. K. Jarecki, whose file cases are cluttered with about 200,000 cases of protested taxes.

Call Dodgers "Anarchists."

"Public enemies" and "anarchists" were terms applied by Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Republican house leader, and Michael L. Igoe, Democratic minority house leader, to those who "resort to unfair means" to tie up taxes without valid complaint. They recommended a speeding up of the hearings on the contested cases, saying that although the special session of the legislature, whenever it may be called, will pass relief bills, it will take more than a batch of new laws to give full help to the 14,000 unpaid teachers.

A suggestion that the schools be closed on Nov. 1 by the board of education, was made by Clyde A. Crowley of Senn High school. He said it might be well to close the schools to give the teachers a chance to seek something wherewith to keep the wolf from the door. He suggested that the teachers would be back in their classrooms on a day's notice.

The suggestion was cheered.

"It will get the parents aroused and we'll have another weapon," cried one teacher.

Teachers Clamor for Vote.

"Do you want to vote on it?" asked the chairman, Henry W. Sumner, principal of the Scott school.

"Yes! Yes!" was the shout.

"Wait a minute," interjected R. H. Lavell of the Hyde Park High school. "This ought not to be rushed through. The step will produce action, but what will be the reaction?"

As the question was sidetracked until the next meeting. A proposal that the teachers ask business men in their neighborhoods to form pools for the relief of needy teachers got no action.

"This idea of asking somebody for alms—why, the very thought is humiliating," exclaimed a teacher.

The teachers voted to send a delegation to ask favorable action on a petition filed with the board of education yesterday with 10,000 names, asking that the city sell some $7,000,000 of the board of education tax anticipation warrants it now holds, and reinvest the money in 1931 warrants.

Blames Nonpayment of Taxes.

Mr. Schnackenberg laid the financial troubles of the teachers to the nonpayment of taxes.

"A special session," he said, "can grant some relief, but the solution lies in the enforcement of existing laws rather than in new laws.

"Today there is $75,000,000 of unpaid taxes in Cook county, and that's why we've got no pay rolls for teachers. There are 200,000 and more parcels of real estate tied on in courts on protests. Some people have not paid taxes because of the stress of finances and they are blameless. But there are many able to pay, but unwilling to pay, and they have stopped tax collections by filing complaints.

"Some people have been going about urging that taxes be not paid. I believe any person who advocates non-payment, when he is able to pay and where there is no legal complaint, is disloyal. He is an anarchist, because he strikes at government, which cannot continue without finances. I believe such a man is a public enemy of the first water.

"Judge Jarecki told us at Springfield that so many cases were filed that it would take the rest of his term to dispose of them unless he got help. I was directed to send a letter to the county board, urging that some judges be brought in from the country to help him. We got no answer. Pressure should be brought on the county board to provide him with additional judges."

Mr. Schnackenberg said he favored a suggestion for funding 1931 taxes by the issuance of bonds to run 20 or 30 years, if it is legal.

Igoe Urges Action.

Mr. Igoe concurred again in some of Mr. Schnackenberg's remarks.

"The teachers are our bulwark against communism and disorder," said Mr. Igoe. "Sympathy is all right, but they can't live on sympathy. Try to pay a grocery bill with sympathy.

"As Mr. Schnackenberg says, if there is a public enemy it is that person who, with money to pay, will resort to unfair means to avoid the payment of fair and just taxes.

"I believe one thing that should be done is to take this six or seven million dollars out of 1930 warrants, which can be sold, and reinvest it in 1931 warrants, for which there is no market."

Gov. Emmerson's letter, saying he was unable to attend the meeting and closing with a remark about "sympathy for the teachers," was read.

Laughter greeted the reading.

"Well, well," said Chairman Sumner, "we're glad for the sympathy, but we'd be gladder if next Friday we had $100 on salary to meet the grocery and meat bills."

Unpaid Teachers Hear Plans Propounded for Their Relief

Public school teachers, who have not been paid since last April, assembled at Hyde Park High school to hear plans for their relief. They cheered when members of the legislature spoke of speeding up the collection of taxes in order to get money for the school board to meet its pay rolls. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

FINDS HUSBAND WHO DESERTED HER HERE AFTER 21 YEAR HUNT

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A 21 year search for the man she accused of deserting her and their infant son in Chicago in 1910 ended in the police missing persons bureau today. Mrs. Helen Hamilton Robeson Royse, former New York stage actress, confronted Rodman Robeson, Los Angeles real estate dealer, whom she said she thought had been killed in an Alaskan landslide in 1912.

Mrs. Royse accused Robeson of deserting her and their son in Chicago. Upon hearing the report Robeson had been killed, Mrs. Royse married Edward Royse of Pasadena. They separated after three years.

Mrs. Royse said she learned he was alive recently when his mother, Mrs. Andrew Robeson, died and bequeathed Robeson $300,000.

Robeson said he obtained a divorce from Mrs. Royce last January.

Board of Education Approves Inquiry.

Expenditure of $100,000 for a survey of the Chicago school system was authorized yesterday at a meeting of the board of education. The work is to be done under the direction of George D. Strayer, director of the institute of educational research, Columbia university. The work is to begin within two weeks, and according to the plan, is to be completed by June 1.

"Although the cost of this survey seems large, particularly at this time," said Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, trustee, "it probably will pay for itself many times over."

Plan Thorough Survey.

The survey, according to Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, is to be complete and exhaustive in both the business and educational departments. Dr. Strayer appeared at the meeting. It was made plain at the meeting that he was to have a free hand in the investigation. Buildings, contracts, and specifications, termed by a trustee "politically hot" are to be scrutinized as well as the curriculum and educational organization.

Contingent on the approval of Chapman and Cutler, attorneys, the board approved bills for a $75,000,000 bond issue for the educational fund and a $50,000,000 bond issue for building purposes.

Revenue Body to Get Plan.

These bills, with two others providing for a compensating decrease in tax levy in the event of adoption, are to be presented to the governor's revenue commission as the school board's plan for a way out of its financial crisis.

Repeating that Chicago's 18,000 school board employes have not been paid since April, Trustee Hefferan said, "It is lamentable that the board is only now coming forward with a recommendation, doing what should have been done last July."

KATHERINE PARROTT, "EX-WIFE" AUTHOR, AND BANKER MARRY

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Katherine U. Parrott, known in the writing world as Ursula Parrott, was married in the chapel in the municipal building today to Charles T. Greenwood, a banker of Brooklyn. She gave her age as 30 and his was recorded as 41.

Mrs. Parrott, the author of "Ex-Wife" and two or three other best sellers, obtained a divorce from her first husband, Lindsay Parrott, a newspaper writer, in January, 1928, she said in applying for the license, which was granted yesterday and withheld from the press. It is Greenwood's first marriage.

Mrs. Parrott was employed in an advertising office before she came into literary fame by her first "best seller," "Ex-Wife." She was so confident of the success of that story which she had long been revolving in her pretty head that she chucked her job before it was finished and set herself about to make it her long dreamed of masterpiece.

After that came "Strangers May Kiss," and one or two others perhaps not so well known. A number of short stories, one of which was subsequently made into a movie, were turned out between novels.

KILLED BY POISON FUMES.

Earl Petersen, 31 years old, was killed by inhaling poison fumes in his room at 11 North Carpenter street yesterday.

EX-CHICAGOAN KILLS WIFE AND SELF IN ARIZONA

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Orville G. Hawkins, about 65 years old, retired Chicago business man, fatally shot his elderly wife and then killed himself in their suburban home here late today. They had lived here about two years. Mrs. Hawkins, shot through the head, died soon after being taken to a hospital.

The husband left a note explaining that he was ill "and I cannot stand it any longer." He wrote he could not think about leaving his wife "to carry on alone, so I am taking her with me."

He left directions that the couple's daughter, Mrs. Floy Watrous of Evanston, Ill., be notified, and instructions as to disposition of his estate.

At the home of Mrs. Floy H. Watrous, 422 Davis street, Evanston, it was said early this morning that Mrs. Watrous was not at home and it was not known whether she had been informed of the tragedy.

MOTHER ENDS HER LIFE AS SON TAKES A BRIDE

Amid gay surroundings, Walter Hanke and Hazel Montaw were married last night at her home at 401 South 11th avenue, Maywood. A few hours earlier, unbeknown to him, his mother, Mrs. Marie Hanke, 70 years old, had ended her life by gas in her home at 6326 Cuyler avenue. Hanke did not learn of his mother's suicide until the wedding celebration was well over.

Mrs. Hanke left a note written in German, instructing her husband, August, as to arrangements for her funeral. She had laid her best dress on a kitchen chair nearby. Police were unable to locate her husband, a broom manufacturer, because he was out of town, and unable to find her son until nightfall.

EXTRA SESSION CALL EXPECTED WITHIN TEN DAYS

Brittain Revenue Report Due in Week.

A prediction that Gov. Emmerson will call a special session of the legislature within the next ten days was made yesterday after Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the governor's revenue commission, announced that he expects the executive committee of that body to complete its recommendations and make its report to the governor within a week.

The Brittain subcommittee of eleven was appointed from an original commission of forty-two, and presumably the report will go first to the full commission. It was reported yesterday that the executive committee hopes to rush the report through the main body with limited discussion.

Gov. Emmerson has said he will call a special session immediately upon the receipt of the commission's report. The executive committee has issued no formal statement on its recommendations, whether its program will call for an increase or a decrease in taxes, although it is generally believed that the committee will recommend an income tax.

Wants Appraisers Licensed.

Charles V. Barrett, chairman of the board of review, sent the Brittain committee a recommendation that the state license appraisers who appear as expert witnesses in assesment hearings, both in fixing valuations for the board of assessors and as representatives of protesting taxpayers.

Were these expert witnesses licensed, he pointed out, the licenses could be revoked and the holders forbidden to appear further in assessment proceedings in case they were found guilty of knowingly making false statements regarding the cost or dimensions of buildings.

Calls Loop Tax Trial.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday ordered that the members of the board of review appear Monday, with their records, to answer the complaints of 57 large loop property holders that the reviewers arbitrarily raised their 1928 assessments approximately $100,000,000.

The complaintants allege that the original assessments of the board of assessors, arrived at in the 1928 reassessment, were the proper valuations. After that the board of review, following complaints that the loop was underassessed, selected the property and raised the valuations.

The taxpayers complain that whereas all other property in the city, under the reassessment rules, was assessed on the basis of unit front feet, the reviewers evaluated their property on a square foot basis and then translated those valuations into unit front feet for purposes of the record. Judge Jarecki said he would try the 57 cases as one.

RICH RECLUSE SLAIN IN FIGHT WITH ROBBERS

Believed to Own $50,000 Diamond Hoard.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Louis Balfour, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary; Alex White, larceny, sentenced to one year in the bridewell by Judge George Fred Bush.

Harry Moy, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, sentenced to one year in the bridewell by Judge Walter T. Stanton.

John Leslie Ridderhof, a recluse who was credited by neighborhood gossip with having a hoard of unset diamonds worth $50,000 hidden in his shack at Oak Forest, was shot to death yesterday when he resisted an attempt by three men to rob him.

Police, in their investigation as to whether Ridderhof had possessed the gems, and whether the bandits had found them, had to sort over a large collection of curious objets d'art and jewelry, some believed to be antiques of considerable value, with which the slain man's home was crowded.

Ridderhof, they learned, formerly was a pawnbroker near Madison and Paulina streets. Before that, his neighbors said, he had been an adventurer in various parts of the world. His diamonds, according to one account, he had obtained himself in the African fields, probably as an illicit buyer, since the South African government has monopoly regulations governing export of the stones.

Builds Shack for Club.

Fifteen years ago his wife became ill and was taken to the county infirmary at Oak Forest. Ridderhof bought land at 159th street and Cicero avenue, a block from the infirmary, and built two shacks there, in one of which he lived. His wife died two years ago in the infirmary.

The other shack he called his clubhouse, and filled it with musical instruments, including several violins reputed to be worth thousands of dollars. He was an able musician.

He was also adept at repairing jewelry and other small articles, and did a large amount of such work. He was an eccentric man, his neighbors said, and unless he took a liking to a visitor, would frequently order him from the place. Since he was robbed of a valuable diamond a year ago, he had carried a .45 caliber automatic pistol constantly.

Woman Tells of Struggle.

Mrs. Louise Clausen, whose home is a hundred yards from that of Ridderhof, witnessed the murder. Her attention was drawn, she told police, when she heard the recluse shout as he rushed out of his "clubhouse." Three men, who had been in the shack where he lived, fifty feet away, ran at the same time from that building.

"They had a terrific struggle," she said. "Mr. Ridderhof's shirt was torn from his back, and one of the men ran off into the woods, holding his hand over his mouth. Then Mr. Ridderhof drew his gun, but another of the men held his arms while the third shot him."

The slayers abandoned the gun beside the body. Ridderhof died instantly, of shots through his heart and head. The men escaped, it is believed, in an automobile which they had parked nearby.

THIEF RETURNED TO ST. CHARLES.

Andrew Kricicik, 18 years old, 8805 Muskegon avenue, who was captured on Tuesday when he abandoned a stolen automobile after injuring a mother and her young daughter, was sent to the St. Charles reformatory for violating his parole yesterday.

Girl and Baby Rescued at Fire

Taken Down Ladder

Sylvia Cohen, 14 years old, and her baby sister, Alfrieda, age 2, were carried to safety by a fire lieutenant last night after they had been trapped by dense clouds of smoke in their third floor apartment at 4952 Blackstone avenue.

A fire, for which a 2-11 alarm was sounded, started in rubbish in the basement of the three story building.

A dozen families living in the building escaped unaided, but Sylvia, left alone with her sister, found her path blocked by clouds of smoke. As the fire apparatus drew up, she ran to a window and screamed to the firemen below to catch Alfrieda, whom she proposed dropping to them.

They shouted back for her to wait. Lieut. Patrick Grady of Engine company 53 ascended a ladder and carried the two children down.

A. F. OF L. VOTES AGAINST DOLE IN STORMY SESSION

Adopts 9 Point Program to Cure Depression.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Amid scenes of disorder the American Federation of Labor went on record here today as opposed to the establishment of compulsory unemployment insurance in the United States.

Delegates became noisy and milled about the convention hall after a viva voce vote was declared in support of the position of the executive council and the recommendations of the federations' resolutions committee opposing the compulsory insurance proposal.

Delegate after delegate previously had declared the federation must adopt unemployment insurance as a means to combat hunger and misery among idle workers.

Green Fights Proposal.

Calling upon the federation to "differentiate between the feelings of the heart and the mind," President William Green pleaded with the delegates not to vote for the insurance. He pledged himself to go before the congress "in the name of these suffering millions to demand without further delay appropriation of sufficient money, whether it be millions or billions, to feed the hungry."

"We cannot have unemployment insurance without surrendering part of our liberty," Green asserted. "We cannot have unemployment insurance without employment exchanges, which would compel union workers to accept employment in nonunion shops or lose their unemployment insurance.

"If we weaken and exchange our union for this plan we are to blame if our union movement is destroyed. We can do many things if we continue to organize. How can we if we strike a blow at ourselves? Let us not weaken our economic power. Let us make ourselves strong before we experiment with something that will destroy our trades union movement."

Adopt Nine Point Program.

A broad nine point program to cure unemployment ills was adopted. Individual plans designed to relieve specific phases of the economic situation were discarded.

The relief program, advanced by the federation's executive council, would maintain wages, shorten working hours, assure employment to minimum work forces, ask each employer to take on additional workers, create work through public building, strengthen employment agencies, keep young persons in school to prevent their taking jobs from men and women, give preference to workers with dependents, and provide financial relief from public and private funds.

Opposes "Prosperity Loan."

Initiation of a huge "prosperity fund" without planning for its most effective distribution would be "disastrous," the resolutions committee reported.

The lengthy report of the committee delayed consideration of the federation's stand on prohibition. The resolutions committee, asserting it was promoting the cause of true temperance, today asked the convention to adhere to labor's stand of several years for beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content. At the same time, two resolutions, one backed by the remains of the pre-prohibition Bartenders' union and the other by the Tacoma central labor council, asked repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act.

Argentine Radicals Vote to Defy Government Edict

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 14.—The Radical party today decided to defy the government's removal of former President Marcelo T. Alvear's name as a presidential candidate from the ticket in the forthcoming election, and then it urged its members to abstain from voting. Alvear is now in exile.

SENTENCED

"WEST SIDE" FRANKIE POPE.

West Side Frankie Pope was sentenced to eighteen months in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $5,000 by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Judge Barnes found Pope guilty last week on five counts in the indictment.

Aside from the penitentiary sentence Pope was sentenced to a year and six months in the county jail. These sentences will run concurrently with the federal term. They were imposed on charges of manufacturing liquor and maintaining a public nuisance. Pope's cousin, Fred Pope, was sentenced to a year and a day in Leavenworth prison, fined $1,000, and given the same concurrent sentence in the county jail.

Permission to file an appeal was granted to Attorney William F. Waugh, representing Frankie Pope, and to Attorney Harry Olson, Fred's counsel. Frankie's bond was set at $7,500, and Fred's at $5,000.

Testimony in the case was that after a government raid on a still in Melrose Park in 1929, the Popes offered the government agents bribes up to $10,000.

"SELLS" PURE OIL BUILDING FOR $7,000; JAILED

As a result of his "sale" of the Pure Oil building for $7,000, John Elberson, 3126 North 78th street, Elmwood Park, is in the county jail today waiting action by the grand jury.

He was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 Tuesday by Judge Samuel H. Trude in the Felony court. The complainants were Chester Gronczewski, Hermitage avenue and Haddon street, to whom Elbersen allegedly sold the skyscraper, and Mrs. Stephen Smolinski, 5219 Fletcher street, who charged that she lost $2,200 in a similar deal.

Both testified that Elbersen told them the properties which he showed them were heavily mortgaged. They said he told them the original equity could be purchased for a ridiculously small sum.

He was arrested after Mrs. Smolinski, to whom Elbersen gave a receipt in the name of the Chicago Title and Trust company, took it to the company's offices and found it to be a forgery. Assistant State's Attorney Donald Thompson, investigating that case, then discovered that Gronczewski had filed a similar complaint. Elbersen served eighteen months in the Joliet penitentiary for embezzlement and was released in 1918.

GROCER SLUGGED; NEAR DEATH.

Ottawa, Ill., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Charles Bach, 58, Ottawa grocer, is near death at the Ryburn King hospital suffering of two skull fractures he received when slugged with revolver butts after he had been held up and robbed by a trio of armed bandits. The robbers escaped leaving Bach in a semi-conscious condition.

FIVE KILLERS FACE DEATH TONIGHT IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Petitions for Clemency Refused.

Barring last minute reprieves, five men will walk to their death in the electric chair at the county jail a few minutes after midnight tonight. Executive clemency was refused to three of them, Frank Bell, Charles Rocco, and John Popescu, by Gov. Emmerson yesterday. The Illinois Supreme court refused a review of the case of a fourth, Frank Jordan.

The fifth of the condemned men, Richard Sullivan, had made no appeal for clemency. He sat yesterday in his cell, sullen and bitter against Bell, his partner in crime. When they were tried together, convicted, and sentenced to die for the murder during a holdup of Christ Patras, a restaurant owner, Sullivan tried to attack Bell in the courtroom, cursing him as a "stool pigeon."

Warden Pleads for Clemency.

Bell informed Warden David Moneypenny of an attempted jailbreak, and in return the warden appeared on Tuesday before the state board of pardons and paroles and asked clemency for the condemned man. By betraying the jailbreak plot, to which he was originally a party, Bell saved the lives of the warden, his assistant, George Gibson, and a number of others, Warden Moneypenny said. The plot was engineered by William Lenhardt, since executed for murder.

The parole board, however, refused to recommend clemency for Bell to Gov. Emmerson. It also advised against clemency for Rocco and Popescu. The latter two were sentenced to death for the murder of Courtney R. Merrill, South Chicago banker, whom they stabbed during a holdup attempt.

Reads Fate in Cards.

Bell sat in his cell yesterday waiting for news of the governor's action and telling his fortune with a deck of cards. He turned the jack of spades.

"A death card," he commented. Then he turned the ace of spades.

"Another one," he said, and shivered.

Jordan is under sentence of death for the murder of Policeman Anthony Ruthy, whom he killed, with Policeman Patrick Durkin, when they sought to arrest him on a charge of forgery at Randolph street and Michigan avenue. In refusing a writ of supersedeas to postpone his execution pending a review of the case the Supreme court took an unusual action.

Ordinarily every prisoner condemned to death receives a review of his case, but the high court held that the errors alleged by Jordan's attorneys to have taken place in his trial were not sufficient to justify a review.

Asks Parole for Perry.

Attorney Harry K. Curtis, son of Vice President Curtis, appeared yesterday before the parole board and asked that Ira D. Perry Jr., son of a wealthy Chicago inventor, be admitted to parole. Perry is serving a life sentence for the murder of William Schaller, a northwest side jeweler, in a robbery in 1921.

He was paroled in 1925 by a parole board under Gov. Len. Small, but widespread protests caused the board to revoke its original order. Attorney Curtis' appeal was taken under advisement.

ROB LAUNDRY MANAGER.

Two bandits yesterday forced Jacob Levin, 3805 West 13th street, a laundry manager, to draw over to the curb in his car, and robbed him of $675 in cash and $400 in checks. The holdup was committed under the Rock Island railroad viaduct at 43d and La Salle streets.

PARLEYS TO END MOVIE-UNION WAR ARE BROKEN OFF

Theater Owners Refuse to Treat Further.

All negotiations for peaceful settlement of the struggle between the Allied Independent Theater Owners' association and the Motion Picture Operators' union over wages and working conditions were suddenly broken off last night.

AARON SAPERSTEIN.

Aaron Saperstein, president of the theater association, notified Corporation Counsel Sexton at 5 p. m. that his group, at a meeting in the Auditorium hotel, had voted unanimously to reject a compromise offer presented by Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the union, at a conference Tuesday in Mr. Sexton's office.

Refuses to Compromise.

"We refuse to treat with the union representatives any longer," Saperstein told the corporation counsel. "The situation has now reached a pass where we must stand on our present lines or be driven out of business. There can be no compromise.

"Every time we conferred with the union agents and showed any disposition to stand for our rights a theater was bombed," Saperstein asserted. "We are hoping that, with the conferences called off, the bombers will be called off also."

The corporation counsel expressed doubt as to the wisdom of the course announced by the owners. Recalling that the dispute originally arose when the owners balked at the union rule requiring employment of two operators in each theater, regardless of the owner's ability to pay, Mr. Sexton declared that the compromise offered by Maloy was, in his opinion, reasonable.

Explains Union Offer.

"The union offered to waive the two man rule in 27 of the 37 theaters involved," said Mr. Sexton. "In these 27, the hardest pressed of the organization, the union agreed to allow the owner or manager to assist the operator. In the other 60 theaters the union agreed to a 20 per cent wage cut. I deemed this offer reasonable and urged the owners to accept it."

Saperstein countered with a declaration that the owners were fighting for financial preservation and for a principle. None of the owners was in a position to pay two operators and show a profit, he declared.

A general order to shoot to kill all bombers was issued by Police Commissioner Allman at noon following a conference with Mayor Cermak.

Commissioner Allman refused to comment on published reports that he intended posting four or five picked sharpshooters in concealment around each theater with orders to pour forth rifle fire upon the approach of suspected bombers.

"What do you expect?" he countered to a question on the subject. "These bombers are marauders of the most vicious type. They shall be treated as such."

James Belcastro, so-called "king of the bombers" and "public enemy," was questioned early this morning as to his knowledge, if any, of the series of movie house bombings. Belcastro and two companions, James Adducci, mentioned in the purported letter of Mike (De Pike) Heitler, vice monger, as the owner of the Floridian taxi dance hall, and Philip Mango, were arrested shortly after midnight at Loomis and Van Buren streets.

FINDS BANK POOL PLAN IS FREEING HOARDED MONEY

Bankers Now Confident, State Auditor Says.

Banking conditions in Illinois have been greatly benefitted by the bank pool now being formed under the Hoover plan, State Auditor Oscar Nelson said yesterday, and now that the turning point has been reached they will become better. Hoarded money is being returned to the banks in noticeable amounts and confidence is being restored to depositors and bankers, he said.

The auditor, who has supervision over all state banks in Illinois, said he has interviewed many bankers in the last few days and had received encouraging news.

Bankers Now Confident.

"Instead of coming here gloomy the bankers are now possessed of the returning confidence they should have had long ago," his statement said. "President Hoover's move is the most constructive thing that has happened in the country in the last two years. The public is responding by putting money back into the banks."

Asked how the pool would help closed banks, Auditor Nelson replied: "It will automatically help the closed banks because it will help business and will make the assets of these banks worth more."

Two legal actions are preventing the payment of a dividend of between 10 and 20 per cent to the depositors of the closed Humboldt State bank, Mr. Nelson declared. There is $350,000 in cash on hand, but a suit has been filed by County Treasurer McDonough alleging a preferred claim of $180,000, and another suit has been filed by the Humboldt Bond and Mortgage company, the officers of which were the same as the former officers of the bank. McDonough's claim is that the money was collected from taxpayers and was held in trust and not as a deposit, but the attorneys for the receiver are resisting that claim, Mr. Nelson said.

Reports on Closed Bank.

A report on the condition of the closed Garfield State bank as of Aug. 31 was made public by the state auditor's office yesterday. It showed the bank has $470,866 cash on hand and owes depositors and creditors $4,747,572. Other assets were listed as follows:

Stocks and bonds	$ 369,210
Loans and discounts	1,992,938
Real estate loans	2,455,109
Accounts receivable	277,282
Banking house	562,537
Other real estate	11,294
Furniture and fixtures	21,862
Other assets	37,717

The receiver has incurred losses of $155,472 in converting assets into cash and has had expenses of $13,999, the report showed.

SHORTWEIGHT FINES $6,845.

City Sealer Joe Grein has obtained fines totaling $6,845 against dishonest merchants since he took office. The last batch of fines, totaling $313, were imposed on shortweight merchants in the Municipal court of Judge John Sbarbaro on Tuesday.

ALIENATION SUIT FOR A MILLION DOLLARS SETTLED BY HEIRESS

MRS. MURIEL JOHNSON. [Acme Photo.]

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—A settlement out of court has resulted in a discontinuance of the $1,000,000 action for alienation of affections brought by Muriel Johnston, night club entertainer, against Adele Ryan, granddaughter of Thomas Fortune Ryan, it was disclosed today through a court order signed by Supreme Court Justice George V. Mullan.

Reports that the case was settled for $40,000 could not be confirmed the case was dropped.

Robert Johnston, over whom the suit arose, died with several companions when their sloop, the Sea Fox, foundered in Long Island sound last summer during a week-end cruise. He was graduated from Leland Stanford university about ten years ago and his wife was a popular girl who lived near the campus. His ability to play a banjo and her crooning voice decided them upon marriage to try their luck as entertainers in Paris, where they were immediately successful.

They played together at various continental resorts and in London. It was while they were in France and England that Mrs. Johnston charged that her husband began paying attention to Miss Ryan.

PARDON BOARD HAS LUCAS PLEA; OBJECTOR HEARD

Brother of Victim Doubts Pond Confession.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Jesse Lucas, who was paroled recently after serving twenty-three years in prison for a murder to which another man confessed, appealed today to the state board of pardons and paroles for complete exoneration.

His appeal was opposed by J. U. Showalter of Kansas City, brother of Clyde Showalter, the slain man. Showalter cited that the killing occurred nearly thirty years ago, that Lucas was not convicted until five years later, and warned the board not to take hasty action.

The board, after meeting briefly in executive session, adjourned without making a report on the Lucas case. The board will meet again tomorrow.

Lucas' Friends Appear.

J. A. Lampkin, former city attorney of Mount Carmel, Ill., and T. B. Wright, mayor of Mount Carmel, spoke in behalf of Lucas, who was not present. Lampkin told how George Pond, confined to his deathbed in the home of Mrs. Amas Smith in Decker, Ind., had confessed to killing Showalter and two other persons, a blacksmith and his own wife. The confession was made, Lampkin said, after a doctor told Pond he could not recover and warned him, "If you've got any matters to arrange in this life, it must be done soon."

Lampkin said that Pond, facing death, called for Mrs. Smith "to pray for his soul" and that she urged him to confess his sins, which he did—including the three slayings. He died a few days later without repudiating the confession, the attorneys said.

Meet Victim's Brother.

Mayor Wright, who long has been a champion of Lucas' innocence, and Showalter met outside the room after both had spoken.

"I'm sorry I had to step on your toes," Showalter said.

"Why did you have to come here?" Wright asked.

Showalter replied that he had come only to see that justice was done his brother's slayer and that members of his family would abide by the board's decision.

Wright urged the board also to recommend that the state recompense Lucas for the twenty-three years he spent in prison.

COSGRAVE WINS FIRST BATTLE ON SEDITION BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 14.—The government of William T. Cosgrave achieved its first victory in the Dail Eireann today by passing on first reading the new bill dealing with sedition by 82 votes to 64. The entire procedure occupied only a few minutes. Only six members of the Dail were absent. The full attendance proved that attempts to intimidate deputies from attending were futile.

The text of the bill shows the drastic nature of the government's proposals. The bill provides for a special tribunal of five military officers to try cases of a political nature and to punish offenders if they think fit.

No appeal is possible. Death sentence may be inflicted.

SUE McLEAN FOR $17,655 IN FINERY WIFE DIDN'T GET

Store Says Woman Used Charge Account.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Suit was brought in the District Supreme court today to collect $17,655.75, plus interest, from Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, for women's clothing and jewelry allegedly purchased by him from a New York shop for an unidentified woman.

Counsel for Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, the publisher's wife, asserted that she and McLean had separated six months before the account was opened. Mrs. McLean declares the articles were not purchased for her and that she received none of them. She filed suit for divorce from McLean a short time ago.

Among the articles said to have been purchased were a $4,000 gray broadtail coat, expensive lingerie, perfume, gowns, hats, shoes, and costume jewelry.

The suit was brought by attorneys for the Bergdorf-Goodman company of New York. It seeks to collect on an alleged overdue promissory note executed last June 29 by McLean in payment of the bill totaling $18,688.61.

A charge account, the suit alleges, was opened Nov. 23, 1929, and in accordance with McLean's instructions thousands of dollars' worth of wearing apparel delivered to a woman.

ANNUL WEDDING OF ELOPERS AT U. OF CHICAGO

The runaway marriage of Mary Dorothy Trude and William H. Sills, fellow students at the University of Chicago and members of well known families, was annulled yesterday by Circuit Judge William V. Brothers.

Young Sills is 16 years old and his bride 18. They eloped on Sept. 25 to Crown Point, Ind., the day they registered for their classes at the university. The newlyweds returned to their respective homes, and since have agreed with their parents that it would be better to dissolve the marriage until they grow older, former Judge George A. Trude, great-uncle of the bride, and Attorney Edward D. Pomeroy, representing the Sills family, told Judge Brothers.

Millions gargling for "dear life" while bad breath still hangs on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that must be used full strength. We've discovered a new antiseptic that, even when diluted with two parts of water, kills germs in 10 seconds.

GARGLING may clear your conscience but fail to clear your breath. That happens to millions. Why? Because they gargle with antiseptics that can't kill germs when mixed with water. They fool themselves. But not bad breath—nor cold's—nor sore throat.

If you dilute your antiseptic use one that kills germs when diluted. To check bad breath due to unhygienic mouth conditions destroy the germs that cause it.

A radical new antiseptic discovery

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic from 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you have been using.

COLDS, SORE THROAT

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when fighting bad breath. For at the same time it combats colds and throat irritations. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery! Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with one or even two parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in ten seconds. That's where other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in fighting bad breath.

New security against bad breath (Halitosis*)

Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use, 95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs remains reduced by 75%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics. And remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic to check bad breath you are doing double duty by also fighting colds.

$3 worth for $1

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix them with water is a waste of money. Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. That means every $1 bottle does what 3 bottles of other mouth antiseptics do. Goes 3 times as far—you get $3 worth for $1 . . . a saving of $2.

Checking bad breath and combating colds are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you traveling.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool bad breath.

REFUTE EDISON DEATH RUMOR; HE GROWS WEAKER

Inventor's Strength Fails Gradually.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison continued to grow weaker today in his home in Llewellyn Park, where he has been suffering from a complication of diseases since early in the summer. The 84 year old inventor remained in a condition of stupor verging toward coma most of the time.

Early tonight his death was rumored, but was promptly denied after this information had been broadcast by telegraph and wireless.

Refute Death Rumor.

In response to these rumors the following statement, signed by Dr. Robert Howe, was issued shortly after 9 p. m.:

"I have just made definite inquiry at the Edison home and find that Mr. Edison is resting quietly and that his condition shows no signs of an immediate emergency."

Although his recovery is impossible, there is still no immediate prospect of the end, Dr. Howe said. Only a slow ebbing of his strength and vitality is perceptible, according to the physician.

"Mr. Edison occasionally wakes up from the somnolence into which he has fallen," said Dr. Howe before he returned to New York this morning. "He smiles and it would seem that he recognizes those about him. As a matter of fact, he is quite unaware of what is going on and even if he were this would not be an indication of recovery."

No Fluid in Nine Days.

From time to time the sick man is carried to his arm chair, that he may have the benefit of a rest in a changed position, Dr. Howe said. Mr. Edison has now taken no fluids in nine days and has had only six spoonfuls of stewed pears since last Sunday.

This afternoon the aged inventor was "less easily aroused" than he had been this morning, but otherwise no change in his condition was apparent, his son, Charles Edison, said in the regular afternoon bulletin.

A bulletin issued at 10 p. m. by Charles Edison read:

POLICE NAB 20 IN GAMBLING RAIDS; CARRY WARRANTS

Capt. Martin Mullen's gambling raiders obtained eight search warrants yesterday, scurried about from place to place, and returned with twenty prisoners, reams of racing sheets, crap tables, dice cards, and other gambling paraphernalia. This is the first time since Mayor Cermak put Capt. Mullen in charge of the gambling detail and gave him his pick of the police department that warrants were obtained in advance of the raids.

Mayor Cermak and several of the judges had clashed over the raiding without warrants.

Lieut. Martin McCormick said that in deference to that decision policemen were sent into the various places to make bets on horse races. Having made bets they were in a position to swear to warrants alleging that gambling existed there and were duly authorized then to go and make arrests.

The places raided and the prisoners taken were as follows: 1036 North State street, 5 men; 338 West Van Buren street, 3 men; 36 West Randolph street, 7th floor, 2 men; 39 West Adams street, 3 men; 9 South Sangamon street, 2 men; 950 West Madison street, 1 man; 551 West Madison street, 2 men; 14 North Halsted street, 2 men.

2 U. S. EMPLOYES SUSPENDED FOR PLACING WAGERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Two state department messengers were suspended today for a month without pay when it was learned that they had been acting as intermediaries between racing bookmakers and employés of the department.

The suspended messengers are John N. Savage, attached to the near eastern division, and William D. Evans of the visa office. They have been in the state department service since 1910 and 1916, respectively.

The department, in announcing the suspension of Savage and Evans, stated that only their long service and satisfactory records saved them from more drastic punishment. The messengers were said to have received small commissions for placing the bets during office hours. There is a definite government regulation forbidding employés to gamble in any way during office hours.

CAPONE CLAIMS $200,000 LOSS ON HORSE RACES

City's Gambling Life Told by Defense Witnesses.

ference at the Lexington hotel last Monday night. It happened this way, according to several of the witnesses. "One of the boys" at the gang headquarters called them up and said that "Al wanted to see them" at 8 o'clock that evening. They were all promptly on hand, including Torrio. And Capone pumped this at them:

"How much did I lose during 1924 on your books?" They figured it out and told the story on the stand yesterday from rough estimates.

Pete Penovich Is Heard.

Pete Penovich was the most interesting witness of the day. He was one of the managers of the Capone syndicate gambling houses in Cicero and has figured in the government evidence.

Placed on the stand by Defense Attorney Albert Fink, he said that he had testified before the grand jury and had been kept under subpoena by the government for 16 months, going to the federal building almost daily. And then they did not use him. He identified an exhibit in his handwriting, giving the amounts paid out after a month of gambling operations in the Hawthorne Smoke shop in Cicero.

It was Penovich's contention that Ralph Capone was the boss of this place. He did not admit that any "higherups" controlled it, or that he was forced to give up a place of his own and go into the Capone syndicate.

His Story on Ralph Capone.

Penovich told a story that might interest the officials of Cicero and the county. He was running a small place in Cicero, he said, and then decided to go in with Ralph Capone on a 25 per cent basis. Later he was cut down to 5 per cent. The prosecutor sought to show that he was forced out, but got another reason as to why Penovich tied up with Ralph Capone.

"I understood that Ralph was a fixer," the witness said.

"In what way?"

"He was in a position to take care of the powers who were in a position to stop me."

Questioned as to what he meant by "powers," Penovich said the police, state's attorney, mayor, sheriff. He was referring to Cicero and to Cook county.

Liederman Gives Some Light.

George Liederman, a bookmaker since 1923, gave more light on what is going on around town. He formerly ran the Rendezvous night club, where Capone was a frequent visitor, and more recently ran the Diversey Parkway club, at Diversey and Broadway. There was roulette and faro there and other gambling, he said.

"Who were your associates in that club?" asked the prosecutor.

The defense objected strongly to this, but the answer was allowed.

"Who are they?"

"Well, most of them are dead now."

There was a murmur and stir in the room and so many persons got up in the rear, either to leave the room or to crush forward, that Judge Wilkerson ordered the marshal to clear the room unless the disturbance was quieted.

The next witness was Sam Rothchild. He is in the cigar business on Wells street. He was making books on the races until last month, when he was told to quit.

"Who told you to quit?" asked the prosecutor.

"The law."

He said he was taking no bets now, but that it was "an off and on" business, and smiled about it.

Other bookmakers who testified admitted that they were operating in violation of the law.

THE MORNING SESSION

The morning session opened with the renewal of a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty by Attorney Fink. This was to make certain that the motion was in correct form, for the purpose of the record. Judge Wilkerson overruled the motion, as he had on Tuesday, and the first defense witness, Milton Held, a race bookmaker, was called to the stand. He was questioned by Attorney Fink.

Q.—Have you had any transactions with the defendant Alphonse Capone? A.—Yes, while I was taking oral bets at Hawthorne in 1924 and 1925. I would take a bet and settle the next day.

Q.—Did he win or did you? [Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green objected, declaring that the witness should be required to place the time and testify as to individual transactions. The court ruled that the witness might testify as to the net result if he knew.] A.—He lost, I judge, about $12,000.

Q.—And when you say you judge, does that mean to the best of your recollection? A.—It does.

Green Cross-Examines.

Q.—What is your occupation? A.—I lay off bets.

Q.—Did you ever know Johnny Torrio? A.—Yes, I rented an office from him at 50 East 22d street, seven or eight years ago.

Q.—What was your first transaction with the defendant? A.—At Hawthorne in 1924.

Q.—Name any horse he ever bet on with you. A.—I am not able to do that.

Q.—How did you arrive at the amount of $12,000 which you say he lost? A.—That's just an estimate.

Q.—Are you positive he lost? A.—Absolutely. [Capone watched the witness intently and seemed satisfied with the testimony. The jurors appeared listless.]

Q.—How much did Capone bet at a time? A.—$200 or $300.

Q.—How many customers did you have who bet that much? A.—Two or three.

Q.—Did he have much of a roll when he paid you? A.—Yes, he usually had quite a lot of money, mostly in $100 bills. Sometimes he had $500 bills.

Q.—Who refreshed your recollection as to the losses sustained by the defendant? A.—Attorney Fink asked me and that's what I told him.

Q.—Where did you discuss your testimony first? A.—At the Lexington hotel, Monday night. Somebody called me up and I went there. Mr. Fink, Mr. Capone, Mr. Ahern, and a lot of bookmakers were there.

Q.—Who rang you up? A.—I don't know; one of Al's boys.

Q.—Did you discuss the case again? A.—Well, I went back last night at 8 o'clock and Al asked me if I'd be here this morning at 10 o'clock.

Q.—Did you treat that as a demand? A.—I don't think so. [Mr. Fink objected to what he termed the badgering of his witness, but was overruled.]

Second Bookmaker Called.

The witness was excused and Oscar Gutter, another bookmaker, was put on the stand. He was a stocky little man, dark of complexion. He carried his derby to the stand and Judge Wilkerson told a bailiff to take the hat.

Q.—[By Mr. Fink]—Where do you live? A.—The Sherman hotel.

Q.—What is your business? A.—I'm in the commission business, a broker. I handle sporting events, mostly on horses.

Q.—During 1927 did you have any transactions with the defendant Alphonse Capone? A.—Yes, I laid off bets for him during the Chicago racing season.

Q.—Did he lose sometimes? A.—Most of the time.

Witness Under Cross Fire.

Prosecutor Green took up the cross-examination of Gutter.

Q.—How did you first meet the defendant? A.—He called up to place a bet.

Q.—How was his reputation for credit established? A.—From what I knew about him from other bookmakers. I knew that he was fair.

Q.—How did you remember that he lost $60,000? A.—My ledger showed that at the end of the season.

Q.—I thought you didn't keep any books? A.—Well, I kept them from month to month so that I could pay my income tax. [A ripple of laughter followed this.]

Q.—Why didn't you keep them permanently? A.—Well, it was an illegitimate business.

Q.—Did you pay the defendant in checks or currency when he won? A.—I always paid him in currency, because he requested that. I called at the Metropole hotel and paid him if he won or collected if he lost.

PENOVICH ON STAND

The next witness called was Pete Penovich.

Q.—[By Mr. Fink] What is your name? A.—Peter P. Penovich Jr. [The full name was pronounced with emphasis to the amusement of spectators.]

Q.—You are the Pete Penovich who has been referred to in the testimony in connection with the Smoke Shop gambling house? A.—Yes, sir. [Penovich has been described in previous testimony as manager of the gambling house.]

Q.—Were you questioned before the grand jury with reference to who were the owners of the place? A.—Yes, sir. [Mr. Fink then obtained "exhibit 3" from Prosecutor Green and showed it to the witness.]

A Grand Jury Witness.

Q.—How many times have you been down here to the federal court to attend the grand jury, or how long have you been under subpoena before the grand jury? A.—With the exception of December, January, and February, for the last sixteen months.

THE COURT—Have you been down here every day? A.—Very near every day.

MR. FINK—Cross-examine.

THE COURT [to Mr. Fink]—What is that document that you have just shown the witness?

MR. FINK—That is apparently a list of the owners of this gambling house, with amounts set opposite their respective names, from which it can be ascertained exactly the percentages in which they owned the business.

"I move to strike out Mr. Fink's remarks as unsworn testimony," said Assistant United States Attorney Samuel G. Clawson. The other government lawyers and Defense Attorneys Fink and Michael Ahern assembled at the bar and there was a discussion which Capone bent forward to hear.

THE COURT—Well, in what connection was that exhibit introduced?

MR. AHERN—In connection with the witness Shumway. [L. S. Shumway, cashier of the gambling house, who has testified for the government.]

MR. FINK—I proved by this witness [Penovich] that it is in his handwriting.

MR. CLAWSON—I move to strike out the testimony, with the exception of the statement that it is in his handwriting, as incompetent.

The motion was overruled.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION

Q.—You say that is in your own handwriting? I show one item marked "Town" and marked "paid." Now, when you marked "paid" down on that and then the amount of $6,537.42, that meant you paid that amount? A.—No, I didn't pay it. I wrote it; that is an exact copy of the document I received at the expiration of every month, from Ralph Capone, and I entered it in that book, just the way I received the disposition of the money.

Q.—There is another item here marked "J" and "A," and also marked paid. Did you pay that amount? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you pay any of the amounts? A.—No, sir.

Money Given to Ralph Capone.

Q.—Did you give anybody any money for those amounts? A.—I gave money to Frankie Pope and to Ralph Capone, at different times.

Q.—Now, there is a total here of $32,687. Did you give anybody any money for that amount? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Well, then, all you did was a little handwriting? A.—No, as the money would accumulate, I would give it to Frankie Pope and then it would be distributed. [Capone became much concerned about this testimony, for the government presumably was attempting to show that the initials "A" and "J" referred to himself and to Jack Guzik and that they received a percentage of the profits.]

Q.—Did you have anything to do with the horse bets? A.—No, they were handled by Frankie Pope.

Q.—Well, Frankie Pope was under you then? A.—No, Frankie Pope was the man I was supposed to take orders from. He and Ralph Capone.

A Partner in the Place.

Q.—What was your interest in the place? A.—Well, my interest varied. Originally I was supposed to have an interest of 25 per cent.

Q.—You were one of the partners? Was Frankie Pope one of the original partners? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—When did he become your boss? A.—Shortly after we opened, in May, 1924. Ralph Capone told me there would be a different disposition of the money.

Q.—Did it suit you to be cut down, to be made an underling? A.—No. I told Ralph I wanted to know why I was cut down, and he said: "Well, we had to make different arrangements. You go along and I will take care of you."

Q.—What did you say about being under Frankie Pope? A.—Well, I condescended to it. [Laughter followed this remark and Capone smiled.]

Q.—Now is it not a fact that you were declared out of your own business? A.—No, sir. I had a bad business, at a railroad crossing. I asked Ralph about changing my location.

Calls Ralph the Fixer.

Q.—Why did you speak to Ralph? A.—Because I understood he was the boss and could do the fixing for me.

Q.—Fixing with whom? A.—Political powers, the police, anybody that might be in a position to stop me.

Q.—Is it not a fact that you had to talk to Ralph because the gang or the organization in Cicero would not let you run? A.—Well, I ran before that without Ralph. The main reason was that I thought I could make more money and I had to have connections whereby I would not be molested.

Q.—Molested by whom? A.—Police officers, the state's attorney, the mayor, the sheriff—authorities that are in a position to hear you. [Everybody in the court struggled to hear this testimony. The witness, having a cold, was scarcely audible. He is a large man, with black hair and small black eyes. He talked volubly and without hesitation.]

He Hears from Ralph.

Q.—What made you think that Ralph could do you any good? A.—From what I had heard he could do lots of good in that respect. I heard from Ralph himself.

Q.—What connection did Ralph have that made you think you would not be molested? A.—Well, he seemed to be prosperous and he was catered to. He says: "Stay here until after the election and I'll take care of you, so you can make some money."

Q.—Now, by being molested, was that merely by the police? A.—Well, we have the police to contend with; gambling, anywhere outside of Nevada, is considered illegitimate, and the sheriff, state's attorney, the town police, any of them are in a position to arrest you and confiscate your equipment.

Denies Syndicate Molestation.

Q.—Now, Penovich, isn't it a fact that you had to secure protection from being molested by that syndicate? A.—No, sir.

Q.—I think you testified before the grand jury—

MR. FINK—I object to that; the grand jury is a secret proceeding.

MR. CLAWSON—He is subject to being impeached by his own testimony.

THE COURT—He can use it to impeach the witness.

Q.—Were you questioned on Tuesday, April 14, in the matter of the United States versus Alphonse Capone and asked about your conversation with Ralph Capone on the matter of opening up the Hawthorne Smoke Shop? A.—Yes.

Quizzed on Jury Testimony.

Q.—Now, were you asked this question by Mr. Green and did you make this answer: "Question: 'What made you think that Capone was influential?' Answer: 'By the way he acted and the amount of money he used to bet, general carriage and rumors that went around.'"

Mr. Fink objected and was overruled. There followed a long interchange at the bar, with the defense objecting on going into the grand jury testimony on the ground that no foundation had been laid and that the testimony was not material to the issue. The court requested that the grand jury testimony be written up for a later ruling and the noon recess was taken, with Penovich still on the stand.

The court again warned the jurors not to permit any one to discuss the case with them.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION

Penovich resumed the stand at 2 p. m. but was withdrawn by the government after Mr. Clawson had asked one question.

MR. CLAWSON—Isn't it a fact that you made a deal with Al Capone to open the Smoke Shop in Cicero because you had to agree to "cut" with the organization?

Attorneys Fink and Ahern both objected.

THE COURT—[To Mr. Clawson]—My understanding of the rule [of cross-examination] is that in order to impeach a witness you must do it on something which has been gone into on direct examination.

Judge Wilkerson then allowed the government to withdraw the witness and recall him later if arguments outside the hearing of the jury are sustained.

Liederman Takes Stand.

"George Liederman," called Mr. Fink, summoning the next witness. A man of medium height, soberly dressed, and with dark hair and a composed face, took the stand. He spoke carefully during his entire testimony.

Liederman said he had been a bookmaker since 1923, had known Capone since 1924, and had met him in the Rendezvous café, Diversey parkway and Broadway, which Liederman then operated.

In 1924, said the witness, he was operating a handbook at the June race meeting at the Hawthorne track with Sam Rothchild, one Allenberg and Bob Levy, the latter a New York bookie who was induced to come to Chicago by Liederman and Rothchild.

Q. [by Mr. Fink]—Did Capone place bets with you at Hawthorne? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—In what amounts? A.—Sometimes $500, sometimes $1,000; maybe he would bet on two or three horses the same race.

Q.—Have you a record of these bets, or the figures on the transactions? A.—No, sir, we didn't keep the records.

Q.—What were the results of his operations with you during the season? A.—He lost $14,000 or $15,000 with me in 1924 and about $10,000 in 1925.

Cross-Examined by Green.

Prosecutor Green conducted the cross-examination. Liederman first denied that Frankie Pope had had any connection with the Rendezvous, had had the gambling concession there or that any gambling had taken place. Mr. Green then asked about the racing bets.

Q.—What was the amount of Capone's first bet? A.—I don't remember, it was so long ago.

A.—Did he ever win? A.—Yes.

Q.—How much? A.—I can't remember.

Q.—How did you remember that he lost? A.—Rothchild and I recalled it.

Mr. Green then inquired as to when Liederman first talked about his testimony in the case. The witness said this was last Monday when he received a phone call that Capone wanted to see him at the Lexington hotel. Liederman was then at the City Hall Square hotel, which he owns. He went to the Lexington.

Q.—What were you asked? A.—I was asked how much Capone lost, and I said that I would ask Rothchild, so I called him up and he came down.

Q.—Why didn't you ask Capone to come to your hotel and see you? A.—It never entered my mind.

The Gusenberg Brothers.

Q.—Did you ever work for the Gusenberg brothers [Frank and Pete Gusenberg, who were killed in the St. Valentine's day massacre in 1929]? A.—No.

Q.—Have you an office now? A.—Yes, 100 North La Salle street. I've been there three years.

Q.—You've been operating this illegal business since 1924? A.—If you call it that.

Q.—Did you ever have any other dealings with Capone except this betting association? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever have any business relations with the Weinstein jewelry concern? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you guarantee a diamond belt buckle account there for Capone? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then you did have other dealings with him? A.—They asked me about him and I told them of the betting and said that as far as I knew he was O. K.

ROTHCHILD IS QUIZZED

Rothchild, Liederman's partner, was the next witness. He lives at 420 Surf street, he said, is a bookmaker, and has known Capone since 1924. He said he believed the defendant bet ten or fifteen days during the 1924 Hawthorne meeting. He remembered the amount of most of the bets as in the thousands of dollars, he said, "maybe $5,000, $3,000 or $2,000."

Q.—[By Mr. Fink]—How do you happen to remember them? A.—Because they were a little out of the ordinary. Sometimes we didn't take them all.

Q.—How much did he lose? A.—I'd say he lost from $12,000 to $15,000 in 1924 and about $10,000 in 1925.

So Many He Can't Remember.

Like his partner, Rothchild had difficulty, on cross-examination, in recalling the amount of Capone's first bet with him or his last bet.

MR. GREEN—You don't remember them even if they were unusual?

Rothchild waved his hand and smiled indulgently. "There were so many of them," he explained.

Q.—Did Capone lose every day he bet? A.—Yes, but he didn't lose every bet.

Q.—Was he a good loser? A.—O, yes.

Rothchild also told of the trip to the Lexington hotel Monday night to talk of Capone's bettings and losings.

Q.—Why didn't you ask him to come and see you? A.—[With a smile]—There was nothing wrong in going to see a man if he wanted to see you, I thought. I had lots of time.

Ike Bloom's Brother Testifies.

Sam Gitelson, sometimes known as Bloom, a brother of Ike Bloom, who operated Chicago cabarets in his later years and before that had a hand in the doings on the old 22d street levee, was the next witness.

Gitelson, bald, aquiline and soft spoken, rarely raised his voice to a pitch where even the jury could hear him. He was never a bookmaker, he said, but "recorded bets" for his brother when Ike was in the business in 1926.

He was not a satisfactory witness for the defense, if Mr. Fink's impatience was a barometer. Gitelson did not appear to have much definite knowledge of Capone's dealings, but did say, after a long examination, that the defendant's losses in 1926 were $25,000. The books of the place were destroyed a week after they were made, the witness said, adding that the only thing he knew of the transactions was what his brother had told him.

"Gambling Broker" Heard.

Joe Yario, self-styled "gambling broker"—an appellation which seemed to tickle the courtroom crowd—followed Gitelson on the stand. Yario's establishment in 1926 and 1927 was at 1009 Taylor street, and Capone, whom he has known nine years, came there often to bet.

Yario was a gesticulating witness, waving his hands as he described the "two, three thousand" dollar bets and the "two, three, ten thousand" dollar losses which he said the gangster incurred. But his memory was blank when it came to the actual sums of individual bets and losses.

At one time Judge Wilkerson asked him, "Do you know what it is to remember anything?"

"I never kept no books," explained Yario. He was certain, however, that Capone had lost $20,000 or $30,000 in 1926 and $25,000 or $30,000 in 1927. He was cross-examined by Mr. Green.

No Higher than $40,000.

Q.—Would you say that was $40,000 instead of $30,000? A.—Maybe it went that high.

Q.—But you wouldn't go higher? A.—No, I don't think so.

When asked where Capone or his agents had found him in order that he, too, might go to the Lexington hotel and refresh Capone's memory as to his losses, Yario said he had been reached in his hangout, a "soft drink parlor."

Q. [Mr. Green]—O, a speakeasy? A.—I don't know what you would call it. I call it a soft drink parlor.

Harry Belford, who described himself as a "speculator" for twenty-five years, was the last witness of the afternoon. Capone placed bets with him in 1927, Belford said, losing $20,000 or $25,000 in his transactions. He recalled, he said, that Capone's bets were usually not less than $1,000 and that he "rarely paid him off." He was being cross-examined when court adjourned until this morning.

BARE SECRET VISIT OF CAPONE MAN TO IMPRISONED BURKE

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—A possible connection between Al Capone and Fred Burke, notorious criminal now serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary here for the murder of a St. Joseph policeman, was disclosed today when it was learned that Philip D'Andrea, Capone's bodyguard, had paid a secret visit to Burke in his cell several months ago.

D'Andrea was identified as Burke's visitor through photographs which have appeared in the newspapers since the bodyguard was arrested for carrying a revolver at the income tax trial of Capone in federal court in Chicago.

D'Andrea came to Marquette with Charles Gore of Benton Harbor, Burke's attorney, at a time when an attempt was being made by two or three states to get Burke out of Michigan to answer murder charges. Gore, a former prosecuting attorney in Benton Harbor, described D'Andrea as the owner of a brickyard in Benton Harbor, a Chicago attorney, and a friend of Burke.

Only a few words passed between D'Andrea and Burke, according to Warden James P. Corgan. The warden said he had not questioned Burke about his visitor.

When Burke's hiding place at St. Joseph was uncovered by his murder of the policeman, two machine guns believed to have been used in the St. Valentine day massacre in Chicago were found in his home.

U. S. SUPREME COURT GETS O'BRIEN APPEAL IN INCOME TAX CASE

A petition for a writ of certiorari for State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, under sentence of eighteen months to the Leavenworth penitentiary for evasion of the income tax law, has been filed with the United States Supreme court, according to a telegram received yesterday from the defendant's attorney, James O'Callaghan, by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The attorney was censured by the appeals court last week for not filing the appeal sooner in the Supreme court. The appeals court has affirmed O'Brien's sentence.

ARE CAPONE'S RACING LOSSES DEDUCTIBLE? TAX EXPERT PUZZLED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Al Capone's plea in Chicago regarding losses at gambling aroused interest in income tax circles.

P. R. Baldridge, deputy assistant commissioner of internal revenue, says the income tax law does not cover gambling as such. Gambling operations are held to be subject to tax following a precedent set by a ruling of the commissioner of internal revenue which was sustained by the board of tax appeals.

As to whether one could deduct gambling losses from the whole income, Mr. Baldridge expressed the belief that gambling losses could only be deducted from the gambling winnings. He said, though, that as far as he knew no case had ever arisen involving the question.

He thought gambling losses would be similar to stock market losses, which can only be carried from year to year if dealing in stocks is one's sole business. He said gambling would have to be the principal trade or business in order to carry losses over from year to year.

If the state law permits gambling, he thought the losses would be deductible, but if the state law prohibited gambling, he thought they would not be deductible.

U. S. DEFERS TAX CLAIM SO 1,000 PEOPLE CAN KEEP ON THEIR JOBS

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—In order to keep 1,000 employes of Morris White, Inc., at work, the United States government today waived its right to preferential payment of a $100,000 income tax claim against the corporation, a pocketbook and handbag manufacturing firm, so that the company might continue its business under a reorganization plan.

Assistant United States Attorney Morton Baum appeared before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to agree to the reorganization plan.

Liabilities of Morris White, Inc., amount to $1,072,000, and the assets to a little more than $100,000, barely enough to meet the government's claim, if insisted upon.

Fashion Tailored Clothes

America's Greatest Value

..REVEAL THEIR STORY TO THE MEN OF AMERICA

. . . The Compelling Facts — Showing How Sears, Roebuck and Co. Now Influence the Entire Clothing Industry with a New Conception of Value . . .

First Came the Determination

REACHING a goal—generally speaking—is not a matter of chance—or of guess work. Rather—it is the result of mature thought—extensive planning—careful preparation, far-reaching investigation and well applied effort. So—when we determined to offer America's greatest values in clothing at Twenty-one Fifty, we knew we had undertaken a mighty task, and we knew millions of men were waiting for all that is offered in Fashion Tailored Men's Clothes. We're indeed proud of the great idea behind Fashion Tailored Clothes—and—we are equally proud of its successful development.

$21.50 EXTRA PANTS $5.50

We Visited 23 Big Woolen Mills!

WITHOUT disclosing our plans, we selected woolens that usually go into higher priced clothes—and we had woolen manufacturers design special patterns—patterns with life and color. But we went even further—every yard of fabric used in Fashion Tailored Clothes had to be subjected to the following strict tests in our own Laboratories: The Double All Wool Test—the Concentrated Sunlight Test—the Test of Color Fastness—the Microscopic Wool Quality Test—the Friction Wear—the Iron Jaw and the Zero Shrinking Tests. Each test serves a definite purpose . . . and all make for 100% quality.

Fashion Experts Are Consulted

WE consulted Men's Fashion stylists—men with national and international reputations. We had them prepare original models. Then we went to the foremost Custom Tailors in New York and had them build the models according to their high standards. And these suits finally became the models for Fashion Tailored Clothes, which you will find are skillfully tailored—expressly to our rigid specifications—tailored with a precision that insures lasting satisfaction—needlework and inside construction that maintain the shapeliness as long as you wear the garment. Yet they are reasonably priced.

$21.50 EXTRA PANTS $5.50

Then Came an Investigation of Linings

NO detail was to escape our watchful eyes. Linings being of importance, we chose only those that go into the majority of suits selling at a much higher price. So, too, did we personally select every other item that enters in the construction of good clothes. For instance, we use fine Belgian Linen Canvas for coat fronts—French haircloth with Hymo lapels—pre-shrunk edge tape—pure silk sewing thread—waxed linen thread for sewing buttons so they won't come off—all tested in our own Laboratories. These are but a few of the reasons for the super-excellence of Fashion Tailored Clothes.

$21.50 EXTRA PANTS $5.50

We Called in a Leading Clothing Manufacturer

LAYING our plans before him, we explained that we wanted him to produce Fashion Tailored Men's Clothes to retail at $21.50. "But," said he, "that is utterly impossible! Why, such clothing will have to be sold for half again as much." But we knew it could be accomplished—because we knew how to go about it. With our tremendous resources—with scientific manufacturing knowledge—with a business running into hundreds of millions of dollars annually, it is only natural that Sears should be first to meet today's need of America's Greatest Clothing values at Twenty-one Fifty. Men of every build can be fitted—tall or short—stout or slim. This, gentlemen, is the story behind Sears Fashion Tailored Clothes. Today . . . see for yourself what these superlatively good suits mean to you in service—in quality—in style, and in value. Other suits, $14.75 to $28.50.

MRS. SIMMONS' KIN POINTED OUT AS POISON BUYER

Defense Springs Surprise at Murder Trial.

Lebanon, Ind., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—The defense in the trial of Mrs. Cleota Simmons dramatically changed the picture presented to the jury here today. By a series of surprise witnesses her counsel pointed the finger of suspicion at Horace Jackson, brother-in-law of the woman accused of poisoning her two daughters, as the man who placed strychnine in the fatal sandwiches served at a family reunion picnic here last June 21.

They built up a picture of Jackson as a man with poison mania, who often had fed birds strychnine for the pleasure of watching their death agonies, a man with a grievance against Simmons and his wife, and who had shopped around for strychnine for a week before the poisoning.

Upset Druggist's Story.

And in the course of the amazing day they threw considerable doubt on the credulity of the state's star witness, Charles W. Friedman, an Indianapolis druggist, who identified Mrs. Simmons as the women who had bought strychnine from him three days before the "poison picnic."

It was Harry Short, another druggist with a store at New Palestine, who furnished the first surprise of this crowded day. He pointed out Jackson, husband of a sister of the defendant's husband, as the purchaser of sixty grains of strychnine five days before the picnic.

The defense has all through the trial attempted to direct suspicion at Jackson, who has been estranged from the Simmons family because they sided against him in domestic troubles. Jackson, incidentally, has served prison sentences for violation of the Mann act and also the Dyer act against interstate transportation of automobiles.

Another witness, Mrs. C. H. Johnston, storekeeper at Cumberland, Ind., in Marion county, near the Hancock county line, identified Jackson as the man who tried to buy 10 cents' worth of strychnine from her the week prior to the Simmons picnic.

Miss Louise Moffitt, 20, a niece of both Jackson and Mr. Simmons, testified that Jackson had told her he was accustomed to giving crows strychnine to watch them die.

Lon Faulkinbury, a Lebanon barber who attended the picnic, testified Jackson went to his wife after it became apparent the sandwiches were poisoned and exclaimed: "My God, Mom, ain't this terrible? And I'm the cause of it all."

One of the high moments of the day came when Miss Louise Robinson, 43 year old farm woman from near Bargersville, Johnson county, testified that she was the woman who bought sixty grains of strychnine from Friedman, June 18, to kill weasels who were destroying her chickens.

As she completed her testimony, which a relentless cross examination failed to shake, Miss Robinson waved the bottle of strychnine in front of the jury. Mrs. Simmons, who has remained extremely calm throughout the trial, rushed to her side and exclaimed, amid tears: "Miss Robinson, you have saved my life."

IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER OF BANK, HE CONFESSES

Samuel Steffano, 31 years old, 1025 South Winchester avenue, an ex-convict who has served two terms for rape, was paraded at a special showup at the detective bureau last night and positively identified by three employes of the Halsted Exchange National bank, 1929 South Halsted street, as one of five men who held up the bank last Friday and fled with $16,319.

The identification was made by Miss Geraldine Milsauskas, 20 years old, 5348 South Sawyer avenue, stenographer; Walter Wallace, 2237 South Oakley avenue, teller, and George Bores, 3203 South Karlov avenue, teller. Steffano was picked up by Sergt. Michael Sheehan and a Maxwell police squad yesterday at Taylor and Morgan streets.

The prisoner admitted participating in the robbery and early this morning was still being questioned as to the identity of his accomplices, but he refused to name them.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To relieve piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Walgreen's invites every pile sufferer to try a bottle of HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if they do not end piles in any form.

POLICE FIRE AT THIEVES; BULLET HITS U. S. SAILOR

A police bullet meant for two youths riding in a stolen automobile went wild early this morning and struck R. E. Hall, 23 years old, of Ann Arbor, Mich., a sailor, under the heart. He was taken to the Henrotin hospital, where it was said he might die.

A few minutes before, Policeman Pat O'Shea and Francis Kelly of the East Chicago avenue station, cruising about in their car, sighted two boys in a machine which they suspected was stolen. They pursued them north in La Salle street. At the same time Hall and two other sailors, Howard Van Bibber and John Jarvis, all attached to the Great Lakes naval training station, were walking southward near Chestnut street.

Policeman O'Shea and Kelly fired half a dozen shots at the fugitives whom they were pursuing. The sailors were caught in the line of fire and Hall was struck. The policemen kept after the fugitives and caught one. He identified himself as Frank Pocrus, 19 years old, of 6 East Grand avenue. His companion fled on foot.

Kankakee M. D. Meets Man with a 'Drink'; Gets a 'Slug'

Dr. James R. Hunter, 53 years old, of Kankakee, met an affable stranger in South State street last night and accepted the latter's offer of a "good drink." They walked into the alley behind the police building at 1121 State street. Dr. Hunter took the drink. It was drugged. Then the stranger, not so affable, slugged the physician, and robbed him of $10. Dr. Hunter, unconscious, was accidentally found by Sergt. Edward McNally, and revived by Police Surgeon L. A. Marlow. Dr. Hunter, it was found, was suffering from a compound fracture of the jaw.

Women in Auto Robbed of $2,035, Cash and Gems

Two women who were followed in their car from a downtown theater were held up late last night and robbed of $2,000 in jewelry and $35 in cash. They are Mrs. Anna Blazek, 4546 North Damen avenue, and Mrs. Laura Pratt, 4511 Hazel avenue. The robbers, two young men, forced their machine to the curb almost in front of the home of Mrs. Pratt, and took rings valued at $1,200 and $20 in cash from Mrs. Blazek and $800 in jewelry and $15 in cash from her companion.

TWO KILLED, ONE INJURED AS TWO AUTOS COLLIDE

Two automobiles collided last night at 154th place and Wentworth avenue, Calumet City, killing two men, and injuring another. The victims were John Gurzynski, 54 years old, 816 Green Bay avenue, Calumet City, and Adam Rybinski, 28, of 12400 Stewart avenue.

Gurzynski and Rybinski were riding in a car driven by Edward Wroblewski, 120 East 118th place. The machine struck an automobile driven by Elmer Drake, living in Plumb road, Calumet City. Drake was cut and bruised and taken to St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond.

These deaths and one other increased the Cook county auto toll since Jan. 1 to 979. The victim:

Henry Dunbar, 19 years old, 3537 West 13th place. Fatally injured when he was knocked from the running board of a moving car by a truck. The accident occurred at 16th street and Central Park avenue.

Dr. Roy Anderson, 45 years old, of Los Angeles, a dentist, died in the Elizabeth Condell hospital in Libertyville yesterday from injuries suffered in a collision on Saturday.

STANDARD RED CROWN

HERE is the news you've been waiting for—hoping for—wondering whether you'd hear it this year or next. The news of a NEW GASOLINE—a BETTER GASOLINE. Mark that last phrase! That which is new is not always better. But Standard Red Crown is NEW and BETTER. We introduce it to you as the best all-purpose gasoline ever put on the market. And we've anticipated some of the questions you'll want to ask about this brilliant, sparkling, modern fuel. From now on you'll hear plenty about Standard Red Crown—plenty of praise for a fuel that gives you more for your money—easy starting—more power—more performance—more miles.

Read these questions and answers—and then drive to the nearest STANDARD RED CROWN sign—for your first filling of "The Better Gasoline"

What Is Standard Red Crown, the Better Gasoline?

A gasoline in which the fractions are so adjusted to weather conditions as to give a smooth flow of power at any season of the year.

What are fractions in Gasoline?

They're the compounds taken from petroleum each of which vaporizes within definite temperature limits. The skillful merging of these fractions and adjusting the proportions to meet different weather conditions make good gasoline.

What happens if these fractions are not properly adjusted?

The engine may perform satisfactorily under one set of conditions but not all. For example, in winter good gasoline requires large amounts of light ends to give quick starting and satisfactory performance, but in summer too much of these light ends causes vapor lock troubles.

Is Standard Red Crown a natural product?

No. Nature is not concerned with producing an ideal gasoline for automobiles. It must be made by skillful men. Standard Red Crown owes much of its anti-knock value to the use of the improved cracking processes developed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

How is Standard Red Crown made?

Under processes developed in the research laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) utilizing the tremendous refining facilities of this organization.

Is Standard Red Crown a NEW Gasoline?

Yes. It has just been put on the market.

Why do you recommend it for winter driving?

Because it starts easily and accelerates smoothly and because it can be depended upon to operate smoothly in the engine and deliver a rhythmic flow of tremendous power.

Why is Standard Red Crown recommended for 1931-32 cars?

Because it is designed to respond to the delicate adjustment of the latest type engines—because it performs better in the older types—because it burns clean at any speed—because it's priced to meet current economic conditions. It gives maximum performance at a moderate price.

Where can I buy Standard Red Crown Gasoline?

OXYGEN FOR THE RAILROADS.

The President and his advisers are said to be considering various means of strengthening the position of railroad bonds in the financial markets. Three proposals seem to have been presented. One is to advance money to the carriers from the federal treasury at low interest, as was done after the war; another is to alter the federal reserve act to permit the reserve banks to advance money against railroad securities of one sort or another; and the third is to improve the competitive position of the railroads by regulating competing services, like trucks, buses, airplanes, and water carriers.

None of these proposals strikes at the root of the difficulty. The trouble with the railroads is that most of them are not earning enough money to make their bonds as safe an investment as they used to be. Lending money even for such useful objectives as electrification will not greatly increase the railroads' net income; it can only add to the burden of fixed charges. Special consideration for railroad bonds in the reserve banks might do some good; but as long as the railroad companies were having difficulty earning their interest charges it is doubtful if even that artificial device would help a great deal. If it did, the reserve system might be weakened to the extent that the railroad bond market was artificially strengthened.

Regulation of the competing services has been requested by many railroad executives and it seems to have in it a certain rough justice. But if this regulation resulted in higher rates for the use of trucks, shippers and consumers who now benefit from the lower rates would suffer and the investment in trucks would depreciate as the investment in railroad securities was strengthened.

None of the proposals faces the fact that the trouble with the railroads today is that they are hampered at every turn by regulation. They cannot combine freely in any territory because of the anti-trust act. Therefore they must compete against each other with costly duplications of service. They cannot adjust rates to meet peculiar conditions of trade. They are seldom permitted, for example, to fix rates which will enable them to compete with water lines. The refusal of the commerce commission to authorize transcontinental rates which will place the railroads on a parity with ships in the Panama canal trade is typical. The acts of railroad executives are subject to revision and rejection by the interstate commerce commission and the railroad commissions of 48 states. The federal commission is trying to run all the railroads in the United States, and if its members were all supermen the task would be far too heavy. That is the reason that many of the carriers are not making money. Initiative is being stifled at every turn.

If the commission is given supervision of highway and water lines, thereby adding to its already enormous burden of regulation, the railroads will find themselves still further hampered by delays in reaching decisions. Even as matters stand, the slow processes of the commission in approving either a raising or lowering of rates frequently bring a revision when the need for it has passed.

If the dead hand of regulation were removed all the railroads in this country would not promptly spring back into prosperity. The fact must be faced that many of the railroad lines were superfluous when they were built and others have been rendered superfluous by highway improvements. Nothing can save some of the lines from liquidation.

But the stronger railroads are in no danger of going under, provided they are given a great deal more freedom to make their own destinies. What can be accomplished in transportation by unhampered initiative is indicated by the progress of the railroads' competitors in recent years. If the railroads were given the same freedom there would be little need of extraordinary measures to revive the great majority of railroad investments.

THE VIRUS IN SOCCER.

A soccer game between a Spanish team representing the Racing club of Madrid and a picked team of the New York Football association was broken up in the second half by the crowd. Spectators, angered by a decision of the referee, ran out on the field to attack him. The Spanish players closed about him and got him to safety, but play was not resumed. There is a mystery in crowd conduct at soccer games which experts in that sport must explain if it is to be understood.

Why is it that soccer partisans are so volatile, excitable, and so ready to swarm to action in a mob? Central Europe has been on the verge of war several times recently because of international soccer matches. Some of these games at the Olympic meet were riots. South Americans have a major international crisis when soccer teams of different nationality play ball. Some of this has been ascribed to the enthusiastic Latin temperament which would rather kill the referee than lose a game, but how does that explain the enthusiasm in New York? New York stands for Tex Guinan, John McGraw, Tammany, Jimmie Walker, the subway, the Brooklyn ball club, the milk fund prize fights, and the price of theater tickets, but goes loco over a soccer game just as Montevideo or Bucharest might do.

The great crowds at American football will be at the ignition point for two hours of playing and then dissolve peaceably for home. If partisans of the victors try to take out the goal posts after the game that exuberance, with a snake dance, is the only outbreak to be feared, and usually the groundkeeper's request to respect the playing field is enough to keep people from even taking a short cut across it.

There is a virus in soccer which isn't understood by the uninitiated.

OLD MR. PSHAW.

Mr. Shaw, G. B., the eminent amateur collectivist and absentee Red who lives his dream life in Russia and gets his cereals, asparagus, and boiled potatoes in London, where he may have a fire in the grate when he wants one and take a private profit off anything he can sell, was on the air the other day for America, selling the soviets to the downtrodden Yankees. At the time of his speech the subjects of his praise were either in the food ticket line to get the evening carrot or onion or were spreading the straw tick in the corner of a cold room and loosening the clothes line belt preparatory to curling up in their whiskers for a night's sleep. His auditors were seated by their radios.

The contrast in physical conditions between the world of which and the world to which he spoke would be Shavian justification for addressing the people with homes, heat, and radios for the reception of a London talk as boobs and describing the Stalinized helots of state as free intellectuals.

Mr. Shaw, with real admiration for what he described, explained to his American listeners that if one of them in Russia, believing that he was entitled to the profit of his own work, should undertake to get it, he would be sequestrated and questioned and later his friends would be told not to concern themselves further about him. He would not be returning home. He would be testing the realities, if any, of eternity and immortality. Thus under the new order of intellectual freedom. Applied in London, this doctrine would have interrupted Mr. Shaw in the broadcasting studio in the first five minutes of his speech. He would have been led to the Tower or the nearest police station and shot in the head for the encouragement of intellectual freedom and the betterment of life. His friends would have been told not to worry about him. He was not coming home.

Mr. Shaw's objection to private profit in his own case is notorious.

AN INTERESTING CONTEST.

The 13th congressional district is to be the scene of an unusually interesting contest, with prohibition as the critical issue. The cleavage between the candidates is clean cut, there being two on the dry side and two on the wet. The incumbent congressman, Chindblom, and Mr. Ralph Church of Evanston are drys. Mr. James Simpson Jr. and Mr. Stephen A. Day of Evanston are emphatically wet. Mr. Day has taken an active part in the movement for modification and repeal, and Mr. Simpson has opened his campaign with a pledge for the amendment of the Volstead act and the submission of an amendment of the 18th amendment "so that control of the liquor problem may be vested in the government which the people have established and which they may change by their voice and vote as conditions demand." He adds that he is opposed to the return of the saloon.

As there are two candidates on each side of the prohibition controversy the danger of a division which would favor a minority decision seems unlikely. The constituency represents a high level of intelligence and independence and the outcome of the contest will be watched with special interest. The district voted in the referendum of last fall about two to one in favor of repeal.

Mr. Simpson, however, has not confined his pronouncement to the prohibition issue, but has indicated his policy on other matters of importance, as we assume Mr. Day and the other candidates will do. Mr. Simpson's platform is excellent and should offer opportunity for intelligent discussion in the campaign. His eighth plank is one which should not be overlooked among the more general topics. It is for the establishment of a harbor of refuge for water craft in distress at some place between Waukegan and Belmont harbor. This is very much needed on the north shore. The use of the lake has been rapidly recovering in recent years and would grow still more if proper facilities were available. The long, dangerous coast from Chicago to Waukegan should not be, as it is, without convenient refuge for craft in distress or for an objective for smaller craft.

Editorial of the Day

A MAJOR INDUSTRY.

[New York Times.]

The total spent by non-New England students in New England during an academic year is figured by the Boston university bureau of research at upward of $26,000,000; by college students alone at $21,500,000. But sons and daughters of New England to the number of 4,700 attended colleges in other states, chiefly in New York, spending approximately $5,000,000. This leaves a balance in favor of the New England college industry of about $16,000,000. If the preparatory schools are included a still larger surplus is shown for New England, and chiefly Massachusetts. If the expenditures of visiting relatives, returning alumni, and summer residents allured by their college memories were added the grand total would be two or three millions greater.

How this "industry" has grown is indicated by President McConaughy's article on Wesleyan university in Connecticut, which this week begins the celebration of its centenary. When it opened its doors, in 1831, there were forty-eight students enrolled and the faculty consisted of four professors. It now brings into the state at least a half million dollars a year in addition to the funds that have been given for buildings and endowments—the two buildings and $40,000 of endowment in 1831 having grown to a property of nearly $10,000,000. It is not meant that such statistics are a measure of the real growth of the institution and of its share in New England's influence on the life of the republic. They show, however, that even as an industry a college has an important place in the economy of a state. The New England universities, colleges, and preparatory schools are among its most precious spiritual possessions and are also profitable industries.

NEW METHODS OF PASTEURIZING.

It is probable that some changes in pasteurization methods are impending. Several ar under consideration. The first consideration is that the product shall be a safe one. No change will be adopted that in any way hazards the safety of the milk, so far as health is concerned. Pasteurization is depended on against two new diseases of man and animals—undulant fever and fowl tuberculosis—as well as against diarrhea in babies, typhoid fever, septic sore throat, surgical tuberculosis, and others of the long accepted group.

The suggestion is that milk be pasteurized in a vacuum or in the absence of ordinary air. This is proposed as a measure to prevent decrease in the antiscurvy vitamin. When milk is pasteurized in aluminum vessels somewhere between 20 and 40 per cent of the vitamin C is destroyed. In addition, some of the aluminum goes into solution—about six parts in ten million parts of milk. The salt that goes in solution does not harm and it is easy enough to replace the small loss of vitamin C by adding a little fruit juice, tomato juice, or vegetable soup to the diet; but the dairyman wants to rob the opposition of the last bit of their sales talk.

When milk is pasteurized in copper, iron, or tin vessels the loss of vitamin C is even greater. In addition, some of the metal goes in solution in the milk, somewhat altering the flavor, but otherwise slightly improving the quality. The body needs a little more iron and copper than it usually gets from the diet.

Another suggested change is from pasteurization by the holding method to flash pasteurization. Flash pasteurization is a somewhat more effective method so far as the destruction of bacteria is concerned, but the dairymen have been unwilling to use it in recent years because of the harm done the body of the milk and the cream line.

Experimentation indicates that this shortcoming can be overcome by some change in the method of flash pasteurization. The new method consists in heating the milk up to 145 degrees, somewhat slowly; then to rapidly pass the warm milk through tubes in which it will be rapidly heated about 25 degrees higher. The second heating is not to consume over ten seconds. The milk is then rapidly cooled. This method should not destroy vitamin C, nor greatly modify the body of the milk or the cream line, and it should kill all disease producing bacteria.

The third proposal relates to home pasteurization. Dr. Lloyd Arnold has a method of home pasteurization which makes it possible for any one to pasteurize milk in the home with but little expense of equipment and almost no cost of operation.

YEAST AND CALORIES.

W. B. writes:

1. Please advise me through your health column if three yeast cakes a day will make a person gain weight.
2. Has yeast caloric value?

REPLY.

1. Yes, if it is long continued. It contains vitamin B complex and that is the appetite vitamin. Thus yeast contributes indirectly to gain in weight.
2. Yes. But the amount of it eaten is too small to contribute many calories. Eaten in small amounts it is valuable as a source of vitamins, minerals, and proteins.

NO HARM IN SWIMMING.

J. B. S. writes:

1. Is it harmful for an expectant mother to go swimming the first few months?
2. I had to have a blood transfusion after a Cesarian operation. Do you think it will be necessary for another when the next one is performed?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Of course, an answer would merely be a wild guess and of no value. I am sure you are doing some wishful thinking and I will join with you in it. Wishful thinking is harmless enough except when it upsets judgment and leads to neglect. But why the Cesarian? They are going out of style.

FILING AND HEARING DATES.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—How long must expire between the date a petition for naturalization is filed and the date of the final hearing thereon? J. P. F.

At least ninety days. However, if petition is filed just before the summer vacation, it takes longer before the case is reached as the judges are on vacation during July and August and part of September.

H. L. ROETHE,

OWNERSHIP DEFINED.

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Our neighbor has an apple tree eight feet from the line, the limbs extending on our side about eight or ten feet. 1. Do the apples on our side belong to us? We can't raise anything on our side near the tree. 2. Can a man who divides a lot, selling 50 feet off one side, be compelled later to have the lot surveyed to establish a line between the two lots? 3. If one property owner has a lot surveyed can the other owner be compelled to pay half? M. S. S.

1. Where the trunk of the tree stands wholly on the land of one owner, the growing fruit thereon is his property, including that upon branches overhanging the adjoining land; and the adjoining owner is liable in an action for conversion if he takes fruit from the overhanging branches, and for assault if he attempts by violence to prevent the owner of the tree, while on his own land, from gathering such fruit. [1 C. J., p. 1232.]
2. No.
3. Not unless he has so agreed.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

OVERNIGHT PARKING.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—Why is the overnight parking law not enforced on our street? About twenty machines are parked in front of our building all night, to the great inconvenience and annoyance of those living there? H. N.

An officer was assigned to investigate and he reports that he interviewed most of the owners of the cars relative to their parking all night at the location mentioned. Of twenty cars parked there the first night there are only about five now, and every effort is being made to get in touch with the owners of the five cars. They have been warned that summons would be issued if they persisted in parking their cars all night.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, THIS MORNING comes cheering, cheering news. That makes two cheering news, and we certainly need 'em both these days. Here 'tis: The Democratic national committee announced it was out to raise $1,500,000 immediately as a preliminary to a $6,000,000 campaign fund for the presidential election next year. When the Democrats can sit up and say right out loud, without batting an eye, that they expect to raise a million and a half bucks immediately for anything, it means that money can't be so very scarce. Usually the Democrats can't get anybody to throw a nickel in their campaign barrel unless they run him twenty miles and hog tie him. And even then they've got to point a shotgun at his head and threaten to shoot if the victim doesn't cough up. Usually about all they find in the Democratic campaign collection when it's a White House year is plugged dimes, North avenue street car transfers, pants buttons, and poker chips. But here the Democrats say cheerfully they can raise a million and a half as easy as that. Well, either money is awful plentiful or there's lots of folks think the Democrats are marching right straight into the White House in a year from now and they want to ride in the band wagon. And, of course, anybody will pay money to ride in the band wagon.

REVELATIONS.

Through all these steadfast, charming years
I've learned to know him by the things
He gave me, foolish useless gifts:
Lace handkerchiefs and magic rings,
Weird incense burners, bottles old
And softly tinted, jars of clay,
And copper bowls and china cows
And little etchings gay,
From places where he might have gone
Had he not stayed to make a home
For me. I cherish every gift
From gypsy scarf to wishing stone.
Unknowingly he gave his dreams,
His hopes, so now I hold him fast
And try to make my arms suffice
When outbound ships go past.

P. S. McDONALD.

AND YESTERDAY Al Capone's lawyer replied to the charges made by the government that he wore shirts, belts, pants, and things by introducing witnesses to prove that he always bet on the dogs out at the race tracks and that some of the horses he backed are running yet. But did Al stay out after ten o'clock at night and did he ever say naughty words? That's what we're waiting to find out.

THERE'S SAID to be two governors 'way down in old Louisiana, but if you want to find out who's really boss down there just start something and old Huey P. Long will show quicker 'n scat.

MR. H. G. WELLS, upon landing at New York, opined that civilization is going to pot and that something ought to be done about it. He allowed the way to fix things up right away is to assemble the truly brilliant minds of the world for a few moments, the truly brilliant minds being left to straighten out our difficulties. It's a grand idea, but if Mr. Wells will find any two of the brilliant minds of the world that will agree on what is the trouble and how to iron it out, then all will be well. But up to the hour of going to press we cannot think of any brilliant mind of the world that will agree with another brilliant mind. Not even Mr. Wells'.

AND NOW the Chicago teachers ask how, without any pay for six months, are they going to buy coffee and sandwiches at noon and pay their fare on the street car if they live too far from the school to walk. Well, well, we never thought of that!

This Letter Ought to Be Along Any Time Now.

"It was my most embarrassing moment," writes today's winner of our rubber doughnut prize. "We had written oodles and oodles of letters to Japan asking her not to be rude or catty or anything like that to poor old China. They didn't read our letters or threw them in the waste basket or something and kept right on sending armies into Manchuria. Finally we just got furious and we sent them a cable message (collect): 'You must behave, Japan, you must, you really must. Don't force us or we really will have to do something frightfully severe. Now, really, we mean every word.' And after a week or two we got back a letter (postage due) which said: 'All right, suppose we keep on raising hell in Manchuria, what are you going to do about it?' and signed by the Japs. Really, it was the most embarrassing thing. We just wanted to go right through the floor. Yours truly, MISS LEGGO NATIONS."

IT SEEMS TO BE quite the thing nowadays for all divorced couples to say "but we are still the best of friends." Now, probably that's just the trouble. "For," as Cleopatra said to Marc Antony as she ditched him at the battle of Actium and beat it back to Egypt, "the best of friends must part."

LIBERATION.

So I have changed, my love? And you?
It cannot be you are the same
Dear girl who promised to be true
To me before that other came!

Love flows and ebbs, but life goes on
With no regard for you or me,
Yet Beauty is a sine qua non,
And will be to eternity.

Yes, I have changed, thank God! And now
Love's fever fetters me no more,
The Sirens graciously allow Me to step through the open door!

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 15, 1915.

LONDON.—The proposal of replying to German air raids by "bombing his sleeping towns as he bombs ours" received enthusiastic indorsement at a massmeeting held in the financial district of London. The ire of the people was increased by last night's Zeppelin raid, the most serious London has yet suffered. The official statement says that 55 persons were killed and 114 wounded, most of them in the metropolitan district. These casualties bring the total for 19 air raids on England up to 600, of which 166 were killed and 434 injured.

BERLIN.—The Russian army which [illegible] been advancing victoriously in eastern Galicia is said by the German war office to have been checked.

NEW YORK.—In an affidavit bristling with accusations of falsehood, bad faith, disloyalty, and reckless speculation, Frank L. Ferguson assumed a vigorous offensive in his controversy with the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn. Ferguson for five years held Dr. Hillis' power of attorney and managed his business affairs. The affidavit was filed in an action for accounting. Ferguson pictures Dr. Hillis as a reckless plunger in British Columbia lumber licenses, the trail of whose speculations stretches across the continent, and gives a list of noted clergymen who, he says, were caught in Dr. Hillis' net.

OCTOBER 15, 1901.

WASHINGTON.—Capt. Francis A. Cook's recital of the battle of Santiago before the Schley court of inquiry was so simple and dramatic that it not only commanded the admiration of the audience but carried conviction with it. Capt. Cook, who was in command of the Brooklyn during the Spanish war, gave the strongest testimony in favor of Admiral Schley that has yet been heard by the court. He declared he directed the famous turn or "loop" away from the Spanish fleet by the Brooklyn on the day of the battle, before his superior officer, Commodore Schley, gave a similar order. He also declared that the Texas was never endangered by the turn of the Brooklyn, which he defended as a justifiable strategical movement.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The house of deputies of the Episcopal church of America, sitting as a committee of the whole, adopted the proposed canon prohibiting the remarriage of divorced persons for causes not arising previous to their former marriage.

OCTOBER 15, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"I am sick, I am not well enough to go today." This was the statement which Guiteau made to the deputy warden who called at his cell about 9 o'clock this morning to notify him that he was to be arraigned today for the murder of President Garfield and to prepare to leave the jail. Guiteau lay upon his bed and stubbornly refused to obey. He had not received any previous notice of the arraignment, and the sudden announcement caused him to quake with fear. The deputy warden left Guiteau and soon after Chief Detective McElfresh entered his cell and succeeded in persuading Guiteau to go along. Guiteau was taken into the courtroom by way of a side entrance, and passed in unnoticed. After the indictment had been read Guiteau was noticed to be fumbling in his vest pocket and, while thus employed, the clerk addressed him: "What say you to this indictment?" Guiteau, taking a paper from his pocket, said: "I desire to make a statement." "First enter your plea of guilty or not guilty." Guiteau replied: "Not guilty." The trial will commence on Nov. 7 and the question of jurisdiction will be argued Oct. 30. Insanity is expected to be Guiteau's defense.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—A delegation of Canadian Creek Indians, carrying a British flag, arrived here from Wood Mountain, Northwest Territory, for the purpose of making peace with the Yanktonian Sioux, their hereditary enemies. If permitted about 500 more will follow. This is the band that probably hastened Sitting Bull's surrender last spring.

COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—On Oct. 4 Thomas James Norton, eminent constitutional authority, "laments our grave lack of constitutional education" as evidenced by the American Legion convention in calling upon President Hoover to invoke the national defense act, with its same enormous dictatorial powers of war time, to take charge of the present economic situation. He states that legislation creating the council is under the title "War" in the United States statutes and we were in war on Aug. 29, 1916, when it was enacted, and concludes, "To what purpose do we maintain schools if the flower of the land can make such a lamentable exhibition of its unpreparedness for sound citizenship?"

As the member from Illinois on the resolutions committee may I explain the resolution and the circumstances surrounding its adoption?

It was prepared by Mr. Howard E. Coffin, an original member of the council, a Republican, and a friend of both President Hoover and former President Wilson. It states:

"Whereas, A state of unrest, indecision, and dissatisfaction prevalent among the people of the United States has assumed such proportions as to constitute a national emergency of the utmost gravity; and,

"Whereas, Congress on Aug. 29, 1916, established a council of national defense, designed to meet the problems of peace as well as those of war, and that the principal causes of the present situation cannot be promptly and efficiently met by existing political methods,

"Therefore, The American Legion requests the President of the United States to make use of the existing instrumentality created to 'make possible in time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the nation,' to consider causes of present emergency and means for their amelioration, both present and future."

Neither Mr. Coffin nor, to quote him, any of the sponsors of or members of the council between 1916 and 1920 believed, nor now believe, it was or is a war measure. Barnes' Federal Code, "United States Statutes Complete," 1919, does not index this statute or council under "War" as stated by Mr. Norton, but indexes it (paragraph 10,146) under "Executive Agencies for Preparedness and Defense."

The general index under "War" at page 2,821 of the code does not list either the council of national defense nor paragraph 10,146, an indication that Editor Barnes and his associates, Dean Henry Craig Jones and Judge Ira E. Robinson, did not regard it as a war measure, having been enacted while we were at peace with the world (save possibly Villa and Mexico) while "he kept us out of war" was the Wilson slogan for reelection, and "peace at any price" a household byword (Aug. 29, 1916). Congress appropriated funds for the work of the council in 1916 and 1917 before war was declared, and in 1919 after the armistice was signed, but the Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover administrations have refused to make use of the council or appropriate for its work.

Existing methods advocated by various authorities have one and all failed to alleviate suffering among our unemployed, etc. The Legionnaires grasped at the only straw held out to them, the council of national defense. It may offer some relief.

If wire tapping is constitutional, if entrapment of prohibition violators is constitutional, if drafting of men for cannon fodder is constitutional, then why is not a council with even extra-legal powers constitutional?

Incidentally, President Hoover's six point program, indorsed as sound and practicable, contains the same recommendations as the Legion's. Both are formulated to mobilize the nation's available and economic resources. If the Legion must err, let it err on the side of the unemployed, the underfed school children, and those found in the ever lengthening bread lines.

WHAT HAPPENED AT MARLY.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Apropos the department of protocol, it might be comforting to recall that after the Grand Monarch got tired of hearing the boys and girls in laces and silks and jewels call him the "Sun King" and other words of display advertising, he used to hie him to the hunt, and then to his lodge at Marly. Marly was a democratic hangout for the titled folk, his jolly friends, a sort of Rapidan camp for Louis XIV.

His sister-in-law, in her gossipy letters, tells that the king took his ease there and called guests by their first names. This probably is perfectly familiar to M. Laval, the premier of the Third Republic. J. C. C.

CONDEMNED!

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 7.—The letter of J. Milton Blackney in THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 2 contains an excellent suggestion for relief of teachers. Surely there is some one who has made millions in Chicago who is willing to do as this letter suggests.

If my husband is unable to cash his scrip or borrow amount of salary due him by Oct. 30 I shall be forced to return to Chicago and die eventually, for my only hope of life is to remain here until I am well. I think it is too much to ask a teacher to forfeit her life because of the financial situation of a city as rich as Chicago. But I shall have no choice unless something is done. It is most humiliating. Chicago does not care. SICK TEACHER.

A SUPERHIGHWAY.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Why not build the superhighway in the center of the city's population on 16th street, along the Burlington railroad? This would give an outlet through to the outer drive and Michigan avenue and all boulevards running north and south on the west side. J. H. H.

DISINTERESTED JUDGE IS ASKED FOR CANAL TRIAL

Prosecutor Lauds David for Refusing Case.

On the eve of the reassignment of the sanitary district graft conspiracy cases today to a new judge for trial, First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, prosecutor in the case, issued a statement urging that any judge who is a political or personal friend of the defendants refuse to hear the case.

He commended the action of Judge Joseph B. David, who last week declined to hear the case on the ground of his long acquaintance with some of the defendants. They are Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary board during the "whoopee era," and eight former trustees and other officials.

In a statement last week Prosecutor Northup charged that some of the defendants had conferred recently with friends "high in political office" and demanded assurances of certain acquittal.

Cites Judge's Action.

In his statement last night he said: "The last judge to whom the sanitary district cases were assigned refused to hear them by reason of the fact that the defendants had been friends of the court for many years, and that the responsibility was too great to be shouldered by such a judge. In this connection he said some judge must be found who had not been associated with the defendants as he had been.

"Surely there must be many judges at the Cook county bench who have not been closely associated politically, socially, or otherwise, with these defendants. The state would be ready to try this case before any judge sitting in the Appellate court, or before any judge or a like number of judges who are not on the Appellate bench. That is, before any one of from eighteen to twenty judges.

"I do not believe that these judges would refuse to undertake such a duty in view of the long confidence reposed in them by the public, and in view of the emergency character of this case. The state feels and will insist that any judge associated with the defendants, as above noted, should refuse, as Judge David indicated he would do, and not undertake the trial of this case. Certainly the public is entitled to nothing less than this."

Seeks Information on Rule.

Prosecutor Northup sought information yesterday as to whether rule 15 of the rules of the Criminal court was still in force. That rule provided that the prosecutor in a case might obtain assignment of a case, if he thought the judge to whom it was assigned was prejudiced, by filing a certificate of prejudice.

He took advantage of that rule in the previous sanitary district cases when they were assigned to Judge Charles A. Williams, on the ground that Judge Williams' son had been on the sanitary district pay roll during the period in which the allegedly illegal acts charged in the indictments took place.

After the incident before Judge Williams, when Prosecutor Northup made his charges of prejudice in open court, a movement was started by some of the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts, all ex-officio members of the Criminal court, to rescind the rule. Judges interviewed yesterday were uncertain as to whether or not the movement was successful.

DEFRERE IS SUED FOR $100,000 BY WIFE'S EX-MATE

Alienation Is Charged to Singer.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Alienation of the affections of his former wife, Hilda Hopkins Burke, of the Chicago Civic Opera company is charged by William S. Burke of this city in a suit for $100,000 against Desire Defrere, her new husband, filed in the Baltimore city court today.

The couple came to Baltimore Saturday night from New York where Defrere, a baritone of the Chicago Opera company, who had arrived from France Thursday, announced that they were married in West New York, N. J. They spent the week-end with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Hopkins.

In filing the action, Burke, who asked for a jury trial, said Miss Burke was married to him in 1921, when she was 17 years old and before she had begun her operatic career. She obtained a divorce in Illinois early this summer. A suit which she had filed here was dismissed without prejudice.

Charges Home Broken Up.

The charges in the suit are that Defrere caused Burke's home to be "broken up" and alienated the affections of his wife.

"My former wife first met Defrere when she went out to Chicago to make her debut with the Chicago Civic Opera company," Burke said. "I met him, too. I haven't met him since and I have no desire to. I don't know exactly when my wife became friendly with the singer. When our divorce loomed up my wife didn't mention Mr. Defrere as the reason for it.

Says Defrere Was Served.

"I haven't seen my former wife since she came to Baltimore after the wedding, but I understand that Defrere was served. I think he's leaving town, but he will have to come back when the suit comes up.

"I did not have anything to do with the trouble they had in getting a license. I think that was just a technicality in the New York law."

Hilda Burke was born in Baltimore. She became a pupil of George Castelle, Peabody Conservatory of Music, and at first her voice was regarded only as a good natural voice.

Changes to Business Career.

Suddenly she decided that she preferred a business career. She studied stenography and typing and got a position. Then she eloped with Burke. She continued to sing and obtained a position in a church choir.

In 1924, while the De Feo Opera company was playing here, arrangements were made to allow young singers to appear with the organization. Miss Burke sang the rôle of Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana." She acquitted herself so well that she was encouraged to look forward to an operatic career.

BRIDE WHOSE BULLET TOUCHED HEART RALLYING

Mrs. Helen Smith, 21 year old bride, who nicked her heart with a bullet she fired in an attempt at suicide Tuesday night, was on the way to recovery, Dr. Charles G. Shannon, her physician, said yesterday.

Dr. Shannon explained that when she fired the shot her heart was dilated between beats and the bullet grazed it and lodged in her back. That could not happen again in a hundred thousand times, the physician said. The bullet will be removed today if her condition allows the operation.

Mrs. Smith shot herself in her home at 6345 Winthrop avenue when she became despondent over an impending operation. Her remarkable vitality was displayed when she prepared the evening meal for her husband, William, and showed no signs of her wound until he noticed her paleness and quiet manner.

EAGER TO TELL ABOUT HER STOMACH

"I want to tell others about my experience with Pape's Diapepsin," says Mrs. B. Eastman, 1200 California St., Denver, Colo. "I tried a lot of things for my indigestion, but none of them did any good. Then a friend persuaded me to take a few tablets of this wonderful preparation.

"Now I even eat cabbage without any distress afterwards. It used to cause real suffering. I am not nearly so nervous as I used to be; feel much stronger and better in every way."

A medicine must have real merit to bring forth enthusiastic statements like this. And when not one, but hundreds, even thousands, are telling the same story of success, there seems no reason to doubt the day-in and day-out reliability of Pape's Diapepsin to help stomach sufferers.

Success Crowns Years of Experimenting.

farlane, business manager of THE TRIBUNE.

"The purchase of these new color press units," Mr. Macfarlane said, "is an important step in the efforts made by THE TRIBUNE to give its readers a better product.

"Color is a part of daily life.

"The newspaper in its position of satisfying the desires of the public must supply color in its regular editions. The new presses will enable us to offer a more interesting, readable newspaper. The move is in line with our development of daily color printing in the newspaper. THE TRIBUNE has pioneered in this field with definite benefits to readers and to advertisers.

"Until THE TRIBUNE began its laboratory experiments and practical demonstrations of color printing there were many who did not believe the idea feasible. Within the last 18 months there has been a remarkable change in sentiment. A great number of other publications have followed THE TRIBUNE'S steps and have introduced color in their columns.

The Color Rotogravure.

"The experience of THE TRIBUNE with modern newspaper color goes back to the time when we introduced color rotogravure in the Sunday paper. This was a great advance in the publishing business. THE TRIBUNE devised special presses for color rotogravure printing and we believe through our perfecting the process THE TRIBUNE established on a firm basis a method of printing now used throughout the United States.

"It was but a natural step from the development of color rotogravure to the study of color in regular editions. Serious mechanical difficulties presented themselves because newspaper presses have been designed for black and white reproduction. Due to the fact that TRIBUNE presses were specially designed for large volume, high speed production, we were able to begin and continue successful experimentation.

"Our first demonstration was in December, 1926, at which time we ran a double page advertisement in color. This was well received, but it fell far short of what we believed possible. Since that time we have given considerable time and study to the subject.

Difficulties Are Overcome.

"As I have stated, mechanical difficulties were many. We believe they were no worse than those which face any worthwhile achievement. One by one we overcame them and in 1928 we began to print some of our own advertisements in two colors. We have now gone far enough to know that printing color as a regular part of the newspaper is practical. There has been a steady increase in the number of pages which we have printed.

"The question of whether or not color is here is settled so far as THE TRIBUNE is concerned. The best evidence of this can be found not only in an examination of the advertisements which appear in the daily editions but in the fine results achieved in the woman's section of the Sunday paper which regularly carries striking illustrations of Paris fashions in color. We are not entirely satisfied with our progress but we expect through the new equipment to produce even more attractive editorial matter and advertising.

"One of the interesting features of our development of color printing has been its effect upon employment.

"We believe we have helped towards bettering conditions not only in our own plant where the use of color increases our pay roll but through the encouragement given to press manufacturers to develop better presses. We know definitely that manufacturers supplying THE TRIBUNE have been placed in a better position to maintain their employes at work.

"The advent of color in other newspaper offices has also tended to stimulate employment in the printing trades. Interest in color has directed attention to a general improvement of standards. It has resulted in an insistence on an improved sheet of paper, better inks, and a higher degree of craftsmanship.

"The economic value of color printing in the newspaper is substantiated by leading advertisers and advertising men who report that color increases their return from advertising. Constructive help of this sort when American business finds it more difficult to coax the reluctant dollar from its hiding place has been welcomed by retail merchants and manufacturers."

ZAMORA QUITS AS PROTEST AGAINST WAR ON CHURCH

Azana Is New President of Spanish Republic.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Oct. 14.—Enter the second government of the Spanish republic, six months old today.

Presided over by Minister of War Manuel Azana, the man who so roundly "ruined" King Alfonso's pretorian army, according to that monarch's own admission, it took power tonight after an interregnum of hours only, occasioned by the second and this time effective resignation of President Niceto Alcala Zamora.

Without oratory Azana presented his flock to the cortes. Zamora and Miguel Maura, former minister of the interior, were missing. The only new face was that of José Giral, rector of the University of Madrid, who takes the ministry of marine. Its former occupant, Santiago Casares, will have Maura's job. Azana, in addition to assuming the presidency, keeps the portfolio of war.

Tells Cortes His Program.

Quietly he asked deputies to work a little harder and faster. He talked without gesture, his round, pasty face as expressionless as a mandarin's. With his dry, weak voice he nevertheless again stirred the cortes to enthusiasm.

"This government proposes two things," he said, "to adopt the constitution and vote proper agrarian reforms and the budget.

"We will govern as republicans for all Spaniards, keeping in mind that our principal duties are the salvation of the republic. We will enforce respect for laws. The republic, representing the nation's will, has a right to be respected. If it is not, we will make it feared. Woe unto him who raises his hand against it."

He got a standing vote of confidence, proposed by the speaker.

Zamora's Exit Is Dramatic.

The resignation of Zamora was dramatic. When at 7:30 o'clock this morning the wearied cortes voted the constitutional article expelling the Jesuits, confiscating their goods, and muzzling other religious orders, raised a few fierce cries of "viva la republica" and went home to bed, Zamora, distraught, sat on a bench writing.

No one was sure what he was doing, although everybody knew his nerves were fast breaking. Shortly after noon they found out. He had been writing his resignation as the first successor to the Bourbons.

A champion of conservative Catholic interests, he could not swallow what he considered a sectarian solution by a cortes gone definitely out of sympathy with his aspirations for the republic.

President Azana tonight pledged that his government will do its best to keep order, but on the other hand Zamora's farewell letter was considered by his former comrades too dangerous to be published. In it he is said to have asserted that the constitution is such an atrocity it cannot be allowed to stand. This is considered tantamount to a repudiation of the cortes.

Zamora claims his prestige was used to win over the conservative Catholic element to republicanism and that it all turned out to be a trick. He says that Azana was an unimportant novelist and lawyer before he took Alfonso's army in hand.

Public meetings in the Basque country were forbidden today and elaborate precautions were taken to handle them when they are allowed tomorrow and the next day. The only disorder thus far registered was in the streets of Madrid for an hour tonight, when police and mounted guards charged repeatedly to disperse a howling group of anti-clerical rioters, mostly jobless. Several shots were fired.

Considered Declaration of War.

For the most part the Catholic press received the expulsion of the Jesuits and the ban on education by religious orders as a declaration of war.

"Consequences of the vote will be disastrous without a doubt," says the clerical El Debate. "And if it pleases God that a religious war be declared against us, our souls are tempered for the struggle. But we don't think this is the case."

"They are juggling with the future of the country," protests Nacion, organ of the late dictator, Primo de Rivera. "Pray God for justice and peace if there is still time. What right have they to deny Catholic parents the privilege of sending their children to Catholic schools? Anyway, the state schools cannot care for a hundredth part of the children now in religious schools."

Bartholomae on Parole After Orgy of Spending

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—(AP)—After friends told a Superior court judge that Phillip Bartholomae, author and playwright, had given newsboys $5 each for papers, and tipped waiters with $100 bills, the judge today paroled him to an officer with the understanding he be placed in a sanatorium. TRIBUNE'S GIANT MAP STUDIED BY STUDENT GROUPS

Pupils of Junior High Listen to Lecture.

Three groups of Manly Junior High school students, numbering 125, yesterday had their social study classes around THE TRIBUNE'S giant relief map of North America in the public service office at 1 South Dearborn street. For an hour the children listened intently to a lecture by Perry Hall of the public service department on the physical aspects of the continent and their relation to the nation's industry, commerce, and development. At the end of the period, after they had been dismissed by their teachers, many were unwilling to leave and resumed to ask questions not only about geography, but about history, travel, and the making of newspapers.

Given Information Booklets.

As a memento of their visit the students were presented with THE TRIBUNE'S football schedule. As an answer to many of their questions they were given copies of the booklet, "Yours to TRIBUNE" and the popular "Ask Us Another" booklet on general information.

The map, which is on display in the public service office, is 17 feet long and 14 feet wide, over all. It represents a year's work by George Huberson, geographic sculptor, of the enamel reproduction plant, United States army. At its unveiling, Sept. 1, 1927, it was described by Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, as an "educational institution to our community."

Map Answers Questions.

"The map itself answers so many questions," said Miss Marie Upton, who, with Mrs. Florence Knight and Mrs. Mary Russell, had charge of the classes, "that a view of it is of inestimable value to the students in their social study classes which deal with a combination of geography, commerce, and history."

CLAIMS HUSBAND SPENT $150 A DAY IN SPEAKEASIES

Louis W. Rasmussen is a real drinker, his wife, Lillian, asserted yesterday, and he always keeps 200 bottles of liquor in his private bar at his home, 4511 Hamilton avenue. Not only does he drink at home, she avered, but often he spends as much as $150 in a single day in speakeasies.

One time his drinking bill during a single week amounted to $500, she said.

These statements were made in the court of Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, where Mrs. Rasmussen is seeking separate maintenance from her husband, who is secretary of the Burrowes Weather Strip company, 2161 North California avenue.

1,300 TO MAKE FIGHT FOR SEATS IN PARLIAMENT

59 Women Enter British Election Struggle.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 14.—From John O'Groats to Lands End hundreds of candidates for parliament and their supporters are thumping platforms in cities, towns and villages tonight. The campaign is gathering momentum as Friday, nomination day, approaches.

Present indications reveal that about 1,300 candidates will be nominated, 400 less than at the last general election. The shrinkage is largely due to the probability that less than 160 Liberals will go to the polls, compared to 513 in 1929.

Indications also are that only about 100 constituencies will have more than two candidates. In London alone there will be at least 37 straight fights between government and anti-government candidates.

59 Women Seek Office.

Many of the three-cornered fights are due to the intervention of Sir Oswald Mosley's new party, and to communist nominees, but Conservative, Liberal, and Socialist contests are at present threatened in about 70 constituencies.

Women candidates show an increase to 59, including 14 of the 15 women members in the last parliament. Thirty-two are Socialists, 15 Conservatives, five Liberals, one Labor National, four communists and two independents. Two, at least, will be straight fights between women candidates, and will take place at East Islington in London and at Wallsend in the country. Lady Cynthia Mosley will not run again owing to ill health.

All but 38 members of the last house of commons will seek reelection.

MacDonald Shows Strain.

Prime Minister MacDonald is showing signs of strain and weariness in his fight for the National government. He apologized to his audience at Blackhill colliery tonight.

"My friends, I am simply tired beyond words," he said. "I have had nearly two years in harness now and scarcely a holiday. It is not a question of mental endurance but of physical endurance."

"Yes," MacDonald smiled, "I was brought upon oatmeal."

The prime minister is slowly overcoming the hostility of the miners, who make up most of his constituency. At Wingate when questions were invited, not one was asked, but instead there was a great outburst of cheering. At his third meeting at Trimdon colliery the prime minister also received a fine welcome.

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 14. — (AP) — Abner Crunk, 60, Gallatin county farmer injured tew days ago when a "bee tree" he and two other men were cutting down to get the honey fell upon his head, died of a fractured skull in a local hospital last night.

Economy in Quality

It is admittedly a fact that during the years of greatest Prosperity the Standards of Living advanced to a High Level. Money was plentiful and Men bought generously. Their wardrobes were the pride of the Shirtmaker, the Haberdasher, the Tailor, and the Bootmaker. But when business slowed up purse strings began to tighten.

The past two years have been a test of Quality. The fact that men of means, perhaps more noticeably than others, have retrenched from active buying, is doubtless because they have been able to enjoy the longer wear Quality Merchandise makes possible. Economy is not how little, but how well one buys. In our New York, Chicago, London and Paris Shops you find boundless varieties of Finest Merchandise—Distinctive in Quality and always properly priced.

CARRY RELIEF DRIVE TO ALL CHICAGO TODAY

Hundreds of Volunteers to Seek Funds.

Other Groups to Start.

In addition to the campaign to be put under way by the business workers, several other divisions have been organized and will start their intensive drives today.

The neighborhood organizations will conduct an active solicitation under the leadership of Stuyvesant Peabody, chairman of the city-wide activities division. The suburban division, headed by O. C. Doering, will coördinate the relief fund drives in suburban towns of the county.

Women will play a big part in the campaign, their activities being in charge of Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy. All public employés of the federal, state, county, and city governments will be urged to donate to the fund through the public department division.

The special gifts division, headed by Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and the benefits division, of which J. Russell Forgan is chairman, launched their campaign some time ago.

Insull Explains Drive.

Mr. Insull, introduced at the Hotel La Salle luncheon as "young in years but aged in experience," told the business chieftains about the many branches of the campaign, explaining that while business was expected to contribute heavily, it was not being pressed unreasonably.

"There will be no dramatization of distress in our city," Mr. Insull said, "because there will be no distress. We will not paint horrifying pictures of what might happen because we know that the money will be raised and the things which might be feared will not happen."

Mr. Dewey, after explaining the requests which will be made to the business groups for one day's pay a month, declared that the present campaign is the only campaign for charity which will be waged this year, and this fact, he said, should move people to give their full quota of charitable contributions at this time. The fund will be sufficient to take care of the poor and unemployed until next October, he said.

To Aid 45,000 Families.

"We contemplate taking care of 45,000 families, with an average of five members each, during the coming winter," Mr. Dewey said. "Last year the cost of this service was $35 per month for each family, but this year, with decreased costs of food and supplies, we expect to be able to do the same job for $30 a month.

"There has been some question as to why we do not find some sort of work for the heads of these families to do, so they may work for the money they receive and not be forced to accept charity. We do not think this is charity. There are times when able and willing men are helpless, and it is their right, and the right of their families, to receive help from their more fortunate neighbors.

"But even if we set out to provide work for the unemployed we have computed the cost closely and we find it would cost the fund $50 a month per family, and the task of raising a relief fund sufficient for this cost would be prohibitive."

DU PONT COMPANY'S SIX HOUR DAY MEANS WORK FOR THOUSANDS

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Du Pont company announced today that work for a large number of unemployed will be provided by the adoption of a six hour day in a number of its plants.

The plan will be put into effect at once by the Du Pont Rayon company and the Du Pont Collophane company, which employ the largest number of workers among the various Du Pont units.

The plants of these two companies are at Buffalo, N. Y., Richmond and Waynesboro, Va., and Old Hickory, Tenn., and employ about 10,000 persons.

NAME STUDENTS TO HEAD U. OF C. RELIEF DRIVE

Miss Rebecca Hayward of La Grange, and Kenneth Mulligan of Paducah, Ky., students, were appointed co-chairman of the student relief fund committee of the University of Chicago yesterday. The committee plans to raise $1,000 to carry on relief work.

The appointments were made by Carter Johnston, president of the chapel council which is in charge of the campaign.

The money will be used in part to finance activities of the vocational placement bureau of the university. Student field workers will canvass all possible fields in which studens might obtain jobs.

The remainder of the fund will be used for emergency relief cases which come to the attention of the university clinics and chapel.

FAMOUS STAGE STARS TO GIVE SHOW FOR NEEDY

Fund Benefit Sponsored by Tavern Club.

Many of the greatest stars of the American stage will join on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 1, in presenting a diversified program for the benefit of the Joint Emergency Relief committee. The benefit will be put on in the Civic Opera house.

These stars have already agreed to appear, and others are expected to volunteer:

Ethel Barrymore	Beatrice Lillie
Fannie Brice	Phil Baker
Ted Healy	Benny Rubin
Ernest Truex	Blossom Seeley
Edith Taliaferro	William Faversham
Helen Menken	Tyron Powers
Pedro de Cordova	Carl Randall.
McKay Morris

The benefit is sponsored by the Tavern club, with Ernest Byfield, chairman of the theatrical benefits division of the relief committee, representing the fund.

Tickets at Popular Prices.

Tickets will be sold at the Civic Opera house, at all theater ticket agencies and the hotels, as well as at fund headquarters. Popular prices will prevail, the tickets ranging in price from $1 to $3.

Paul Whiteman and Ben Bernie and their orchestras will provide music, and the masters of ceremony will include Whiteman and Bernie as well as Phil Baker, Ted Healy and Walter O'Keefe. The idea is to summon a spirit like that of the famous Lambs' Gambols and Friars' Frolics in New York.

The committee of the Tavern club which has the affair in hand is headed by Karleton Hackett, its president, and has among its members the dramatic and musical critics of the Chicago daily newspapers.

Service Club Show.

Three members of the Service club yesterday obtained the signature of Mayor Cermak to the program for the play, "Hit It Up," which the club will present in the Civic Opera house on Oct. 24, the proceeds to go to charity. The members of the club, who appeared at the mayor's office, were Mrs. Stanley Zaring, president, and Mrs. John Dern and Miss Letitia Channon.

ELECT POLICE PENSION HEAD.

James Small, a retired policeman, yesterday was elected president of the police pension fund. He polled 956 votes in the mail voting contest. James Carroll, who ran second, got 864 votes.

APPEAL FOR WOMEN VOLUNTEERS TO AID IN RELIEF OF NEEDY

An additional call for volunteer women to offer their services in the administration of help to the needy during the coming winter was issued yesterday by the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

Although one hundred women enrolled in the October training course, Mrs. Edward Brown, director of the training courses, found this number inadequate. There have been at least five requests from charitable organizations for each volunteer in the present training group, she said.

"There is work for every type of woman," said Mrs. Brown. "Babies to be weighed and measured in infant welfare stations, case work aid to the United Charities, neighborhood visiting and club work for the settlements, important services to the county bureau. There are clerical tasks and personal contacts, human interest and general office work. But the supply of volunteers never equals the demand."

Those who wish to enroll in the next training course beginning on Nov. 3 should be at least high school graduates, who are not looking for paid employment. Applicants must first be interviewed by Mrs. Brown in room 1304, 203 North Wabash avenue. The classes will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays until Thanksgiving.

SHOW NEW YORK AID OF SHERIFF BANKS $662,311

Official Explains Bulk Is from Business.

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—The largest amount in bank deposits of any public official yet disclosed was revealed today by Samuel Seabury, counsel of the Hofstadter legislative committee in his examination of Undersheriff Peter Curran. Mr. Curran, who is president of the Democratic club of Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, Tammany leader of the fourteenth assembly district, was shown to have deposited $662,311.11 in six years and three-quarters.

S. V. McLAUGHLIN. [Acme Photo.]

This amount topped the deposits of Sheriff Farley, his chief, who obtained most of his money from his "wonderful boxes" by approximately $300,000 and those of Register James A. McQuade of Brooklyn, previous holder of the high record, by $150,000.

Part from Livery Stable.

Mr. Curran, who has been one of Sheriff Farley's leading supporters since the latter became active in politics eleven years ago, said he obtained part of his money from business, the proceeds of a horse livery stable which he sold out in 1927, the profits of a partnership in an undertaking business, rent from a garage and reimbursement by the Farley association for $25,000 he had paid for the purchase and repair of its clubhouse.

Mr. Curran declined to be specific concerning the amounts of money he obtained from his business enterprises except as to the garage from which he said he obtained a rent of from $10,000 to $12,000 a year. He explained that for years he had been in the habit of cashing checks for any one he knew in the neighborhood and that this practice of taking money out to cash checks and then putting it in again probably accounted for a large part of his deposits.

Ex-Police Heads Testify.

Two former police commissioners, George V. McLaughlin and Grover A. Whalen, absolved Mayor James J. Walker from interfering with gambling raids on political clubs.

"If noninterference is coöperation," Mr. McLaughlin said in reply to a question by Mr. Seabury, "I received 100 per cent coöperation from the mayor."

Mr. Whalen, nattily attired in a gray suit and a blue necktie, but without the customary gardenia on the lapel of his coat, asserted that he acted entirely on his own initiative in reducing Deputy Chief Inspector Lewis J. Valentine, who had been in command of a confidential special squad under his predecessors, to the rank of captain and in abolishing the squad two days after he took office. Mr. Whalen declared that the abolition of the squad and the transfer of Capt. Valentine to command a precinct in Long Island City was incidental to a general plan of reorganization and that Mayor Walker had never talked to him about Valentine.

Realty Man Living with Other Woman, Wife Claims

Mrs. Frances Wickersham, 729 Central street, Evanston, filed a bill for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court against Arthur S. Wickersham, real estate agent, charging that for the last eighteen months he has been living at a hotel at 7735 Haskins avenue with another woman. The name under which his companion is registered, Mrs. Maude Funk, is an alias adopted by a woman of a socially prominent Evanston family, it was said by Attorney Harry H. Porter, who filed the bill. Mrs. Wickersham charged that her husband left her on Nov. 11, 1927. She has been forced to take in roomers to support herself and her five children, she charged.

Tooth Forces Sylvia Sidney to Stop Work on New Film

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Work was stopped on her movie today when Sylvia Sidney, screen star, developed an infected wisdom tooth and was ordered to bed with a drain in her mouth. She is starring in "Ladies of the Big House."

SON OF POLICE LIEUTENANT IS SENT TO JAIL

Donald Teeling, 20 years old, son of Lieut. George Teeling of the stolen automobile division of the police department, was sentenced to two months in the county jail by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday for violation of the prohibition law. Young Teeling was accused of delivering liquor for University of Chicago students.

DONALD TEELING.

The man and woman for whom Teeling is alleged to have worked were also sentenced. They are Frank Kahn, sentenced to a year in the county jail and fined $250, and his wife, Edith, forty-eight hours in the county jail and a $250 fine. Harry Rupert, 20 years old, 6429 Harper avenue, said to have been Teeling's helper, was placed on two years' probation.

Ramsay Phillips of the state's attorney's office testified that the Kahns owned a grocery store at 1507 East 63d street and a vegetable store at 1504 East 63d street through which they were alleged to have carried on their booze trade. Teeling was charged with having transported liquor to the two stores from a plant at 6327 Harper avenue, which was raided by the government on Feb. 28.

CADILLAC V·8

The greatest VALUE ever offered in a Cadillac V-8

There are so many exceptional things about the Cadillac V-8 to urge its possession, that the average buyer is prone to overlook its outstanding dollar-for-dollar value.

Yet, purely on the basis of what you get for what you pay, the Cadillac V-8 is a most logical choice.

First of all, it should be remembered that the V-8 is a Cadillac—not only in name, but in design and in craftsmanship as well. This is the definite guarantee of its excellence—proof that, in every feature, it is built to the highest standards the automotive industry has known.

It should be remembered, too, that a car of such superior quality has a period of usefulness far exceeding that of a lesser automobile. Months and years after the average car would have ceased to satisfy, Cadillac V-8 owners continue to drive their cars with the fullest enjoyment.

Furthermore, a car that is built to such exacting limits of precision requires the very minimum of service. In fact, by taking advantage of Cadillac's Standard Service Contract, the V-8 owner can know—in advance—exactly what his service will cost for any given year.

Come in and see the V-8. And remember, as you admire its beauty and thrill to its performance, that V-8 prices now start at only $2695, f. o. b. Detroit—actually hundreds of dollars below the cost of previous Cadillac Eights.

f. o. b. Detroit, is the price of the Cadillac V-8 line. Illustrated above is the V-8 Town Sedan—priced, less extras, at $2845, f. o. b. factory.

SCHOOL VISIT REVEALS NEED OF LUNCH FUND

Hungry Pupils Spend Day Without Food.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4137 West Madison street.

A year ago during the school term 300 children who had no money to buy lunches were fed each noon in one big room at the Kosciuszko school. This year the big room stands cheerless, empty. The teachers who made the lunches possible haven't funds for themselves, to say nothing of hungry boys and girls. So the youngsters swarm out into the streets at the lunch hour, or wander back home to their inevitable black coffee and dry bread.

"You should have seen this place last year," P. H. Beck, the principal, told a reporter. Miss Alexandrina Moll, supervisor of the penny lunches in the schools, was making her rounds, and the reporter made them with her.

Many Children Hungry.

Kosciuszko school already had proved the necessity for the Hungry School Children's fund, being raised by THE TRIBUNE to feed hungry children. Of the 1,350 students at this particular school approximately half are "by the county," as they explain their dependence.

"This year we haven't had funds for anything," explains Mr. Beck, "and the fact is, it's needed more than ever. Now last term we used to have this room so crowded the boys were even up in the windows, drinking their milk, or around the tables, where we had cookies and fruit set for them. That one meal meant a lot in their young lives."

It may not be possible to restore that noon luncheon for all of the children in Chicago schools who had it last year and haven't it now. That depends upon gifts to the Hungry Children's fund. Some of the donations turned in for the fund will be used for the free lunch in the Kosciuszko school. The number who need it will exceed the total last year, the principal said.

Many Nearby Homes Destitute.

Destitute homes are frequent in the area served by the Kosciuszko school. Polish for the most part, the pupils come from families who never have had much more than the necessities of life. The percentage of those who patronize the penny lunchroom there is an indication of conditions. Only those who can produce 5 cents are served. There has been no fund to do to provide for the rest.

The meal yesterday was wholesome and generous, a rare bargain for the nickel spent. Sandwiches stuffed with meat loaf were ready on the table when the fortunate ones came trooping in at noon. Piping hot bowls of vegetable soup stood ready. For dessert there were prunes covered with the nourishing milk, and any aristocrat who had a few extra pennies to spare could purchase half a pint of milk to top it off. A chocolate cookie goes with the milk.

But many children did not eat because they did not have a nickel.

Some Examples of Want.

Going through a file kept of the many families dependent on charity, the principal read off such items as these:

"Five children; father deserted them in 1927; no one working." "Father ill in county hospital; six children; one older boy employed." "Father in court in April for nonsupport; three children; mother not working." "Six children; father ill; mother earns $18 a week." "Mother died in 1828; three children; father not working." "Family nominally owns home building, so cannot get help from charities, but are in destitute circumstances." And, "Father, an actor and artist, has been very ill; four children; deserving and appreciative family."

Gift of Oleomargarine.

Five thousand pounds of oleomargarine, enough to spread the bread of 32,000 hungry school children for a month, was donated yesterday by the John F. Jelke company to help provide the school lunches.

The margarine will be delivered by the company to each of a hundred schools daily. The company pointed out that because the oleomargarine is rich in vitamins it will be an especially valuable addition to the school lunch.

Gifts totaling $816.80 were received yesterday, making a grand total of $10,130.02 received since the start of the fund. The donations follow:

PROTEST PLANS TO CLOSE NAVY YARDS IN EAST

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Opposition to the closing down of the Boston and Charleston navy yards and the Newport News naval training station already has been manifested at Washington.

Immediately following the publication of stories to the effect that the navy department would recommend closing these yards as a part of the $60,000,000 administration naval economy move, a delegation from Rhode Island came to Washington to protest.

Senator Jesse H. Metcalf [Rep., R. I.] arrived in the capital today prepared to appear in person at the navy department in an effort to avert the closing down of Newport News.

TAX ON MEALS IN PUBLIC IS PLAN IN RHODE ISLAND

Providence, R. I., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A tax of ten per cent on all meals costing more than $1, served in public eating places, and on all theater and amusement tickets, regardless of cost, as well as taxes on residence telephone, electric light and gas bills, is provided in the Republican unemployment relief program presented today by Finance Commissioner Frederick S. CONVICT FREED BY ERROR FACES NEW THEFT TRIAL

When Joseph Chudada, a convicted automobile thief, is arraigned tomorrow before Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court on a charge of larceny, the court will have before it an interesting story, never before revealed, of Chudada's encounters with the law.

This story was disclosed yesterday by the Chicago crime commission. Chudada, it was shown, was sentenced in July, 1930, to one to twenty years for stealing an automobile, but served only eleven months because of an error by a court clerk.

Chudada was indicted in 1929 for stealing an automobile, but the case was stricken.

In March, 1930, Chudada was again indicted for theft of an automobile. The following May he was arraigned before Judge Peter H. Schwaba in the Criminal court. He pleaded guilty to a charge of petty larceny.

Chudada immediately made application for probation. He was released on his own recognizance. According to the records, Chudada went from the courtroom and stole an automobile from in front of the Criminal courts building.

In July, 1930, the law once more laid hands on Chudada and he was again brought before Judge Schwaba. The felony waiver was expunged and when Chudada pleaded guilty to the theft of the automobile he was sentenced to one to twenty years in Pontiac reformatory.

As a result of the error in the records, Chudada was released in eleven months. His arrest a month ago on a new larceny charge revealed that he was not in prison.

Surgeons Told of Problem Facing Them Now.

BY TOM PETTEY.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—The doctors looked at life today and found its pace too fast and span too short. Death is an individual matter these days, the American College of Surgeons was told, for science has eliminated the plagues which killed mankind in droves and made the world a safe place in which to live. The tempo of our civilization, however, has filled every other hospital bed with a mental case.

The physician of the future will be more concerned with the prevention of disease than its treatment. Old people will be patched up a bit and made as comfortable as possible, the young will be taught to know as much about their health as the doctor and possibly surgeons will be rated on a hit and error basis, very much like ball players.

Night Session in Brooklyn.

Group meetings, clinics, radio addresses, and hospital inspections occupied the 5,000 visiting surgeons during the day, an dthe night session was held in Brooklyn, where Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn.; Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland clinic, and Dr. Allen B. Kanavel of Chicago delivered the leading addresses.

Dr. Mayo urged that health instruction be made a part of the nation's school and college system and quoted the late Dr. Herman Biggs' statement that public health is purchasable, and that within reasonable limits any community could determine its own death rate.

Mind Failing Faster.

Pointing out that civilization has moved ahead so fast that man has almost, for the moment, got behind in his power of adaptation, Dr. Mayo continued:

"Every other hospital bed in the United States is for the mentally afflicted, insane, loditic, feeble-minded or senile persons. There is an enormous number of people who are almost fit for the asylum. Only five per cent of our people, at the age of sixty-five, have independent means. I would rather die when my brain fails than live on."

Dr. Mayo praised the newspapers as "powerful agents in making people health-conscious," and said "newspapers stand as bulwarks in the support of scientific medicine."

Discussing the medicine of the future, Dr. Crile expressed regret that the march of life expectancy from twenty years to fifty-eight years had halted there. Declaring this to be the principal problem which confronts medical science and the individual today, he said the causes of the greatest number of diseases which affect adults are infections and emotions.

Discusses Illness of Fear.

"We should be concerned with the control of ourselves," said the Cleveland surgeon, "for man cannot fear, he cannot hate, he cannot worry intellectually—he does these things with all his organs. There is not one group of phenomena for the acute fear of the president of a bank in a financial crash and another for the criminal who suddenly faces the naked probability of the penitentiary, or one for the patient who unexpectedly finds he has a cancer, or for a mother who watches over the child whose life hangs in the balance, or for the hunter when he shoots his first big game. Nature has but one means of response, and whatever the cause the phenomena are always the same—they are always physical.

"Before many decades the rôle of the physician will seem an entirely new one. Education will have brought the intelligent public to the point where it will be as well informed along general medical lines as is the physician.

"Consequently the chief duty of the physician will be to direct the development of youth and to guide the adult along sound biological lines. Treatment of disease will some day be a confession of failure."

Dr. Kanavel, the new president of the College of Surgeons, told of the elimination of many plagues.

"The age of chemistry has come," said Dr. Kanavel, "and we are now securing equally wonderful victories over scurvy, pellagra, diabetes, ductless gland diseases, and other similar diseases. Pneumonia and cancer still baffle us, but progress is being made in the eradication of these great enemies of mankind."

Order Maureen O'Sullivan Arrested as Hit, Run Driver

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A bench warrant for the arrest of Maureen O'Sullivan, Irish film actress, was ordered issued today when she failed to appear in Traffic court to answer charges of being a hit and run driver and failing to have either operator's card or registration tag in her automobile. Miss O'Sullivan blamed the necessity for the warrant on her attorneys, whom she claimed failed to appear in court. Miss O'Sullivan's automobile sideswiped a police car on Oct. 1. She was arrested after a 15 block chase.

Actress Is Recovering.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Barbara Kent, movie actress, was recuperating from a minor operation at Queen of Angels' hospital today.

Patsy Ruth Miller, motion picture actress, was removed from her home to a hospital suffering from an intestinal disorder believed to have been contracted during a recent visit to Tahiti. Physicians said an operation will be performed if her condition is not better by Friday.

MICHIGAN PIONEER DIES.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Oct. 14.—Mrs. Elizabeth Riffer, 81, for sixty years a resident of Buchanan City, died early today following a paralytic stroke.

1,600 POLICE IN CAPITOL MAY BE MADE DRY AGENTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Should the latest proposal for some 1,600 policemen, converted into drying up the national capital be accepted by the district commissioners prohibition agents, might be turned loose on the city's liquor law violators.

The plan was outlined today by Superintendeht of Police Henry G. Pratt in his annual report to the commissioners.

Maj. Pratt recommended an increase in the strength of the local force from 1,400 to 1,600, and asked that every policeman and detective be given authority to act as prohibition agent.

HOOVER PONDERS ECONOMIC FACTS OF BEER PROBLEM

Questions the Accuracy of Chicago Figures.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Further indication that the White House secretly has prepared an exhaustive study on the economic phases of the beer question came today when President Hoover questioned the accuracy of data presented by James C. Moreland, Chicago alderman, in behalf of the return of legalized wines and beer.

J. C. MORELAND.

Mr. Moreland, during a short conference, handed the President a resolution passed by the Chicago council. This document urged the calling of a special session of congress for the purpose of amending the Volstead act to permit the manufacture of beer and wine. In supporting these statistics, Mr. Moreland said that the return of legalized beer would put more than a billion dollars into circulation and supply work for 1,500,000 persons.

Questions the Statistics.

On leaving the White House Mr. Moreland said the President had accepted the resolution but had expressed the opinion that some of the statistics advanced in its behalf were erroneous.

The fact that the President questioned the beer statistics was interpreted as indication that the White House has gone into the beer controversy at least to the extent of digging up ammunition with which to answer the arguments of beer advocates.

No information was divulged regarding the extent of the investigations which have been made into the possible benefits of a change in the laws which would permit the manufacture of beer and wine.

M. F. McDonough, president of the building department of the American Federation of Labor, recently asserted that modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture of beer would afford employment for more than one million persons within six months after the law was revised.

Repeal Asked in Rhody.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead law, and substitution of state liquor legislation, was recommended unanimously by the executive committee of the Democratic state committee here this afternoon.

In a letter to Jouett Shouse, national executive chairman of the party, J. Howard McGrath, Rhode Island state chairman, said it was the opinion of the committee members that the 1932 national platform should include a plank "substantially" as follows:

"We advocate the repeal of the 18th amendment and of the Volstead act, substituting therefor state legislation."

Bay State G. O. P. Acts.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Republican Club of Massachusetts today ratified and approved a statement of its executive committee favoring submission of the 18th amendment, or some revision of it, to conventions of the states elected for that purpose.

MAY YET BECOME THEIR BOSS, EISEN TELLS BUTCHERS

Maxie Eisen, public enemy, appeared last night before 200 members of the Associated Hebrew Butchers at the Workmen's Circle lyceum, Kedzie and Ogden avenues, and assured them in effect that he might still become their business agent.

What Eisen said was that he "was not with them yet, but expected to have good news for them next week." The butchers greeted his statement with cheers.

For two weeks Eisen's status as business boss of the union has created difficulties. On Oct. 6, the union, comprising 389 members, elected him unanimously. The following day the Kehillah, an organization of leading orthodox Jews, protested his selection, and threatened to ban to all orthodox Jews the eating of meats. Next, Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker urged Eisen not to accept the union job, and Eisen virtually agreed. A meeting of the butchers was called last night. Eisen was the principal speaker. He intimated he might accept the election if the Kehillah and others consented.

The butchers, it is understood, object to the rule of the Kehillah, and want some one to represent them at hearings before that body.

Now you can have Exact Temperature in your home

It doesn't go up — It doesn't go down

IT STAYS JUST WHERE YOU WANT IT*

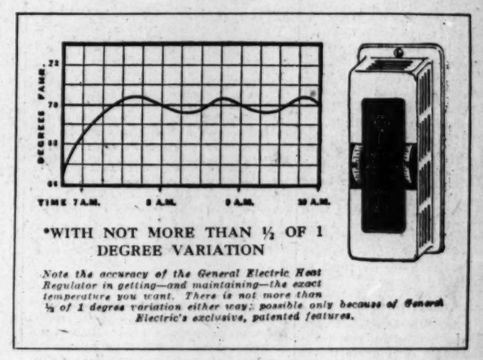
THINK of that: The exact temperature you want in your home, with no more than ½ of 1 degree variation, either above or below the mark you select.

Sounds almost impossible, doesn't it? It isn't, because the new General Electric Heat Regulator completely solves the problem of fluctuation by means of its new and exclusive features.

This remarkable product is almost superhuman in its control of your heating system. It keeps furnace-drafts (or fuel-valves) always in the precise position necessary, instead of having them completely open or completely closed. This prevents fuel waste.

It has another exclusive device which anticipates rises in room-temperature and slows down the heat as may be required. It has an automatic safeguard, in case of temporary interruption in electric house-current, on which all heat regulators operate. This keeps your furnace from going full blast if the power is off, and tends to keep a coal fire from burning out.

Prices are surprisingly low. The single-range model sells for $85; the double-range model, with an electric timer for making day and night temperature-changes automatically, for $125. Prices include installation.



*WITH NOT MORE THAN ½ OF 1 DEGREE VARIATION

Note the accuracy of the General Electric Heat Regulator in getting—and maintaining—the exact temperature you want. There is not more than ½ of 1 degree variation either way; possible only because of General Electric's exclusive, patented features.

Stop in today to see this latest G-E development for your comfort and convenience, or telephone us, and a representative will call at your home. You can have the General Electric Heat Regulator installed right now, without a single second's interference with your regular heating.

Convenient time-payments may be arranged.

HOW LONG DO YOUR COLDS LAST?

ONCE you let a cold grip you, it may last through the winter. Check them at the first sneeze, simply by breathing Vapex.

Vapex is the inhalant discovered in England during a war-time epidemic of influenza. By a fortunate accident, it was found that the vapor of the ingredients now in Vapex kept certain chemists immune to infection. And almost immediately Vapex became the "modern way to treat a cold." Now millions of people use it.

Especially for children's colds, Vapex brings safe, swift relief. And mothers put a few drops on the child's blouse to help prevent colds.

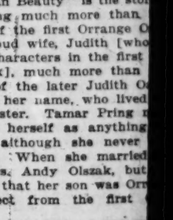
Edna Ferber Writes Novel of New England

"American Beauty" Deal with Connecticut.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"American Beauty," by Edna Ferber. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published today.

THE "American Beauty" which Edna Ferber depicts is not a person, but the beauty of rural America as described in a letter which one of the characters wrote to Sir Christopher Wren in the early 1700's.



EDNA FERBER.
[From drawing by Russell Hammond.]

"It has a resemblance to our own dear Kent, but the sky looms larger, the trees grow higher, the rocks seem more grim. It has quite another kind of beauty. A kind of American beauty." Two years ago Arthur Meeker Jr., of our town, published his first novel. It was called "American Beauty." For a great many readers "American Beauty" means that brilliant first novel—the story of a typical American girl. They will have to adjust their minds to another use of the phrase, for Edna Ferber's "American Beauty" will be by tomorrow the day after, as all of her books are in every bookshop window and soon in every home table beside the easiest chair.

Edna Ferber herself is more of a Chicagoan than she is a New Yorker. For years her books were about Chicago as well as being written in Chicago. During the last five years she has chosen other American scenes for her novels, the Mississippi river for "Show Boat," Oklahoma for "Cimarron" and the Housatonic valley in Connecticut for this one published today.

It is Connecticut that has a "kinship of American Beauty." In that fertile valley in small, fruitful plots largely owned by Polish farmers, there are still remnants of the early New England culture. Miss Ferber chose for her novel the story of the first family of settlers in the valley, but sets of a house of rare and lovely design—the paper handiwork of "no less than Sir Christopher Wren who was a friend of Capt. Orrange Oakes. Generation gave place to generation, fortunes sank, there were no men left the women to marry. The farm lost its master and gained a mistress in Jude Oakes, the last of her name.

Jude Oakes, a hard, bitter spinster ruled her farm as if she were a queen. Her chamberlain was a Pole, her farm hand. Her court a young brother who was not only a dwarf but a little mad.

Into that circle there was born the daughter of Jude's sister who had run away with a peddler. Tamar after spending all of her fifteen years traveling with her father and mother in Pring's Indian Miracle Medicine Show.

"American Beauty" is the story of Tamar Pring much more than the story of the first Orrange Oakes and his proud wife, Judith [who is the main characters in the first part of the book], much more than even the story of the later Judith Oakes, the last of her name, who lived and died a spinster. Tamar Pring never thought of herself as anything but an Oakes, although she never used that name. When she married and became Mrs. Andy Olszak, but she always felt that her son was Orrange Oakes, direct from the first Orrange Oakes.

Good morning!

"So you don't believe what you write?" the lady asks the author whose best seller advocating freedom of the sexes has spurred her on to a divorce sans alimony.

"I do not!" replies the author—whose wife has accepted his written word and married away from his bed and board taking with her his small and beloved son. "You see, it's this way—the first book I published was a masterpiece. Eight copies sold. I decided to make my writing profitable, so I took every old-fashioned virtue and reversed it. I'm a success, so far as money making goes—but I've lost my wife and child. . . ."

This picture is acted with polish and quite remarkable sincerity by every member of the cast. Claudia Dell as Patricia is most appealing—and very pretty. Marjorie Rambeau gives an outstanding performance as a one time famous opera singer and favorite of royalty, who has been brought low by her love for liquor. Alan Mowbray as the author mentioned presents a finely etched portrayal.

"Leftover Ladies" is cleverly dialogued and directed, and beautifully staged and costumed. The story has depth as well as snap and will make any woman, gazing upon husband and home with the look of a love grown tired, pause and do a little thinking.

THE STAGE

WALKER WHITESIDE'S staging of the melodrama called "Surf" faded quietly out of the Chicago theatrical picture last Saturday night. The Blackstone is thus left vacant until the arrival of Mrs. Fiske in Carlos Drake's comedy, "Against the Wind," Oct. 26. . . . "Salt Water" will end its run at the Playhouse next Saturday night, and will go on tour.

Anne Murdock, an actress well known on the American stage from 1908 to 1917, was married in Rome yesterday to Leone Colleoni, manager of the Hotel Excelsior, according to Associated Press dispatches. She made her debut in "The Lion and the Mouse" and had achieved the rank of a star when she retired. Among the plays in which she appeared as heroine were "The Call of the North," "The Noble Spaniard," "Electricity," "The Beautiful Adventure," and "Please Help Emily."

The Loyola Community Theater group will begin its season in its new playhouse with Philip Barry's "Holiday," Nov. 9, 10, and 11. "The Vagabond King" is announced for January, and a Passion Play for eight performances in Lent. Cornelia Otis Skinner has been booked for a program of her character sketches on March 14.

Tony Sarg's marionettes will give morning and afternoon performances at the Goodman theater Oct. 31, Nov. 7 and Nov. 8. A puppet show version of Thackeray's "The Rose and the Ring" will be on the bill. A series of performances in the towns of the north shore will follow.

The Institute Players will begin their season at the Jewish People's institute next Saturday night with Eugene O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones." The title rôle will be played by Jack Smith, a Negro student from Drake university.

Queenie Smith started her season's acting and singing last Monday night in Newark, N. J., offering an operetta from Berlin called "The Little Racketeer." Her company includes John Price Jones, Wesley Pierce, Hazel Harris, Ruth Shields, Lorraine Weimar, and two orientals named Yo-Hay-Tong and Khalil-Ouglou. C. C.

State St. Merchants Now Owners of New Bright Light System

Ownership of the lights which make the loop segment of State street the brightest thoroughfare in the world, yesterday passed into the hands of the State Street Lighting association on the occasion of the fifth anniversary of their installation. The anniversary was observed at a luncheon of leading State street merchants at the Palmer house.

Transfer of the physical equipment, valued at $500,000, was made by E. W. Lloyd, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company, acting also for the Chicago Surface Lines. The papers were accepted by Elmer T. Stevens, president of the State Street Lighting association.

Others present at the luncheon were Walter L. Gregory, Bruce McLeish, Fred D. Corley, John Coyne, David Mayer, W. J. Buffington, D. F. Kelly, O. R. Hogue, and John E. Wilkie.

Plans were discussed for the extension of the lighting system north to Wacker drive and south to Congress street.

Cosmic Rays Called Source of Vast Power

Source Far Beyond Sun, Millikan Says.

ROME, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Cosmic rays—beams from a region far beyond the sun and visible stars—are changing and will continue to change the world's ideas on the origin and destiny of the universe, Prof. Robert A. Millikan, American physicist, said here today.

After describing recent discoveries in the power and origin of cosmic rays to prominent scientists who are meeting here, he intimated that the idea of a compact little universe consisting of a sun in the center and planets moving serenely around it was due for a rude jolt.

Experiments conducted last summer and described to the physicians today, he said, showed that cosmic rays come from a point hundreds of millions of miles beyond the sun and visible stars, and had nothing to do with either.

Furthermore, the energy of cosmic rays, he said, is equal to if not greater than all other radiant energies combined, including those of the sun. This tremendous energy—one cosmic ray is of 786,000,000 volt electrons—comes from a vast field of hydrogen, which is at an almost incalculable distance beyond the sun, Dr. Millikan said.

"Results of our experiments in cosmic rays seem destined," he said, "to influence profoundly all theories of the origin and destiny of the universe, not only the present ones, but all future theories.

Dr. Millikan contradicted the second law of thermo-dynamics, which states that all forms of energy have a tendency to change into heat and to radiate away from the earth.

"This has been considered by some as conclusive proof for theories of the origin and destiny of the universe," he said. "But it has not even taken account of the largest source of radiant energy there is.

"The energy carried by cosmic rays throughout the universe is as great as, or perhaps greater, than all other radiant energies taken together."

Sir Oliver Feels Reassured.

HOVE, Sussex, England, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Sir Oliver Lodge, speaking tonight before the Chichester diocesan council, took sharp issue with the scientists who believe the universe is running down. Nobody knows, he said. In the end the process may be reversed.

Einstein Gives His Ideas.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Oct. 14.—To a distinguished audience in the main hall of the Vienna Institute of Physics and by microphone to two other rooms, Prof. Albert Einstein tonight explained the present status of his relativity theory and embarked on a remarkable speculation about the extent and shape of space.

Einstein spoke of calculations he had made which seemed to indicate that the universe, if it were expanding, must have started with no volume at all and must ultimately again contract to no volume. Reviewing his recent works, Einstein announced he had succeeded in assembling gravitation and electro-dynamics in a unified theory, but his hope of being able as a result to close the gap between the quantum theory and the relativity theory had been disappointed.

Another View of Universe.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Williem De Sitter, celebrated astronomer of Holland, who is described as believing the universe is "empty," is coming to the United States to lecture.

Sebald String Quartet Starts the Season of Chamber Music

The first chamber music of the season was played at Kimball hall last night by the string quartet that takes its name from and is headed by the virtuoso and pedagogue of the violin and general athlete, Alexander Sebald. The other members of the organization are L. Zverow, second violin; J. Kovacs, viola; and W. Peske, cello, and the program was made up of the posthumous quartet in D minor by Schubert, the quartet in C by Beethoven, opus 59, No. 3, and a solo performance by Mr. Sebald of the adagio and fugue from the sonata in G minor by Bach.

The artists of the organization displayed a unified and rather expert ensemble, which went not only to matters of expression, tempo, and accurate pitch, but to a resemblance of tone uncommon among four players. Here the effort, a successful one, was toward brilliant clarity rather than warmth, but worked out logically and generally attractively. Two other recitals completing the series will be given at intervals of four weeks.

Yankees' Guns Will Salute Petain at Sea

Yorktown Ready to Recall Victory for U. S.

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The pride of the scouting force steamed to sea tonight to extend the first American greeting to Marshal Henri Petain and the delegation sent by the French nation to participate in the 150th anniversary of the battle of Yorktown.

Far out in the Atlantic a 17 gun salute will thunder from the turrets of the cruisers Augusta, Chester, and Pensacola when the French cruisers Suffren and Duquesne appear at dawn.

A like salute will come from the French guns. Then, with the Augusta leading, the French warships will be convoyed through the capes where 150 years ago Comte de Grasse sailed his French fleet to direct his fire on the besieged British forces at Yorktown.

Salutes of 21 guns will be exchanged between the foreign vessels and the land batteries at Fortress Monroe as anchors are dropped at Old Point Comfort.

Gen. John J. Pershing, representing the United States and the commonwealth of Virginia, will greet the "savior of Verdun" as the French delegation comes ashore. Among the distinguished French representatives will be Adelbert de Chambrun, great-grandson of the Marquis de la Fayette.

Yorktown bristled with warlike maneuvers today as final preparations were completed for the four day sesquicentennial observance of the battle.

The formal rehearsal of the pageants to be staged Oct. 16, 17, and 19 was complete in every detail.

U. S. Weather Expert Asks for Perpetual Calendar

GENEVA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Charles F. Marvin of the United States weather bureau and a representative of the Eastman calendar reform committee, told the league of nations conference on calendar reform today that his organization will support no change except that for establishing a perpetual calendar.

Miss Elisabeth Achells of New York, representing the World Calendar association, and C. D. Morris, for the University Association for the Study of Calandar Reform, already had registered their advocacy of the perpetual calendar.

"16 DIFFERENT SPOTS CALLED BIRTHPLACE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN!"

Hodgenville, Ky., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Louis A. Warren, Lincoln biographer, of Fort Wayne, Ind., in an address here today declared the discovery of another supposed birthplace of Abraham Lincoln raises the number to sixteen.

Harvey H. Smith of New York recently stated the Emancipator was not born in a one room log cabin on Nolin creek in Kentucky, but in a comfortable two story house on Mill creek, 25 miles distant.

"There have been fifteen other attempts to center public opinion on a certain spot where individuals, groups, and even whole states have claimed Abraham Lincoln was born," Dr. Warren said.

"Citizens of Hardin county, Ky., have for years insisted Lincoln was born on one of four definitely located sites within the present boundaries.

"The project contemplated by Mr. Smith is another attempt to locate the birthplace in old Hardin county. All of these birthplace projects, including the present effort on behalf of Mill creek, necessarily imply the illegitimacy of Abraham Lincoln."

The biographer referred to a statement by Lincoln to Hicks, an artist, in which he stated he was born "Feb. 12, 1809, in the then Hardin county, Ky., at a point within the now county of Larue, a mile or a mile and a half from where Hodgen's mill now stands."

Yale Public Health Teacher Urges Better Schools for Nurses

Although nursing is the one career created by women and in which women are supreme, Dr. Charles Edward A. Winslow, professor of public health at Yale university, said yesterday, the training of nurses has been neglected more than any other field of education. Dr. Winslow addressed the Central Council for Nursing Education at a luncheon in the Blackstone hotel.

"This is a remarkable century we are living in" he said, "comparable only to the thirteenth century when vast sums of money were spent in building beautiful cathedrals. The outpouring of wealth for education in the United States has been tremendous, but the training of nurses continues to be accomplished along lines of how much work can be got out of nurses while they are in training.

"Hospitals found that student nurses could do so much work that, while they are taking in larger and larger classes, they have no work to give nurses after they graduate. Four times as many nurses are being turned out as can be absorbed by the communities."

Expert Bridge Players Bow to New Rules

Battle of Rival Systems Seems at End.

Lenz Hits Back

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Sidney S. Lenz, contract bridge writer and associate of Charles True Adams, authority on contract bridge, issued a statement today accusing Ely Culbertson, editor of the Bridge World magazine and also a well known player, of having "ignored" Mr. Lenz's acceptance of Mr. Culbertson's challenge last June for a team of four duplicate match. At that time Mr. Culbertson offered odds of $10,000 to $1,000, the winning to go to charity.

"He, notwithstanding he is the challenger, lays down all the conditions, even unto the eighth dimension, going so far as to make disposition of my winnings, if any, and claiming the right of selecting his team and also mine," said Mr. Lenz. "It is a bit analogous to challenge your adversary to a duel and insisting upon giving odds of ten to one—the challenger taking the first ten shots, after which he graciously permits his late opponent a hundred.

"If Mr. Culbertson is really anxious to play with me, I only require him to put up the $10,000 that he has so blantantly shouted about, name his team, and permit me to select my team."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Investigators making the rounds of important New York clubs where contract bridge is played for real money by real players learned this week that from now on the game is to be more marked by skill and less by terrified guessing about what the partner means when he says one club or two spades.

The war about the rules is ending, at least among those who are recognized as first grade players. It was a stern war while it lasted although it was fought in guerrilla fashion. Seventeen generals formed seventeen armies of contract bridge fighters and the strife was terrific. No two of the systems were entirely alike; some were pretty good; some were just fair; none was perfect or near it.

It was nothing unusual for Mr. Smith to inform Mrs. Jones, whom he had drawn for a partner, that he played the Whoosis system and for Mrs. Jones to remark that she never heard of it. The result was that blustering bridge players were always finding a clear reason for being cutting to partners and gentle souls were forever having cold chills because they couldn't understand why the Whatsis system couldn't be coördinated with the Whoosis.

But now the happy word has gone forth that coödination is here. Sixteen of the seventeen generals—the Horatii at the bridge—seeing the very life of this interesting card game threatened by a multiplicity of systems, pooled their intelligence, their experience, and their interests and formed what they called the "Official System."

One of these experts, who hopes some day to be a superexpert himself, said today that even if the "Official System" were not superior to the best of the seventeen it would be to the advantage of bridge players to use it.

"It must be as good as the best one of the sixteen collaborators was," he philosophized, "and I am willing to believe it's better. Standardization alone will make it imperative for everybody who aspires to play good bridge to adopt it."

This strife about card games is nothing new. It took England a hundred years to learn whether whist should be spelled whist or whisk, and longer still to get a sensible bidding system for that comparatively simple game.

Then auction bridge came in and there were long controversies about the informative double, the bidding of four card suits and the exact requirements for a raise. That ironed out pretty well and perfect strangers found it was possible to play auction and know what other players meant by their bids.

"Then," continued the expert mentioned before, "we got contract and more trouble. One of the first recognized authorities to sense the need of a real system of contract bidding was Charles True Adams of Chicago. His bridge playing had gained the admiration of Milton C. Work, who with the late Wilbur Whitehead dominated auction bridge thought.

"Adams issued a book entitled 'Contract Bridge at Sight,' which has sold 300,000 copies in three countries, a record unequalled in bridge literature. That was the time when Chicago started a big movement in bridge. The Adams system spread even to Europe. It was a notable contribution.

"The trouble was that all the other experts took it and adapted it and put out their own books. Although the systems were all alike in about ninety out of a hundred points, the other ten were in hopeless confusion.

"Things ran along that way until this summer, when F. Dudley Courtenay, one of the greatest players, called a conference. Every one of the seventeen masters was invited. Adams, Work, Sidney Lenz, Madeline Kerwin and all the rest except Ely Culbertson came in.

"The sixteen masters really know their bridge. You can bet on it that they were temperamental. Every one of them had specialized knowledge to impart. The remarkable thing about that conference was that they all finally agreed on a system and were all enthusiastic about it.

"Now I believe that contract bridge has been through its development stage and that enough is known about it to codify the conventions. I

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here follows a little tip for girls who act on the theory that to hold a man it is best to keep him away from all social contact.

Oscar tells how he has been going steadily with a girl for three years. "Lately," he tells, "I've felt that seeing each other to the exclusion of every one else tends to narrow our lives. It seems to me that if we were to move about in other circles for awhile and meet people and possibly see each other less frequently we'd have more to talk about, have more interesting evenings together when we do meet and be in less danger of tiring of each other. The girl feels differently. She thinks it enough that we have each other. She takes my suggestion as a desire to get away from her. It isn't that. I care for her. But we never have a new angle to talk about, a new idea to inspire us, and the evenings together are getting dull."

Oscar is right. The girl is wrong. Nothing is so narrowing as to cut off social contact. Nothing is so hard on a romance as to attempt to keep it running on a constant, two-some basis. When two people get so much of each other's company that each can anticipate in advance just what the other is going to say and do the romance shows symptoms of anemia. Even in married life the occasional surprise is advocated just to relieve the monotony. How much more is it necessary during courtship days to inject a new note into the companionship.

Women are more prone to isolating the loved one than men. It's hard to believe that it isn't fear of losing her man that's responsible. Anyway, it is selfish and there's more than a little of the egotist about an individual who believes that she can supply all the interest, entertainment, and enthusiasm a man needs. A girl does create a more interesting atmosphere for herself who has a variety of friends and interests. The more it is seen the friends like the girl the surer the man is that he is getting a prize. And that illusion has to be kept up at all costs.

At Last Harvard Finds Radcliffe Girls Human

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 14.—(AP)—One of Harvard's oldest traditions vanished today—and Harvard rejoiced over the loss.

"The Vagabond," columnist for the Crimson, undergraduate publication, broke the news. He related that decades ago a traditional Radcliffe girl had been glorified by Harvard students, that the tradition still lived, but that he had blasted it with a trip to the neighboring college.

The traditional Radcliffe girl, he said, wore cotton stockings, low heeled, three button shoes and her hair in braids; raised Christian eyebrows when a student said hell; peered through shiny glasses and talked through a siny nose, and a thoroughly unattractive figure she was.

But the Radcliffe girl of 1931, he said, actualy is "slick, svelte and trim as a new yacht."

"Tradition may have been the salvation of England, but not so of Radcliffe," concluded the "Vagabond."

Bright Sayings of the Children

One day our daughter, 5½ years, came running into the house and said, "Please turn the radio off; the butterfly is too happy. He is dancing over the screen and I can't catch him."

G. S.

Recently my daddy was helping a neighbor shell. My little brother, aged 3, was riding to and from the elevator with daddy. One of the men asked him the names of his daddy's horses. Unhesitatingly he replied: "Giddap and Whoa."

Ignoring the Child in the Right Way Is Sometimes Necessary

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A group of letters say in substance: My little girl of 3 is loving, intelligent, and beautiful—and much admired. She is becoming defiant, stubborn, self-conscious, acts up at meal times, and takes too much out of me. And of her nurse, too, for we have another baby. What can I do?

First, I've received pictuers of some of these little boys and girls, and they are bonnie indeed. Of course they have a great deal of admiration. And, of course, it isn't good for them. But an answer to one of these mothers would read something like this:

"My dear Mrs. B.: You may feel that my suggestions don't fit the difficulties you describe having with your altogether bonnie little daughter. And I don't wonder she has a great deal of admiration. Of course I agree with you that it isn't good for her.

"Shall I be frank? I think one trouble is that probably you and the grandmother and nurse give too much importance to your small daughter's actions—on the surface, I mean. When she disobeys, when she is defiant, when she doesn't eat she sees what a disturbance it causes. That proves interesting to her. It attracts a great deal of attention to her, and especially where there is a second baby, this is much craved.

"First, for definite help I'd suggest our booklets on obedience and stubbornness, and also to advise you to read "Cultivating the Child's Appetite" by Dr. Charles B. Aldrich. It deals with these eating difficulties sanely, simply, and sympathetically.

"Next force yourself and your nurse to react differently to your small daughter's behavior. Show interest in her play and be companionable and responsive, but take her meal time action, her disobedience, etc., calmly and lightly. Don't center your attention and the nurse's on her at that time. She needs loving interest from you but not this attention to her conduct. She should not have hovering, persuasion and argument.

"A course of a certain kind of wholesome ignoring is what she needs at this point. Keep the attention off her as far as behavior is concerned, but give her plenty of attention for her achievements, and praise for the considerate friendly helpful things she does. Or, as some one put it the other day, 'Be objective, not subjective. Turn her thoughts outward not inward.'"

Vollbehr in Chicago with Bible Marked with Luther's Name

Three volumes claimed to be Martin Luther's own Bible were brought to Chicago yesterday by their owner, Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr of Washington, D. C., formerly of Berlin, who hopes to exhibit them at the Century of Progress. The Bible was printed in Wittenberg, Germany, by Hanz Lufft in 1541 on pure vellum.

The Bible, according to Dr. Vollbehr, is known as a Lucius Cranach Bible. It contains three full page autograph inscriptions by each of four great figures of the German Reformation—Martin Luther, Philip Melanchthon, Johan Bugenhagen, and Caspar Cruciger. There are three full page hand painted miniatures signed and dated by Lucius Cranach, two heraldic title borders printed under his direction, and a large number of woodcuts.

Dr. Vollbehr said the Bible was made for Prince George III. of Anhalt. It is believed that there were only five copies printed.

Expert Bridge Players Bow to New Rules

believe, too, that sixteen heads can outthink one. The time has gone when every unusual looking set of guesses about how to bid could get a following.

"What I believe is not very important, but the fact that most of the bridge players in New York believe the same way is important. It is not too much to say that our bridge players have nearly all turned to the official system.

"In a few months you'll find that Chicago as well will be playing the standard set of rules, and a little later it will be possible for good players everywhere to get together and play the game as it should be played, with a full understanding."

The change from the multiplicity of systems to the one standard began with the first public teaching here. Some 600 persons, most of them teachers themselves, gathered and studied the official system and went out to spread it.

Next there was a demand that the superexperts go to Chicago and they went. A hundred teachers from the middle west were initiated into the mysteries there. Present at that meeting were Mr. Adams, youngest of the recognized experts; Mr. Lenz, who has put up $1,000 as a stake for a match with Mr. Culbertson and hasn't had it covered yet; Mr. Work, E. V. Shepherd, Walter Wyman, Commissioner Winfield Liggett, and Capt. F. F. French.

First Empire Styles Followed at Wedding of Virginia Troup

Styles of the period of Napoleon I. and the Empress Josephine furnished the inspiration for the gowns of the feminine participants in the wedding ceremony last night of Miss Virginia Troup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Van Cleve Troup of Evanston, to Richard C. Uhlemann.

The service was read at 8:30 o'clock at the Evanston Congregational church before an altar banked with palms, white chrysanthemums, and white tapers. A reception followed at the Evanston Country club.

The bridal gown of white chiffon velvet duplicated the Empress Josephine's gowns, with its straight, flowing lines, long train, and sleeves puffed above the elbow. Even the cap of heirloom princess lace from which fell a tulle veil followed the Empire trend by dipping low over the left eye. The hair on the right side of the bride's head was left exposed except for a band of miniature opalescent calla lilies.

The maids of honor, Miss Elizabeth Campbell and Miss Vera Middendorf, wore gowns of ice green slipper satin and the bridesmaids, Miss Caroline Uhlemann, Miss Ann Bradford, Miss Harriet Cunningham, Miss Jean Wegener, Mrs. Lyman A. Thompson, and Miss Mary Kirkpatrick, wore similarly fashioned gowns of nugget gold satin. All of the attendants carried purple orchids.

Mr. Uhlemann and his bride are to go to Honolulu for their wedding trip and will reside in Evanston after Jan. 1.

■ One of the MOST EXPENSIVE pearl necklaces in the world. From the famous Marcus & Co., New York, collection which ranges in cost from $100 to $500,000. Creme-rosé in tone, unique in quality and size, perfectly matched and graded—a true masterpiece in pearls.

Intellect Required!

Real pearls and synthetic pearls are remarkably alike. The same composition, the same general appearance...it takes an expert to discern the differences which make genuine pearls worth thousands and imitation pearls only a few dollars. And it takes a person of intelligence to appreciate the difference.

The same is true of tooth pastes. They look a lot alike—they serve virtually the same purpose. But, considering Pebeco, there the similarity stops.

Of every tube of Pebeco, 40% is an expensive ingredient found in no other dentifrice and put there for the good it will do your teeth. This makes a big difference in taste—a big difference in the cleanness and whiteness of your teeth, and in the cool comfort of your mouth.

Pebeco has no "popular" flavor. It is not confection-like. It is simply a dentifrice that appeals to people of intelligence not because of its promises but because of the way it performs.

Do your own thinking about tooth pastes. Try a tube of Pebeco if you have at heart solely the desire to help your teeth.

DON'T you want this way of making the bowels behave? A doctor's way to make the bowels move so well that you feel better all over! Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin doesn't turn everything to water, but cleans out all that hard waste clogging your system. It cleans you out without any shock, for it's only fresh laxative herbs a famous doctor found so good for the bowels combined with pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Let Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin show you how soon you can train the bowels to move freely, every day, the way they should. It's wonderful the way this prescription works, but it's perfectly harmless; so you can use it whenever a coated tongue or sick headache gives warning that you are bilious. Fine for children, too (it tastes so nice) and they ought to have a spoonful the minute they seem fretful, feverish, or sluggish, or become stuffed up with a cold.

You can get the original prescription Dr. Caldwell wrote so many years ago; your druggist keeps it all ready in big bottles. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and use it any time anyone in the family is constipated.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about the natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15, 30c, 60c.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin and Don Philippe de Rodriguez, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom Libby, arrive in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with Philippe and quits the act. She marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence with him. A baby son arrives to compensate her for any flaws in the marriage system. The baby becomes the center of her universe. Wallace's lifelong ambition is a European voyage. A paid up endowment policy makes the trip possible. Irma reluctantly agrees to leave the baby. She is dreadfully upset by a letter received in Paris from Aunt Tessie. Wallace tries unsuccessfully to change their return passage to an earlier date. While dining with the Dexters, whom they'd met on the boat, the Wallaces meet Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor. He has a cabin on a boat sailing in two days.

HOME TO THE BABY.

"Would you care to dance?" Russell asked Irma. "I'm afraid we'll look awfully funny together. I'm such an elephant, but it would be a great favor to me if you wouldn't mind too much."

Irma guessed as she took her place in his arms that he wished to administer a healthy snub to Lalla and thus alienate her. He was the sort of man who would loathe a woman to parade her affection for him in a public place. They danced in silence for a while, then just as they passed Wallace and Lalla he spoke for the first time.

"You dance beautifully," he said in a soft, almost tender tone.

"Thank you," she said demurely.

"You're very silent," he said after a time. "Are you thinking what an atrocious dancer I am?"

"No, I'm thinking how lucky you are to be going home Wednesday."

"Can't you go?"

"Really, that's too bad. I wish you were going Wednesday on my boat," he added gallantly.

"Maybe we will if I can find somebody who'll let us have their cabin."

"Have you advertised?"

"No. You see, my husband isn't as anxious to go as I am." She looked up and tossed him a knowing, thoroughly naughty smile. "I'm a lady in distress. I'm anxious to get back to something in the States that he doesn't even know about."

"O."

There was a second's pause during which Irma laughed a light, silvery laugh. "I was just thinking," she said, "I tried to talk your friend Mr. Austin into giving his cabin up to me, but there wasn't a chance. I forgot what I told him. Something about an accident at home or something, but he hasn't a bit of sporting blood, that chap."

"Where do you live in the States?" Byrnes asked abruptly.

"Thrace."

"O. Do you ever get down to New York?"

"Sometimes."

"Do you ever get down to New York?"

"Would you make it your business to get there if I gave you my cabin?"

"And how!"

"Don't fool me now. I'm going to get your address in Thrace from your husband and if you don't look me up in New York then I'll come look you up in Thrace."

"That would be a pleasure."

"I was only going home for lack of something better to do," he said. "You can have the cabin, but remember, baby, don't just drop out of sight then. I want to see more of you. I like you. What's your name?"

"Irma."

"Irma what? I didn't get it when we were introduced."

"Graham."

They were walking back to the table now. Irma was thinking swiftly. There was Wallace to attend to. Probably a fine mess she had gotten herself into promising God knows what to a red headed giant who was quite capable of following her to Thrace and carrying her bodily away. She felt a trifle light headed and giddy at the speed with which the matter had been arranged. It was nice, she reflected, to be rich and unfettered so that if some one caught your fancy you could decide in a trice to grant them requests.

It was obvious that Russell Byrnes would suffer no dearth of ladies in his life. He wouldn't even notice that one Irma Graham had forgotten to call and thank him for the cabin he had given one night while slightly lit. As a matter of fact he could probably get other accomodations on any boat he selected. He would have friends and contacts and money enough to do anything he chose.

And perhaps back in America she would call and thank him. They would have tea together and he would make a few languid passes at her. She would become matronly and dignified and that would be that.

They danced together again. He was staying at the Crillon. Irma was to call him in the morning after she had explained the new arrangement to Wallace. They'd all go to the steamship office then and do the thing properly.

"And perhaps you and I could go somewhere tomorrow evening?" he suggested.

She raised her eyes and looked at him with just the proper amount of longing. Nothing would please her more, her eyes told him. Russell Byrnes had encountered off-stage actresses before, but none so convincing. He found himself giving her just the tiniest, tenderest kind of squeeze and whispering, "I know you can't, girlie. I won't coax you. Some time back home."

Irma was glad when she and Wallace were alone that night. She was anxious to tell him what she had done, anxious to have the unpleasant phases of the matter over.

"We're going home Wednesday," she said abruptly.

"Wednesday? How?"

"Mr. Byrnes is giving us his cabin."

"O, he is?"

"Yes, isn't that nice of him?"

Wallace said, "What the hell is he doing that for?"

"Because I asked him to."

"O. You must have impressed him plenty."

"Maybe I did. Anyhow we've got the cabin. I'm so glad that I could cry. Gee, I'll be glad to see the baby."

Wallace fetched a weary sigh. "Irma," he said, "you were right. We should never have come on this trip. It'll probably be one of those twelve hundred dollar cabins I'll have to buy from Byrnes."

A wave of dislike for her husband swept over Irma with terrible force and suddenness. How could he think of money when nothing was important but getting back to the baby."

"If you like," she said coldly, "I'll ask Mr. Byrnes to pay for it. Or better yet you stay here and I'll go home with him."

"That's a nice way to talk, isn't it? Especially for a person who pretends to have no interest in life except her baby. I believe Russell Byrnes impressed you as much as you have impressed him."

"I'm carried away by him, Wallace. He's my great love. O, go ahead and be thoroughly Thrace and ask if he kissed me at the end of the waltz. If you had imagination enough to realize how strong my desire to get home to see the baby is you'd be furious. Russell Byrnes could have me and kiss me and throw me away in exchange for that cabin. See? So could George Dexter, or Kemp Austin, or anybody else."

"Irma, you talk like a fool."

"Sure. I wouldn't though if you had a streak of authority in you. You could have gotten me passage if you'd half tried. Why didn't you try all the agencies and offices? You don't know, you poor soul, that children get crippled by little falls and bumps. All you know is that a wife is supposed to conduct herself with dignity and modesty."

"Irma, what the hell is the matter with you? You're raving. O, you poor kid——"

In the few minutes that followed he was very tender and helpful, for suddenly she has become violently ill. It was possible now for him to be pleasant and even jocular. The poor little thing had drunk too much. Wallace always felt at peace with the world when his wife was doing something he could not understand—even if it was only being dreadfully sick at her stomach.

Later he tucked her snugly into bed.

"If Byrnes is still of the same mind tomorrow we'll take his cabin, Irma."

"Thanks, dear," she said weakly. "It'll only be four hundred dollars more. I asked him. Besides we will be saving the money we would have spent in Paris."

Wallace sighed again and turned out the light.

"Wallace."

"Yes, dear."

"When we see Byrnes tomorrow don't mention anything about us going home on account of the baby."

"Why not?" he asked sharply.

"O, you know how bachelors are. They're bored if people mention their babies. Anyhow don't mention it till the cabin has been transferred to us."

"All right, dear." Once more the world was a fuzzy, difficult place to get along in. How did she manage to say and do so many incomprehensible things?

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Blankets and Comforts Needed.

"My husband has not been working steadily for the last year and a half. We have two children now, and I am expecting another one. We haven't enough bed clothes, and I wonder if your readers would help us by giving any they do not want. I dread the coming winter and the cold nights. MRS. J. M."

Perhaps you are investing in new blankets and comforts for the winter. If so, this housewife would be glad to mend or patch any you might be discarding. She could put them to good use.

Buy Normally, Mrs. Hoover's Plea to Women

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover's suggestion to American women during period of economic stress is "keep on living a normal life."

"The one who is not in trouble will have to help the one who is in trouble," she said in an interview today. Mrs. Hoover is here for the national convention of Girl Scouts.

"Do not curtail too many of your activities that are essential, because otherwise you throw the machine out of gear.

"If we all stopped buying any more than we have to to keep body and soul together, employment would drop tremendously.

"Keep on spending money as a people.

"Every one should seize the opportunity to do what he can."

Elaborating on the need for not curtailing necessary expenditures, Mrs. Hoover referred to some of her own housekeeping problems.

"The White House windows," she said, "will need new curtains within the next year or two. I suppose the frayed edges might be cut and the curtains made to do.

"But the man in Washington who would make the new curtains is having a difficult time to maintain his establishment. An order for curtains for the White House windows—they are so awfully big—would be of considerable help to him."

Mrs. Hoover later donned her Girl Scout uniform and opened the 17th annual convention of the National Council of Girl Scouts, saying this organization was doing much in the various communities.

Dry Skin Will React Favorably to Extra Allotment of Cream

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A leathery feel to the skin is one of the complaints I'm receiving these days. The after effects of a protracted and unprotected outdoor summer season with some. With others just an autumn condition commonly enough experienced. Anyway, you want that slightly moist feel to the skin that a healthy young child's has.

You won't get a child duplicate if it is a long, long time since you've been folded into the crook of a loving parent's arm. But you can get a soft feel and a slightly moist glow if you will take nightly precaution to lubricate the excessively dry skin.

I don't know why it is that we women suffer this dry condition of skin more than any other facial ill, unless it is due to the dieting the most of us are constantly struggling with. In it we are eliminating oils and fats, I think, to our skins' discomfiture. Since we can't be plump, then we have to cater to the skin some other way.

But if the skin is dry, there must be more than that used for a cleansing feature. I ran across a woman the other day who restored the softness to her cheeks with olive oil applications. She used a good quality oil, warmed it a bit—although there is a question about there being any advantage in warming olive oil—and used it a couple of times a day. She has nice textured skin now.

Sweet almond oil is another skin lubricant guaranteed to restore the quality of skin we're talking about. You can go in for an almond oil facial, or just pat it on simply and let it remain on for a few minutes.

And then there is a whole regiment of skin foods worked out by experts for just this dry skinned problem. In the meantime, while restoring the soft texture, one can do with fairly infrequent soap and water washing, although I don't recommend the procedure for long—for one good soap and water wash a day is necessary to skin cleanliness.

NEEDLE GUILD BEGINS CLOTHING CAMPAIGN TO HELP UNEMPLOYED

Members of the Needlework Guild of America began their collection of garments for needy patients in hospitals and charitable institutions yesterday. Nonsectarian in character, the organization has branches in 665 cities in the United States.

Two new garments, or a sum equivalent to the purchase of the garments, is the only requirement for membership in the guild, according to Mrs. Richardson Dunham of the Ambassador hotel, one of the officials in charge of the drive in Chicago. The garments and checks will be sent to Mrs. Dunham.

In line with the activities of the guild the garments must be new and of the same kind, in order that a change may be provided for the patients. The Needlework guild is called the "charity that helps the charities" because in supplying institutions with clothing they would otherwise have to buy they are able to release more money toward food and the general comfort of the needy and unemployed.

The big effort of that organization will take place this week. Distribution of the garments collected will be from Nov. 9 to 14 from the Ashland building, 155 North Clark street, in which space has been donated through the courtesy of the manager, Fred J. Tucker.

Purple Evening Frock Given Youthful Lines

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The purple of royalty and their regal ermine has been inherited by Paris evening fashions. Not for many years have the French dressmakers shown so many frocks of this kingly color, nor so many wraps trimmed with the princely ermine.

Purple, as used this fall, has lost its ancient stigma of "looking old," a fault that not all the royal heritage in the world could efface, heretofore. Women want to wear young colors first—queenly colors secondly. However, with purple rejuvenated as it is now, it stands a good chance to be a reigning evening shade.

One of the most successful ways of making the purple evening dress look young is to give it youthful lines, which Paris does. Paris also finds that the frock of purple lace is infinitely more alluring than a dress done in purple velvet or other heavy stuff.

The Mirande dance dress, shown in our sketch, is a leading member of the clan of purple evening frocks that Paris is showing. This frock is made of lace, a Venetian lace, and it is closely fitted to the figure from the rather high neckline in front to the knees, where it flares in a circular ruffle. Over the top of the skirt is tied a flaring apron of purple lace with a bow at the back of the waistline. The back of the bodice is cut in a V to the waistline.

With this frock is carried a big fan of gray coque feathers and a toque of gray coque feathers with horizontal marquis curls across the back covers the head. These accessories are very smart details, as are the opera pumps in gray satin.

Food Talk.

Close on the heels of Wednesday's talk on mushrooms comes a request from Mrs. A. J., who wishes to know how she may prepare a "meat loaf with mushrooms," and also how to prepare a beef tongue.

First, we will consider the meat loaf. If you are using left-over cooked meat, such as lamb, veal, pork, or beef, take one cup of fresh or canned mushrooms for each three cups of meat. Fresh mushrooms will have to be cooked before being mixed with the cooked meat. Fry them in a covered pan in butter, with the onion, ... then add them to the meat mixture. When making the meat loaf with raw meats, I like both the fresh and ...nned mushrooms used as a sauce.

The canned mushroom sauce consists of mushrooms, sliced or whole, added to a gravy made from the drippings of the meat, which has been thickened with flour. The fresh mushroom sauce requires that the mushrooms be cooked in butter, as mentioned above, and then two cups of soup stock (for every half pound of mushrooms), to which three tablespoons of flour have been added, is poured over the seasoned mushrooms. Cook over a slow fire for five minutes, and it is ready to be served.

I have previously given several recipes for raw meat loaves, so today's is for cooked meat.

MEAT LOAF WITH MUSHROOMS.

3 cups of cooked meat
6 tablespoons of bread crumbs
1 cup of diced mushrooms
2 tablespoons of butter (melted)
2 eggs
3 small onions, chopped, or onion juice
Salt and pepper seasoning

Run the meat through a grinder and measure. Chop the onions fine and add to the meat. Add the remaining ingredients to the meat in the order given. Shape in a loaf and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) about twenty-five minutes.

A week ago braised tongue was given, and this morning it is beef tongue with grape sauce. The grape sauce makes a delicious variation for your table, and is pleasantly seasonable in our abundant grape market.

BEEF TONGUE WITH GRAPE SAUCE.

Wash a tongue well in cold water. Place in a pan, cover with cold water, and bring to a boil. Skim, and then boil slowly until the tongue is tender. Allow the meat to cool in the liquid. When it is still warm and can be handled, slip off the skin. Dredge well with salted flour, and brown quickly in hot fat. Put the tongue in a casserole or baking dish. Whip up a glass of tart grape jelly with a fork, add one cup of hot water to it, and when a good consistency pour over the meat. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit) about half an hour, basting frequently with the grape sauce.

SOUTHERN SPOON BREAD.

1 cup of yellow corn meal
2 cups of boiling water
1 teaspoon of salt
2 eggs—well beaten
2 cups of milk
2 tablespoons of butter

Pour the boiling water over the corn meal; stir well, and then cool. Add the melted butter, eggs, salt, and milk. The batter should be quite thin. Pour into a greased baking dish, and bake from thirty to forty minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit). Leave in the dish and serve with a spoon.

Now after taking three packages of Ironized Yeast, I weigh 112 lbs. and am much peppier than all the rest. There are nine girls and four fellows in our office also taking Ironized Yeast." FARM BUREAU TOLD NORTHWEST OPPOSES BOARD

A battle between farm organizations on whether the farm marketing act should be amended or the farm board openly opposed was forecast for the meeting of the American Farm Bureau federation in December, by officers of the organizations who met in Chicago yesterday. State officers of middle west farm bureaus met to consider plans for the opening of congress.

The open opposition of farmers in Minnesota and the northwest to the farm board has resulted in a request to the farm bureau to demand that the board open its books and make an accounting of its expenditures.

A. J. Olson, president of the Minnesota farm bureau, declined to comment last night on the report that he had introduced a resolution asking farm bureau officers of other states to join him in the demand for an accounting. He said that farmers of the northwest were "distinctly disappointed in the farm board."

OBITUARY.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—[Special.]—Alexander Rieman Holliday, widely known Indianapolis business man and son of John W. Holliday, founder of the Indianapolis News, died here today.

W. H. WILLIAMS, WABASH RAILWAY PRESIDENT, DIES

Succumbs After Heart Attack.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 14.—(AP)—William H. Williams, 57, of New York, who was elected president of the Wabash railroad Sept. 10, died at the Coronado hotel here this afternoon from a heart attack suffered last night.

W. H. WILLIAMS.

Williams, also chairman of the board of directors of the railroad since 1915, was here on business. He was elected president of the Wabash when James E. Taussig of St. Louis resigned.

Born in Athens, O., Mr. Williams was educated in the public schools of Toledo and the Beaver Valley Pen Art hall of Beaver Falls, Pa.

He began his railroad career in 1890 with the Pennsylvania railroad, holding various positions with that company and other railroads until 1901, when he became assistant secretary of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Subsequently he was connected with the St. Louis-San Francisco and Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroads.

He became head of the board of directors of the Wabash after its reorganization in 1915.

Without relinquishing his position with the Wabash, he became chairman of the executive committee of the Missouri Pacific railroad in 1923, and the following year was made chairman of the Missouri Pacific directorate.

Grants Alimony to Wife of Radio Manufacturer

Judge Joseph Sabath granted Mrs. Edith Sylvan, 4426 South St. Louis avenue, temporary alimony of $150 a month yesterday, pending hearing of her suit for separate maintenance against Joseph S. Sylvan, wealthy manufacturer of automobile radios. Mrs. Sylvan filed her suit in July, 1930, and at that time her attorneys, the law firm of Socrates and Davis, obtained an injunction from Judge Rudolph F. Desort restraining her husband from obtaining a divorce at Reno. Sylvan dropped his Reno divorce plans and returned to Chicago, but was not served with notice of his wife's separate maintenance action until last week.

VALLEE SOUNDS LIKE CHOPHOUSE TO SABATINI

"Don't you think Texas Guinan as romantic a figure as any of your heroines?" he was asked.

"Never heard of her," he said.

"How about Rudy Vallee?"

"I dined there once, that's all."

"Al Capone?".

"He couldn't make a hero. He's doing nothing for good."

WOMAN LOSES 11 Pounds of Fat

Indianapolis Woman Thrilled—Reduced Hips 4 Inches, Bust 2 Inches—Wears Dresses Two Sizes Smaller—Feels Full of Pep.

Formerly stout women the country over are certainly thrilled with joy since they have discovered Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment. By the famous "3 easy stages" excess fat seems literally to vanish with almost magic speed. With it goes that dragged out feeling, upset stomach due to gas and indigestion, constipation and other ailments that torture fat folks.

Once again they know the happiness of youthful vigor, health and an attractive figure. Many despaired—they thought they would have to endure that heavy burdensome fat the rest of their lives. Then luckily they discovered the Bonkora Treatment. Read the jubilant story of Mrs. May Chenoweth, 1437 Hiatt St., Indianapolis, who states:

"In a short time I have reduced 11¼ pounds, 2 inches in the bust, and 4 inches in the hips. My indigestion, tired out feeling, nervousness, bloat and other troubles have gone. I wear dresses two size smaller. Since taking Bonkora I feel so much better, have more pep—and once again have my happy, youthful disposition. I give Bonkora all the credit for what it has done for me."

You may want to lose more or less than 11 pounds. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages," as shown in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of appealing dishes showing you how to select in the proper combinations those foods you probably like best, furnished free.

Bonkora, the safe and effective method to reduce—recently perfected by a skilled chemist—contains only the choicest and most efficacious medicaments of Nature. Has NO thyroid or other drug that may jeopardize your health.

LAVAL'S VISIT TO HEAL SLIGHT FOR FRANCE ON DEBT

Overcomes Resentment at Moratorium.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—A desire to heal the breach in Franco-American good relations caused by the failure of the Hoover administration to consult with the French government prior to his announcement of the war debts and reparations moratorium proposal last summer was one of the reasons which prompted the United States to invite Premier Laval to visit this country.

No Program Arranged.

This became known today after the state department had announced that no cut and dried program will be followed during the discussions between President Hoover and the French statesman when the latter arrives on Oct. 22. Taking notice of press reports from Paris indicating that the French government was apprehensive that M. Laval would be presented with a prearranged schedule of topics for discussion which he would either have to accept or reject, Secretary Stimson issued a statement stating that this government had no intention of imposing any program on any nation.

According to information brought back from France, relations between France and the United States have shown a marked improvement since the American invitation was received at Paris. Anti-American sentiment began developing immediately after the French people learned that President Hoover had left France out when he made his preparations to urge a moratorium to save Germany financially. The feeling at Paris was so strong at times, according to information brought back by observers, that pictures showing leading American officials were hissed when shown at motion picture theaters.

Invited for Visit.

Consequently when James MacDonald, president of the Foreign Policy association, suggested to Laval that he visit the United States, and Laval let it be known that he considered such a visit a good idea, the United States immediately forwarded an invitation.

LAVAL LOSES FAMILY ARGUMENT; DAUGHTER IS COMING TO AMERICA

PARIS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Premier Laval of France was defeated in his own house today.

His 19 year old daughter, José, backed by a barrage of American letters and cablegrams asking that she accompany her father on his visit to America, put the question to a vote of confidence, with the result that the premier was reversed and she won the right to go with him.

"Yes, she's going," the premier said tonight, "but I don't want her to talk about it now. She may talk when she gets back. It will be a better story then."

Mlle. José will be accompanied by two friends, Mlle. Jacqueline Guimier, daughter of the proprietor of the newspaper Le Journal, and Mlle. Renee Claudel, daughter of the French ambassador at Washington.

RESUME HOOVER MEETINGS WITH BUSINESS HEADS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover today continued his conference with business men, bankers and railroad executives, but no information was forthcoming from the White House regarding the status of proposed new projects for emergency depression relief. George Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, of New York; Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, and L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific railroad, were among Mr. Hoover's callers.

Others who discussed business conditions included Harvey C. Couch, president of the Louisiana and Arkansas railway, and L. B. Tigrett of Jackson, Tenn., president of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern railway.

Another visitor who came to discuss the administration emergency relief program was William Butterworth of Moline, Ill., former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

M. Paul Claudel, French ambassador, introduced M. Andre Citroen, French automobile manufacturer, to the President. Later M. Citroen said that the French automobile industry had not been affected by the depression.

Among other delegations was one from the Henry George foundation of America, which urged the President to sponsor a bill providing for a 1 per cent federal tax on land.

YALE SHIFTS LINE TO STOP MAROON ATTACK

MICHIGAN FINDS RECIPE FOR A FOOTBALL TONIC

Scare Arouses Team for Ohio Game.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 14.—The Chicago game last week was the tonic Michigan needed in its preparation for Ohio State on Saturday.

This was Coach Harry Kipke's comment today on the 13 to 7 victory the Wolverines scored against the Maroons here last Saturday. Victory was repeated, but Michigan's margin was cut almost as thin as possible by the unexpected strength of Chicago's line.

"Our team this year is stronger on attack than last year, when Michigan won a share in the Western conference title," Kipke continued, "but we did not anticipate much opposition from Chicago. When we left the field at the half with a 13 to 0 advantage and only had missed scoring a third touchdown by a matter of inches the players were overconfident.

"Chicago's rally in the next half caught Michigan flat footed. All of which was just what we needed, with Ohio State coming this Saturday and the Illinois game at Champaign scheduled a week later."

Experiments with Backs.

Kipke might have added that the failure of Michigan's running attack was the reason for an hour and a half of scrimmage Monday night. It also has caused experimentation in the back field.

About 5,000 seats for the Ohio game remain unsold. Unless inclement weather stops the last rush for tickets it is estimated that 70,000 will attend. Seventy-three thousand seats are available.

Tonight the kickers, Jack Heston, Ivan Everhardus, and Estil Tessmer were drilled under game conditions. Chicago blocked one of Michigan's punts and repetition by Ohio next Saturday may be the winning factor.

Tessmer did not play against Chicago. He has been nursing a back injury for ten days. He is the quarterback when Harry Newman is out of the lineup and he also is seeking one of the half back positions, where two sophomores are in the competition. Jack Heston, younger son of Willie Heston, star of Fielding Yost's point-a-minute elevens, and Everhardus are fighting for one of the ball carrying jobs. Stanley Fay, from Detroit, another sophomore, is the outstanding candidate for the other half back position.

Newman Likely Starter.

At the other end of the practice field Harry Newman was booting goals from placement. Newman received a leg injury in the last scrimmage before the opening game Oct. 3 and, while he still is not at top form, is played for a time against Chicago and it is likely he will start as Michigan's field general against the Buckeyes.

When Kipke remembers that Michigan's 13 to 0 triumph over Ohio last fall was due to Newman's excellent generalship, and more particularly to the two perfect passes which placed the ball in scoring positions, it is understood why Newman will be in the game.

Everhardus is a more reliable kicker than young Heston, but Jack has an advantage in open field running. He is a high hurdler and his training on the track has proved invaluable. He can run with a high knee action and change direction sharply without losing speed.

Plays Percentage Football.

Michigan combines a superlative defense with a sound kicking and passing game. These tactics won five conference games last year. It is apparent that Michigan still plays percentage football. One successful play, preferably a trick play, or one well executed forward pass for a touchdown is all that Michigan needs. Thereafter it relies on the defense to hold off the opponent.

Fred Petoskey, a sophomore from Saginaw High school, who weighs 177 pounds and is 6 feet tall, has created a difficult problem for the coaches. Petoskey has shown natural aptitude for end. Bill Hewitt, a senior who received a broken ankle in the Michigan State game last fall, is too excellent an end to be relegated to the bench. As a result Kipke has tried both Hewitt and Petoskey at full back as replacements for Capt. Roy Hudson.

Stanley Hozer, a Muskegon, Mich., player who did not play against Chicago because of injury, will be ready Saturday. Howard Auer, another senior cripple, also will play, but has not scrimmaged this week. Omer La Plante, a regular guard, also is engaged only in light exercises because of bruises received against Chicago.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 14.—(AP)—George Sisler, one of baseball's great stars during his years as first baseman for the St. Louis Browns, came back to St. Louis today with an unconditional release from the Rochester International league club and no plans for the future.

Sisler, who will remain here through the winter, said: "I had an understanding at Rochester that if I wanted my release I could have it, and as I decided that I didn't want to play there again next year I was released."

FIRST SIGN OF WINTER—HAWKS IN TRAINING

Sign Matheson as Blackhawk Hockey Coach

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, president of the Chicago Blackhawks, announced yesterday that Godfrey A. Matheson of Winnipeg has been appointed coach of the Chicago National Hockey league team for the coming season.

Matheson has not had any previous experience as boss of a professional hockey team, but has a very creditable record as a developer of hockey players for St. John's college and the University of Manitoba.

The Hawks will do their pre-season training at Pittsburgh and a squad of fifteen players left from the Union station last night. The players making the trip were the veterans Cyclone Wentworth, Taffy Abel, and Helge Bostrom, defense men; Roger Jenkins, a forward who is to be tried out as a rear guard; Mush March, Frank Ingram, Lola Couture, Earl Miller, and Vic Ripley, forwards. Two newcomers, Jerry Lowery, leading sniper of the defunct Philadelphia team, and Paul Thompson, wing man who was acquired in a trade with the New York Rangers for Art Somers, together with three rookies, Pat O'Shea, Frank Donald, and Louis Holmes, made up the party.

Teddy Graham, Norman Locking, and Sandy Wood, understudy for Chuck Gardiner, will go direct to Pittsburgh from their homes in Canada, while Stew Adams, Elwin Romnes, and Gardiner will report on Saturday.

Johnny Gottselig, the outstanding stick handler of the league, and Capt. Tommy Cook have permission to report late next week and with their arrival the squad will be complete. There are no holdouts on the Blackhawks' roster.

2 SHAMROCKS HOLD OUT

All last year's members of the Shamrock hockey team have returned their signed contracts except Sam Timmins, goal, and Andy Mulligan, defense, according to Manager Babe Dye of the Chicago American Hockey club. These two are holding out and it is unlikely they will be seen in Shamrock uniforms this season.

Mike Karakas, goal tender from Eveleth, Minn., will get a chance at the regular goal job. An addition to the defense lineup will be announced before Manager Dye leaves for Hamilton, Ont., where the Shamrocks open a three weeks' training period Oct. 24.

Ed Malone, a former teammate of Peewee Wiseman in western Canada amateur circles, has been signed by the Shamrocks.

YEA, TEAM!

Then again why bother about the darned old team. Let's just give a little cheer for Miss Nell Rezac of Emmett, Kas., who is president of the Jay Janes club at the University of Kansas and leads a yell now and then.

Rain Stops at City Limits, So Badgers Drill

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 14.—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE didn't send us up here at great expense to write about the weather, and Mr. Becker is the duck expert for the paper. But just the same, weather, duck weather, is keynote of the situation as Wisconsin frets at handicaps in the Cardinal preparation for next Saturday's game with Purdue. At that, though the weather man began to show signs of having a heart, for during the afternoon it rained all around Madison, but stopped at the city limits of this imposing capital.

Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite welcomed the halt of the deluge, although his field was a bog, and in the practice this afternoon went right after an offensive drill, with forward passes predominating.

Defense Is All Set.

It was explained that the Badgers are prepared to stand pat on their defense for the Boilermakers, because Coach Thistlethwaite has been pointing to the Purdue game ever since Sept. 15 and other matters have not detracted from his preparation of a defense.

While the defensive preparations are held to be as near complete as they ever will be, attachés of the Wisconsin camp this afternoon made it clear that the Badgers are not going to play a purely defensive game in the hope of holding Purdue to a mere tie. The Badgers are not looking for any "moral" victories. Predictions that the Boilermakers will go through their five game Big Ten schedule without defeat have failed to impress Wisconsin.

That Extra Point a New Light.

Wisconsin was the underdog before last year's game, but fought the Boilermakers to a standstill, to lose by the skinny margin of 7 to 6—a missed kick after touchdown that the Lafayette blues singers do not include in their favorite dirges about the ill purpose of the missed kick as it has affected Purdue fate in the last three years.

The feudal days really began in

8 EASTERN GRID TEAMS TO PLAY CHARITY TOURNEY

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—The greatest smash of precedent in the history of modern football will come about as the result of an announcement made today by E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee.

Eight major colleges, in New England and in the middle Atlantic states, are scheduled for a round robin tournament to be played at the Yale bowl on Dec. 5 and in New York City on Dec. 9, four colleges participating in each tournament.

Eight Schools Consent.

Never before in the history of football have teams agreed to such a program. They have consented now only because of the economic stress and at the request of Owen D. Young, President Hoover's representative.

The athletic bodies of Dartmouth, Yale, Brown, and Holy Cross have consented to send their teams to the Yale bowl, and likewise Cornell, Columbia, Princeton, and Pennsylvania will journey to New York in the cause of unemployment.

The name of Harvard is missing from the New England list, and the Cambridge administrative authorities have remained adamant in their stand against post season games. In Yale's case, this announcement eliminates the possibilities of a post season game with Notre Dame.

The program for these two tournaments is yet in the tentative stage. The plan at present is to have a pair of teams, to be decided later, meet for a 20 minute contest. After a 15 minute rest, the winners of each game will play each other for 20 minutes. In case of ties, a committee of judges will decide the winner.

Schools to Handle Fund.

It is understood that the fund aggregating from these two tournaments will be administered by the college presidents involved, rather than turning the money over as a pool for Washington to use.

An angle set forth by Hall was that this program, in tournament form, was better for the small colleges which could not draw crowds in post-season contests. It would be far better for these small colleges to play the round robin tournament idea in a large city than to meet each other in regular scheduled games as far as the receipts were concerned.

ASKS EVERY TEAM PLAY.

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—A call to every college football team in the country to give the proceeds of at least one game this fall to the emergency relief funds for the unemployed now being raised throughout the country, was issued today by Owen D. Young.

AL NIEHAUS, FORMER MAJOR LEAGUER, DIES

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Al Niehaus, former first baseman for the Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates in the National league, died of pneumonia late today. He was ill two days. He did not play last season.

Battalino Signs for Mastro Bout at Stadium Nov. 4

New York, Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago Stadium, tonight closed with Battling Battalino to defend his featherweight championship against Earl Mastro in Chicago on Nov. 4. He also closed with Tony Canzoneri for a lightweight title match Dec. 3.

Canzoneri will choose from four opponents, Billy Petrolle, Sammy Fuller, Kid Kaplan, and King Tut. If he chooses Tut, the match will be for the junior welterweight title.

Lewis also closed for a return match between Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, and Tuffy Griffith on Nov. 20.

Forty Years on the Midway
The Life Story of Amos Alonzo Stagg

BY ARCH WARD.

Amos Alonzo Stagg began to figure as a football player of prominence at Yale in the fall of 1888. That was his first graduate year. He had been doing religious work throughout his undergraduate days through the Y. M. C. A. and New Haven missions. He became student secretary of the Yale Y. M. C. A. in his postgraduate year. It was not unethical in those days for graduate and special students to compete in athletics.

His duties as secretary did not require all of his time, so he enrolled for some courses in graduate study. One of his professors was William Rainey Harper, who later was to have an important part in shaping his career.

F. C. Pratt, who had been right end on the Yale football team, was graduated in the spring of 1888, and Pa Corbin, captain of the eleven that fall, asked Stagg to turn out and see if he couldn't plug the hole. Directors of the Y. M. C. A. gave their consent, thinking their young secretary would have greater influence as a worker if he were a member of the gridiron squad.

Walter Camp, who still was working full time for a New Haven clock company, was serving as coach in an advisory capacity. The captain did more of the actual instruction work. Mrs. Camp watched practice every afternoon, taking notes which she would present to her husband that night. The captain later would visit Camp for advice.

One of Yale's Greatest Teams.

That team of 1888 stands as one of the greatest in Yale's history. It ran up 698 points to its opponents' nothing. Seven members—all who are living—of this remarkable eleven will be back to honor their old teammate tomorrow night at a testimonial dinner at the Stevens hotel.

"Yale's signals in 1888 were denoted by the position of the captain's hands," Mr. Stagg recalled recently. "The next fall after Corbin had graduated we changed to a system of key words and phrases, shifting to numbers later in the season."

One year in the school of divinity was enough to convince him that he was not cut out for the ministry. He was reluctant to speak at public gatherings, finding it increasingly difficult to talk easily on his feet.

Hard to Believe He "Can't Make a Talk."

The 3,200 football fans who gathered in the dining hall at Notre Dame last December to hear Mr. Stagg pay tribute to the last team coached by Knute Rockne find it hard to believe that he once "simply could not make a talk." So will thousands of others who have heard him deliver inspiring addresses at gatherings of various kinds in the middle west in the last 25 years.

In 1890, the year Stagg left Yale, the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. training school was established. Stagg was engaged as a professor in the theory and practice of training. Another instructor in the physical education department was James Naismith, inventor of basketball. Mr. Naismith has been at the University of Kansas for many years.

Stagg coached his first football team at Springfield in 1890. He had a student enrollment of 42 to pick from. So the present scarcity of material at the Midway is nothing new to the Old Man. Even with this meager talent, Stagg's Springfield team defeated several of the eastern schools that autumn and made some of the big fellows exert themselves.

It was at Springfield that Stagg made one of his most important contributions to the strategy of football. He had perceived at Yale that he could run interference more effectively by lining up slightly back of the line of play. So when he became a coach in his own right he pulled his ends out of the line, using them like backs to carry the ball around the opposite ends and to drive into the line ahead of the ball carrier. Both were revolutionary practices which have been widely copied.

Receives Offer to Coach at Chicago.

Stagg had been at Springfield only a month when he received a letter from Dr. Harper of Yale, urging him to come to New York to talk about a "very important matter." The important matter was an offer to become head of the athletic department at a great university which was to be conjured out of Chicago prairie with Rockefeller money.

WALSH CHASES FOUR REGULARS TO SIDELINES

Reserves Gain with Chicago Plays.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14.—In the midst of a final scrimmage of the Yale football team, this afternoon, in preparation for the testimonial game in honor of 'Lon Stagg, in Chicago, a whistle blew, and Adam Walsh, the line coach, walked up, very out of patience.

"All right," Mr. Walsh yelled, "The whole Blue line get out—all but MacArthur. If you want to loaf, loaf on the sidelines."

At that, Wilbur and Hall, the tackles; Rotan, a guard, and Doonan, the center, all just named for the starting lineup in Chicago, retired to the sidelines, slightly bewildered, and four other young men rushed in to relieve them.

Mac Not in Long Enough.

The MacArthur referred to by Mr. Walsh was Douglas MacArthur II, of Washington, D. C., some kin of the famous general. He had not been in the lineup against a mock Chicago team long enough to share the general blame, having just relieved Ed Nichols at left guard. The ends, being in another department, did not come within the scope of Mr. Walsh's displeasure.

Kilcullen relieved Wilbur, Uihlein relieved Hall; Doonan, the varsity center, yielded to Betner, a light built veteran of two years' patient toil on the scrub, and Rotan, the other guard, was displaced by Allan D. Converse Jr., who is one of the Converses. The Converses are Wall street wholesalers in money.

In the back field were Parker, Aibie Booth, or Able, as they call him in the familiar banter of his own set, Taylor, and Muhlfeld.

The scrimmage went on, a defensive work against plays intended to simulate Mr. Stagg's stratagems. The scrub wore orange jackets over their gray sweaters, and for a fact they had been pushing the Yale line hither and thither with a little more impunity than custom approves.

Sounded Like Rebuke.

But as the afternoon's round of pleasure ended Mr. Paul Barnett, the Yale press agent, walking off to his flivver to canter down town and dash off a line of special dispatches for Chicago, reckoned that he would let the original lineup stand.

"It sounded like one of those rebukes," said Mr. Barnett, who has been at Yale ten years and ought to know the exact quality of a rebuke by the sound of a coach's voice by now. "I don't think they are out permanently."

It would be impossible for a non-Yale to say just who is in and for how long in Yale football, including the coaches. There is unrest here and the papers of the neighborhood cities, which would seem better able to interpret the Yale moods, are printing rumors about the tenure of the coaches. Dr. Marvin, or Mal Stevens, the head coach, is a surgeon by trade and a football coach only in a restrained, dignified way.

Benny Friedman, late of Michigan, was to give up his practice as a playing pro with the New York Giants and coach the Yale backs for a modest guaranteed price, plus a mysterious extraneous bonus. The bonus did not materialize and it was agreed that he had a right to curtail his time at Yale under the circumstances. But he hasn't reudced his hours of labor as yet, commuting daily from New York to New Haven.

Coaches Backs on Tackling.

This afternoon Friedman was teaching his backs something about tackling and there were hard, husky young Yales paired off all over the place, forwards and backs, banging into each other with glorious enthusiasm and indifference to shock.

Kilcullen, the guard who replaced Wilbur when Mr. Walsh's displeasure fell on the varsity line this afternoon, had been given some work in last Saturday's game with Georgia and recovered a fumble to race 30 yards for an imaginary touchdown. The boys have a hard time controlling the old instinct to run when they grab a loose ball. Kilcullen is a sophomore, 23 years old, 6 feet 1, 200 pounds, and the best shot putter Yale ever had. He will make himself noticeable this year and more so in the next two years.

Rotan, the right guard, is six feet three, with a weight of 205 and is intercollegiate wrestling champion. These two were among the Yales who were pushed around last Saturday in the Georgia game and it doesn't seem that chaps that big and bold and strong should be pushed around by any one. The fond explanation is that when Yale starts practice as late as Sept. 15 the boys haven't sufficient time to absorb their lessons in how not to be pushed around.

The squad of 44 will leave New Haven at 1:05 Thursday afternoon on the Pennsylvania and arrive in Chicago in time for light practice Friday.

Ibie, or Able, Booth is expected to start the game, but Mr. Barnett hasn't said "positively."

But They Want to Do It with Maroon Defeat.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Yale alumni, undergraduates and sympathizers to the number of 10,000, will mass in the south stand of Stagg field Saturday seeking to encourage the football eleven from New Haven to defeat Chicago's Maroons in the first gridiron contest ever played between the two institutions.

To these Yale men, it is more than a football game. It is an opportunity to pay homage to Amos Alonzo Stagg, Yale alumnus, who is coaching his fortieth season on the Midway. It is an opportunity to show the middle west that traditional Yale spirit, famed in song and fiction. True, it is a football game which Yale hopes to win but which it will not grieve over losing—you know Yale is that way with Harvard and Princeton as its season's climaxes, little else mattering.

So while the football game is the excuse, it is only the middle part of a program of Yale alumni spirit which begins with the arrival of the eleven on Friday afternoon and a banquet that night with Prof. Stagg, or "Lonnie Stagg, Yale '88," as guest of honor, and culminates Saturday night with a theater party at the Garrick in which every seat will be occupied by sons of Eli and their companions.

2,000 Alumni Here.

In looking over this program, one hardly knows whether to treat the affair as a great intersectional football contest or as a reunion of Yale alumni. On the theory that Capt. Albie Booth and his collaborators and Capt. Sam Horwitz and his aids will do their part to the best of their ability, let's look at it from the viewpoint of the Yale man anxious to renew old acquaintances and to sing again "Boola Boola."

In Chicago and its suburbs are 2,000 Yale alumni. This number will be augmented by delegations from all western cities and from the east, whence special trains will bear partisans of the Blue to the scene of athletic conflict. St. Louis, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, Cleveland, and the south have asked for tickets. Memphis, if you delight in details, asked for 50 tickets for the theater performance for which applications twice exceeded the capacity of the Garrick.

All this enthusiasm, all this exuberance which Fred McNally and Henry Gardner of the Yale whoopee committee have so valiantly been stimulating will begin to function tomorrow afternoon when two special trains arrive from New Haven. Coach Mal Stevens and Assistants Benny Friedman and Adam Walsh, whom we remember as of Michigan and Notre Dame respectively; Capt. Albie Booth and his teammates will leave the train at the Englewood station of the Pennsylvania, proceed at once to their quarters at the Hotel Windermere East, and then don armor for a light signal practice at Stagg field.

Yale Band Will Be There.

Accompanying the team and attending rooters will be the Yale band, 54 in number, among which are included a number of specialists who will contribute to the entertainment at the dinner and theater performance.

Tomorrow evening, men of Yale, or Yale men, will gather at the Hotel Stevens for the dinner or banquet preceding the game. [Note to intending guests—either dinner coats or "as you are" will be au fait.] At this function, attended by the band, which will have quarters in special cars during its stay, but not by the football eleven which of necessity will need sleep before bulldogging the Maroons, Director Stagg will be guest of honor.

Principal speaker of the evening will be Prof. George Vincent, Yale alumnus, once of Chicago's faculty, later president of the University of Minnesota, and now president emeritus of the Rockefeller Foundation. Other speakers will be President Robert M. Hutchins and Prof. Stagg of the University of Chicago, while Prof. William Lyons Phelps of the Yale English department will be toastmaster.

Then a Theater Party.

On Saturday night following the game, Yale's legion will attend the Garrick theater where Benny Rubin and Blossom Seeley in "Girl Crazy" are expected to interpolate a number of Eli features. Here, too, the band will have a part in the proceedings. The football team will attend the theater, but probably will leave after the first act to catch its special back to New Haven.

HOLMER, CARD STAR, MEETS OLD MATES SUNDAY

When the Bears and Cardinals meet at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon one of Northwestern's former stars, who was responsible for the downfall of the Cards in the last 1930 battle between the rivals, will attempt to reverse the situation.

The player is Walter Holmer, one of the best kickers in the National Professional circuit, whose punts figured prominently in the 9 to 7 Bear victory. Walt was full back on the Bears then, but this season he is a Cardinal back and is anxious to upset his former mates.

However, in Joe Lintzenich the Bears have a punter who can match Holmer's best efforts and the struggle for individual honors should be interesting. Both have averaged around 50 yards in league games this season.

CALLAHAN BEATS SMITH IN ROONEY BOWLING MATCH

Vincent Callahan, substituting for Ben Bernicchi in a Rooney bowling match at Mussey's Randolph alleys last night, defeated Jimmy Smith, 1,515 to 423. Callahan bowled in street shoes and used an alley ball. He had five breaks, two 7-1 railroads and one error, 1-2-10. Smith also had five breaks.

Yale Shakes Up Line to Stop Maroon Attack

Caution is now wisdom for Coach Stagg. The combination of plays through which the Maroon backs paced yesterday indicates that Chicago's offense again Yale Saturday will be very wide, if not very handsome, and will call for sixty minutes of stamina on the part of not more than a baker's dozen of men.

Stagg Will Pass.

The fundamental punch will be based on the flanker formation, from which passes by Paul Stagg, plunges by Pete Zimmer, and outrider runs by Sahlin and Wallace will emanate. The mystery attack which Stagg has been so careful to keep under cover will apparently be used only where power and a few yards are needed.

Yesterday's workout makes it evident that Paul Stagg will do most of the passing and Vin Sahlin most of the kicking Saturday. Paul has achieved throwing accuracy with ten yards more distance. Sahlin did so well getting his kicks away against Michigan that he seems to have the call for Yale.

Zimmer is a longer kicker but is slow, and with the disastrous results of a blocked kick still fresh from the Michigan game, no chances will be taken with slow punters, even though distance is sacrificed.

Stagg Stresses Offense.

As for stopping Yale and Albie Booth—No. 48 in Saturday's show at Stagg field—Coach Stagg is pursuing the same passive resistance practice policy he introduced in preparing for Princeton last year. For the entire week before the Tiger's came he stressed nothing but offense and when Saturday came the Maroons put up the best defensive exhibition of their season. This year Stagg hopes for another such paradoxical turn.

Only one element of defensive tactics was stressed yesterday. "No more blocked punts this season," was the order and six back field men were set to learning the art of taking out tacklers in punt formation. What Stagg can do with that art is indicated by the fact that for five years up to last season no Maroon punt was knocked down behind the line.

FRESHMEN HALT MARQUETTE U.'S RESERVE BACKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14.—Marquette university's freshmen today stopped the varsity second string backs during a scrimmage in preparation for the Detroit university game at Detroit Friday night. The frosh were using Detroit formations when they halted Quirk, Waytulonis, Bredow, and Agostini, the ball carriers. But against the regular starting combination, consisting of Sisk, Ronzani, Halfman, and Peterson, and the first string line the frosh were helpless.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

HEAVYWEIGHT BOXERS.

JACK SHARKEY obtained a fifteen round decision over Primo Carnera Monday night. Although the bout had no bearing on the heavyweight title, now held by Max Schmeling, who spends most of his time between annual ring appearances in Germany, it proved several things.

This contest proved that heavyweight boxing, although languishing, is not entirely moribund. Despite a cold night, repelling attendance in an outdoor arena, the gate was about $100,000. While such a contest in the "good old days" might have been expected to draw from $500,000 up, the receipts, considering times and weather conditions, may be termed satisfactory.

Sharkey proved anew that he ranks among the best contemporary heavyweights, but also that he is excitable and likely at any time to do one of those things which marked previous bouts with Dempsey, Phil Scott, and Schmeling.

Primo Carnera has been characterised as a dub. Evidently he is not that. On the other hand, against a much lighter man, he did not display a damaging punch. He did prove something which had not previously been tested. That was gameness. After weathering a storm during the fourth round, where the affair should have ended, he took considerable more of what Sharkey had to offer until the end.

So Carnera has established himself, after a fashion, as something more than a mere hulk of avoirdupois. Perhaps he will never beat any really great boxers. On the other hand, he showed a willingness to engage in battle, which is something in these days of principals reluctant to give customers action for their money.

Kinsella and Kain Back on St. Mel Squad

The return of Eddie Kain, half back, and James Kinsella, center, has boosted the hopes of St. Mel for its game with De Paul academy tomorrow night at Loyola field, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue. It will be St. Mel's third Chicago Catholic High School league contest of the season. Receipts will be donated to the Convent of the Cenacle.

St. Mel, having enjoyed a week's respite, went through a passing and punting drill yesterday. In its two league game St. Mel won from St. Patrick and played a scoreless tie with St. George of Evanston.

New Trier will seek its second Suburban league victory Saturday afternoon against Morton at Berwyn stadium. Morton dropped its opening contest last week to Evanston, defending champion, while New Trier scored a 6 to 0 triumph over Proviso.

St. Philip, its game with St. Michael postponed until Nov. 21, is preparing to meet Loyola, Catholic league titleholder, Saturday afternoon at St. Philip field, Van Buren street and Kedzie avenue. Only one veteran will be out of the St. Philip lineup, Red Olson, who suffered a hand injury.

Harrison Tech, which will meet Austin in its league opener Saturday, is without a Thanksgiving day game. Coach Bob Dougherty now is seeking a contest for the team, which has rolled up four consecutive practice victories. He prefers an out of town opponent.

The familiar noise of players dribbling and throwing the basketball will be heard again at Medill's gymnasium, silent since the start of the fall semester. More than 30 players are expected to report to Coach Sam Center for the first practice this afternoon.

1925, when Purdue took a 7 to 0 licking. The Lafayette boys came back the next year and held the Badgers to a 0 to 0 tie and the following year the Cardinals resumed victory habits with a 12 to 6 triumph, in which, obviously, not a point after touchdown was kicked.

The 19 to 19 tie to which the teams fought was one of the sensational encounters in 1928 and it cost the Badgers a tie with Illinois for the championship. It was a striking example of two strong offensive teams almost completely forgetting defense other than that produced by offensive measures.

Purdue won in 1929, 13 to 0, as a part of its undefeated record in winning the undisputed Big Ten championship. It was the first Purdue win over Wisconsin after 1898, when the Badgers left the field in high dudgeon and forfeited.

From the foregoing it appears that in the last six years Wisconsin has scored 44 points against Purdue to 45 scored by Purdue, with neither team showing more than a one touchdown advantage any season, except 1929, the year Purdue won 13 to 0, and in the six years there have been two ties. If this isn't rivalry, where will you find it?

Fair Weather May Be Ahead.

Both teams will be ready for the game as far as physical well being is concerned, unless there are accidents in the scrimmage drills. As these will feature forward pass work by both outfits casualties among the stars are not considered probable.

Getting back to the weather, it may be noted that the prediction for tomorrow is for fair weather. Inasmuch as the temperature has dropped considerably, hope is held out that the game will be played under conditions favorable to the passing attacks planned by Coaches Kizer and Thistlethwaite.

PURDUE PERFECTS LINE

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Line scrimmage and a long drill for the backs on forward pass defense composed the main part of Purdue's football practice this afternoon as it continued preparation for its game with the Wisconsin game Saturday.

Although the Boilermakers have defeated the Badgers the last two seasons, the victories have come by forward passes and Coach Noble Kizer worked tonight with the linemen to improve their offensive blocking as Assistant Coach Mal Elward labored with the ends. Frank Carideo gave the backs a thorough workout on pass defense, with the freshman eleven tossing Badger passes.

Purdue's hopes of a running attack rest on the "two time" back field, with Ed Risk, Jim Purvis, Alex Yunevich, and Jack White forming one unit, and Fred Hecker, Doxie Moore, Paul Pardonner, and Roland Kurtz or Roy Horstmann the other. There is doubt whether Horstmann, one of the leading ground gainers of the conference last season, will be able to play against the Badgers, due to the injury he received before the Illinois game.

Rockne Memorial Trophy Goes to Grid Champions

The Jack Rissman trophy, won permanently last year by Notre Dame after its third national championship in a decade, will be replaced this season by the Knute Rockne Memorial trophy. The donor will be Mr. Rissman, and the team to win the award will be chosen by the Frank Dickinson rating system. Mr. Dickinson is a professor at the University of Illinois.

The old trophy was won by Notre Dame in 1924, Dartmouth in 1925, Stanford in 1926, Illinois in 1927, Southern California in 1928, and Notre Dame in 1929 and 1930.

Herman May Change Places with Wilson.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

More Cub trading bait, suitably embellished with greenbacks as in the past when owners swallowed hook and all, is to be dangled before the Boston Braves in the near future. The lure will be cast out just as soon as William Veeck, Cub president, and Manager Rogers Hornsby get together on next season's affairs. That will be within three weeks.

What the Cub bosses are fishing for is a left handed pitcher who can start regularly and win ball games. The Braves have Edward A. [Dutch] Brandt, who last season won 18 games while losing 11 with none too hot a ball team.

If Judge Fuchs should prove invulnerable on the Brandt proposition, the Cubs' chiefs, according to reports, might approach him from a different angle. They would not be averse to relieving the Braves of Fred Frankhouse, the ex-Cardinal right hander, who in the recent campaign showed signs of entering the star class. Players as well as money would be involved in both offers.

Both Brandt and Frankhouse are about 27 years old.

Wilson for Herman.

It is highly probable that one of the first men to be offered to Boston will be Pat Malone, who wore out his welcome hereabouts when he tested his punching ability on a couple of peace loving newspaper men. If the Braves don't want Malone, the Cubs will think up a new proposition for Judge Fuchs and then turn to Brooklyn as a possible market for the belligerent pitcher.

The Brooklyn club, badly in need of pitchers, is reported to be willing to take not only Malone, but his banished playmate, Hack Wilson. The Cubs could have Dazzy Vance for either of these men and no questions would be asked by the Brooklyn bosses. But Vance is not wanted here.

Brooklyn also has in mind the trading of Babe Herman. Herman is the made to order type of hitter for Wrigley field and the Cubs need an outfielder, so don't be surprised if Wilson and the Babe of Brooklyn change uniforms.

Reds Would Take Hack.

The Cincinnati club has also admitted that, if the price is moderate, it would be willing to take a chance on Wilson staging a comeback. As yet the Reds have made no overtures, but if they do they will be told a deal can be made on the basis of Pitcher Red Lucas changing uniforms.

Rumor mongers have been peddling the news that Gabby Hartnett also is among the Cubs slated to go, but the veteran will not be moved out until another star catcher is on hand to take his place. And there isn't much prospects of locating a catcher like that.

YACHTSMEN ASK FEDERAL AID FOR CHICAGO HARBOR

Help Given New York Basis for Plea.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Knowledge that eastern pleas for boat owners are receiving impetus at government expense while great lakes sailors await the action of their respective park commissions and municipalities, was not only news to a majority of yachtsmen in the ports, but it also elicited interesting comments from them yesterday.

Two articles detailing the method by which eastern yachtsmen obtained federal aid in enlarging and dredging their harbors despite the fact that government improvements are restricted to commercial navigation, together with a number of specific cases in the Long Island region, were published in THE TRIBUNE Tuesday and yesterday.

Local Yachtsmen Amazed.

A few of the harbors in question are deservedly rated commercial ports, but a majority are to be classed merely as yacht basins than industrial shipping centers, since their annual tonnage does not compare with the amount of government appropriations asked for improving them.

Many local yachtsmen, apparently unaware of the eastern situation, have themselves amazed by it, particularly that phase involving "harbors of refuge," the foundation of government improvement in several Long Island harbors.

"This information secured by THE TRIBUNE is of great interest to yachtsmen in this part of the country," T. M. Dunlap, commodore of the Jackson Park Yacht club, which is seeking a much needed harbor of quite proportions. "It has always been understood that federal appropriations were made for the construction and maintenance of commercial harbors exclusively. We are in great need of additional harbor space, as the present anchorages being filled to capacity. In my opinion, Chicago yachtsmen should take active steps to obtain a share of these federal appropriations."

Need Space Badly.

D. P. Ruger, a director of the Jackson Park club, and C. W. Kraft, former commodore, also remarked on the need of immediate harbor improvement here.

"The yachtsmen in this section of the country have been sleeping in the matter of bigger and better harbors," Kraft said.

"There is no reason why our taxes should be taken east when we are in such dire need of harbors," Ruger commented.

D. W. Schaeffer, secretary of the South Shore Power Boat club, which has its harbor next to that of the Jackson Park club, was another who stressed the necessity of more adequate harbor space in the near future.

John P. O'Rourke, a veteran boatman at Jackson Park, said the need for a harbor might be classed as a "harbor for refuge" if only for the breakwaters, derricks, and pile drivers lying on south side improvement would need the Jackson park harbor during storms or as an overnight port of refuge. He added that inasmuch as Indiana Harbor and Gary are provided harbors, the need for a "harbor of refuge" between Michigan City and South Chicago is essential.

Several Harbors Mentioned.

Malcolm D. Vail, long a leader in Chicago Yacht club affairs, pointed out the possibility of making a new water harbor, one of the more important phases of the extensive improvement plan now being undertaken by the Lincoln park board and the Chicago plan commission, a "harbor of refuge." This harbor, which probably will not be completed until after the 1933 Fair, would afford an excellent haven for five or six large commercial boats, he said, for the Navy Islands, which will form it will have areas of 467, 87, and 31 acres respectively, giving a harbor space of 233 acres.

YACHTSMEN ASK FEDERAL AID FOR CHICAGO HARBORS

Help Given New York Is Basis for Plea.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Knowledge that eastern pleasure boat owners are receiving improvements at government expense while great lakes sailors await the action of their respective park commissions and municipalities, was not only news to a majority of yachtsmen in these parts, but it also elicited interesting comments from them yesterday.

Two articles detailing the methods by which eastern yachtsmen obtain federal aid in enlarging and dredging their harbors despite the fact that government improvements are restricted to commercial navigation, together with a number of specific cases in the Long Island region, were published in THE TRIBUNE Tuesday and Wednesday.

Local Yachtsmen Amazed.

A few of the harbors in question are deservedly rated commercial ports, but a majority are to be classed more as yacht basins than industrial shipping centers, since their annual tonnage does not compare with the amount of government appropriations spent for improving them.

Many local yachtsmen, apparently aware of the eastern situation, actually considered themselves amazed by it, particularly that phase involving "harbor of refuge," the foundation for permanent improvement in several Long Island harbors.

"This information secured by THE TRIBUNE is of great interest to yachtsmen in this part of the country," said T. M. Dunlap, commodore of the Jackson Park Yacht club, which is now piloting a much needed harbor of adequate proportions. "It has always been understood that federal appropriations were made for the construction and maintenance of commercial harbors exclusively. We are in great need of additional harbor space, the present anchorages being filled to capacity. In my opinion, Chicago yachtsmen should take active steps to obtain a share of these federal appropriations."

Need Space Badly.

R. P. Ruger, a director of the Jackson Park club, and C. W. Kraft, vice commodore, also remarked on the need of immediate harbor improvements.

"The yachtsmen in this section of the country have been sleeping in the matter of bigger and better harbors," Kraft said.

"There is no reason why our taxes should be taken east when we are in dire need of harbors," Ruger commented.

W. Schaeffer, secretary of the Calumet Shore Power Boat club, which has a harbor next to that of the Jackson Park club, was another who voiced the necessity of more adequate harbor space in the near future.

John P. O'Rourke, a veteran member of Jackson Park, said the south harbor might be classed as a "harbor for refuge" if only for the two derricks, and pile drivers working on the south side improvement which left the Jackson park harbor during storms or as an overnight parking place. He added that inasmuch as Calumet Harbor and Gary are private harbors, the need for a "harbor of refuge" between Michigan City and South Chicago is essential.

Several Harbors Mentioned.

Malcolm D. Vail, long a leader in Chicago Yacht club affairs, pointed out the possibility of making Edgewater harbor, one of the more important phases of the extensive improvement plan now being undertaken by the Lincoln park board and the Chicago plan commission, a "harbor of refuge." This harbor, which probably will not be completed until after the 1933 Fair, would afford an excellent haven for five or six large commercial boats, he said, for the three blocks which will form it will have an area of 467, 87, and 31 acres, respectively, giving a harbor space of 585 acres.

Fred D. Porter, secretary of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, and a member of the Columbia, Chicago and Jackson Park clubs, suggested the downtown harbor as one which might be developed commercially from the standpoint of a base for excursion boats, and thus make it eligible for government improvement as a commercial port, since such traffic would come under the head of passenger commerce.

Figures Are Eye Opener.

Kingsley L. Rice, vice commodore of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club, which boasts one of the best star boat fleets in the United States, brought forth still another potential harbor of refuge in Wilmette harbor.

"The figures on eastern harbors as published in THE TRIBUNE were an eye opener to me. I don't believe that Wilmette harbor could be made into a commercial port except as a touching point for lake boats. However, it affords a logical situation for a harbor of refuge. The Grosse Point lighthouse is a quarter of a mile from the harbor and is a popular landmark for lake sailors. In addition to this, the new coast guard station, transferred from Evanston last spring, is nearby and gives an excellent view of the lake from every point. A harbor of refuge would require considerable improvement at Wilmette, however, since it is in need of dredging. A boat drawing more than five feet of water is in danger of running aground now."

Matty Matthews Replaces Burns Against Tramblie

Matty Matthews, Kenosha, Wis., 165 pounder, will replace Johnny Burns against Ray Tramblie in the ten round windup at the West Side Eagles' arena tomorrow night. Burns injured his right hand while sparring with Clarence Davis. The supporting card is the same as previously announced.

Matt Adgie, Philadelphia light heavyweight, is forced to take one or two Chicago bouts before he'll leave for Hollywood, Cal. Adgie was on his way to the west coast by automobile but the car was stolen from its parking space yesterday. As a result he has to earn carfare and will take on Buck Everett at White City on Monday as a starter.

King Levinsky, local heavyweight, will start training this afternoon at Brown's loop gymnasium for pending bouts. Levinsky has been resting since Sept. 30 when he acquired a head cut while winning a ten rounder from Joe Sekyra at the Coliseum. The injury is healed now, according to his sister-manager, Mrs. Lena Levy.

Bob Fitzsimmons, a middleweight, left Chicago last night for St. Paul, where he will fight Frankie Battaglia of Winnipeg, Man., in the semi-final to the Shea-Saunders bout tomorrow. Fitzsimmons will substitute for Buck Easterling.

Purple Learns Bruins Will Be Fighting Team

Efforts to key up Northwestern's football team following the inevitable letdown after the Notre Dame game occupied the major portion of yesterday's practice. Coach Hanley repeatedly warned the players that the U. C. L. A. game was far from being just a "breather" and that it would require some stout hearted efforts to turn back the invaders Saturday.

"These Pacific coast teams must always be given the greatest respect," he said. "I've seen too many of them in action ever to take them lightly, and this attitude must be accepted by our men or we will be caught napping Saturday. The Bruins have made rapid strides on the coast and each year give the so-called bigger teams a hard fight."

The Wildcats are somewhat at sea over how to prepare for the far west eleven since it was not scouted this fall. It is known, however, that it employs a modified Warner system, and with this meager information the Purple has been going about the task this week of mastering a defense.

U. C. L. A. will start a veteran eleven against Northwestern, according to reports from the coast. The line from end to end is made up of players with at least one year's experience, while most of the backfield starters are seasoned performers. At quarter the Bruins will have Bergdahl, from St. Paul, Minn., the only middle western player on the squad.

The visitors will count heavily upon Capt. Norm Duncan, full back, who does most of his team's passing and kicking as well as plunging. He is regarded as one of the outstanding full backs on the coast. Decker and Keeble, who made a good showing in the Washington State game, will be the other backs.

IOWA LOSES GUARD

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Search for a guard to replace Harold Hantelmann, senior letter man, who sprained his ankle in a light scrimmage today, occupied University of Iowa coaches in preparing for Indiana.

Austin Akin, made-over tackle, will probably replace Hantelmann in Saturday's game if the latter has not recovered.

Backs concentrated on new spinner plays and worked with ends on forward passing. Thurtle, a sophomore, was at varsity quarter back, Moffitt and Kriz at half back, and Capt. Sansen at full back. The regulars demonstrated scoring punch on running plays against the freshmen, and stopped Hoosier formations with apparent ease. Weakness on pass defense was uncovered, however, when the yearlings completed nearly a dozen tosses.

Forty Years on the Midway

When Stagg reported for work at the University of Chicago in September, 1892, not a single building had been completed. Not even a man with Mr. Stagg's imagination could then visualize the group of magnificent structures which now form one of the world's greatest educational centers. Cobb hall was the only building near completion. What has become the Midway was a strip of unimproved land which had just been taken over by the park commissioners to join Washington park with Jackson park. Ground was being broken for the Columbian exposition. The site of the university and much of the surrounding territory was owned by Marshall Field. The land was surrounded by barbed wire.

Stagg posted his first call for football candidates on Oct. 1. The numbers were so limited and the material so weak that Stagg played on the team. No effort was made to conceal his identity and there was no objection from opponents. The game was too young for such a situation to be considered unethical.

13 Games for the First Year Schedule.

Most of the teams had been practicing for a month when Stagg got his little band together. Once underway, however, there was action aplenty for the Maroons. Their schedule that first year called for 13 games, six of which were against high schools and Y. M. C. A.'s. Their first opponent was Hyde Park High school, which was headed by Wallie McCornack, generally regarded as father of football at Dartmouth. Chicago won the game, 12 to 0. It was from this school that Chicago later was to get one of the greatest players of all time—Walter Eckersall.

Two more victories over Hyde Park, one over Englewood and two over the Y. M. C. A. brought the team up to its first intercollegiate contest, which resulted in a 0 to 0 tie with Northwestern. A return game resulted in a 6 to 4 victory for Northwestern when Stagg failed to kick goal.

Later that year the Maroons, masquerading as the Lehigh eleven, played Michigan in the first of a series that developed one of the greatest rivalries in Western conference football. Lehigh was scheduled to play Michigan at Toledo, O., on Nov. 12 and the game was heavily advertised. At the last moment the Lehigh coach sent word that his team could not keep the engagement. Michigan appealed to Stagg to fill the date, so he and his players caught the last train that would put them in Toledo in time for the game. Sponsors of the contest did not make known the change and the crowd did not realize that a band of impostors was representing Lehigh. Michigan won, 18 to 12.

[In tomorrow's article Mr. Stagg tells the greatest victory he has won in his 40 years at Chicago.]

BORRELLI ADDS STRENGTH TO DE PAUL LINE

De Paul university's line added strength yesterday for the game tomorrow with St. Mary's of Winona, Minn., at Mills stadium when Bud Borrelli, first string guard last year, reported for his first practice session. He has been absent from the football field since the start of the season due to a broken finger sustained in swimming.

Engle and Steffen continued at half back, Vin Flood at quarter, and Art McGivern at full back. Engle and Steffen are both shifty runners and McGivern's plunging should give the Blue Demons all the punch necessary to combat the Minnesotans if straight football is required on a muddy field.

The offensive plays of the ends has improved. Heine Coan, Eddie Lyons, Harve Condon, and Babe Roche are all on a par as flank men.

CHURCH A. A. BANQUET.

The Church Athletic association of Chicago will hold its annual baseball banquet and trophy presentations Saturday evening at the De Lazon grill, 127 North Dearborn street.

FOUR PLAYERS ARE DEMOTED AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 14.—[Special.]—Four changes were made in the Notre Dame varsity lineup tonight as Coach Heartly Anderson sent it through scrimmage.

Whether or not these changes are permanent remains to be seen. All four men, however, showed power against the Wildcats.

Anderson directed a short defensive scrimmage against Drake's new Rockne system and then put the varsity on offease for a longer scrimmage in which nothing but passes were used.

ROCK ISLAND WINS, 20-6.

Steele Defeats Bronowicz in Straight Falls

Ray Steele of California won two consecutive falls over Frank Bronowicz of New York in the main event of Promoter Doc Krone's first indoor wrestling show of the season at the Coliseum last night before 3,000 fans.

Steele won the first fall in 33 minutes 15 seconds with two body slams, followed by a head scissors. The second fall was negotiated in 9 minutes 47 seconds with an airplane spin and body slam.

In the semi-windup, George Calza of Italy and Joe [Toots] Mondt of Colorado wrestled 30 minutes to a draw.

The roughest match on the card also resulted in a draw, George Zaharias of Pueblo, Colo., and Rudy Dusek of Omaha mauling each other for 30 minutes. Earl McCready, Oklahoma collegian, threw Jean La Deaux, French strong man, in 18 minutes 45 seconds with a series of headlocks and body slam.

Hans Kampfer of Germany made short work of Charley Fox, Cleveland, in the opening match, pinning Fox with a bar arm lock and body hold in 2 minutes 32 seconds.

WRESTLERS SEEK PLACES ON CARD AT CHARITY SHOW

Wrestlers sufficient to make out two or three good cards have asked the athletic division of Gov. Emmerson's unemployment relief commission, headed by J. Russell Forgan, to appear on the card at the Chicago Stadium Nov. 2, it was revealed yesterday.

Since the committee announced that Ed [Strangler] Lewis and Wladek Zbyszko had been signed to headline the card, with the announcement by Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, that the winner would be recognized as world's champion, the committee has been besieged with offers from wrestlers.

"We are going to have five bouts on the card," said Promoter Joe Coffey, who is aiding the committee in details of the program, and under whose license the Forgan group will stage the show. "We could have a dozen good bouts. But we are going to limit the card to five."

TIRED BIRDS USE FIRE ESCAPES IN LOOP AS HAVENS

BY BOB BECKER.

A fire escape in Chicago's business section can be an excellent rest station for migrating birds at this time of the year. This possibility is suggested in a letter from a Chicago bird fan, who describes how a ruby crowned kinglet took time out on its southward migration to spend several hours recuperating its strength on a skyscraper fire escape. Sam R. Hunter, the observer, tells the following experience:

"Here at the Transportation building just south of the loop we have had a strange pair of bird visitors. We're on the 11th floor, and while sitting close to the west window the other day I noticed a fluffy bird on the fire escape. I did not identify it at once, but a friend in the office, W. W. Gilmore, an amateur naturalist, recognized it as a ruby crowned kinglet.

He Stays All Night.

"This little fellow was almost exhausted. He sat on the fire escape and slept for several hours. We put out some food for him, which was gratefully received. Later the bird caught several insects. In the afternoon another kinglet joined the first one, but this second one did not stay long.

"Late in the afternoon the first bird got down to one of the crosspieces on the fire escape, tucked her downy head under her wing and went to sleep.

Feasted on Insects.

"The next morning I was here early to see how our visitor was getting along. She was as busy as a one armed shortstop catching insects.

"The bird is gone. But what I want to know is how did these kinglets happen to be here in the Windy City? Where did they stay this summer?"

It is not unusual for several species of birds to be seen or even caught in the loop during the migrations. The kinglets probably heated far north of the Canadian line and are heading for Central America.

PLATERS HUMBLE BLACK SHEEP IN HAWTHORNE MUD

[LAUREL ENTRIES ON PAGE 37.]

The hottest favorite to win at Hawthorne yesterday was a horse called Bill Orange, just in from the small tracks of Ohio. And the horse that took the most severe trouncing was Ruddy Sir. He came splashing home in the mud 30 lengths behind Bill Orange, last in a field that included a lot of black sheep from some of our best thoroughbred families.

When Ruddy Sir came home beaten so badly, all by himself at the end of the parade, one just had to look up a horse that could take such an unmerciful trimming. What a great horse Ruddy Sir was cut out to be—and what a black sheep he actually is!

He Wasn't Alone.

Ruddy's daddy is Sir Gallahad III. You've heard of him, the famous French horse, of course. Gallant Fox, a champion a year ago, was one of Sir Gallahad III.'s sons. Ruddy's mamma was Rush Box. Everybody remembers a great champion a few years back called Sarazen. Well, Rush Box was the mother of Sarazen, too.

But even so, Ruddy Sir wasn't the only black sheep to show up in this race. The others performed just about the way Ruddy did. There was War Time, for instance. He finished fourth, but badly beaten. War Time's daddy is Man o' War and his mother is Pen Rose, a mighty fashionable mare in her day.

Even Scapegoat Fails.

Then there was the royally bred Scotland, a son of Light Brigade-Elizabeth M. Ruddy Sir was the only horse he was able to beat. Once people backed Scotland to beat almost any sprinter in the country.

There was Scapegoat entered to be claimed for $1,500 in the second race. He was always far back. Scapegoat claims Chickie as his sire and Catspaw as his mother. He once was a very proud member of Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney's Greentree stable. When two years old he often outran Twenty Grand in their training drills over the Greentree farm track.

Then there was Wyandotte, a daughter of the Derby winner, Flying Ebony. Wyandotte was far back in the first race. Rufle, a daughter of famous old John P. Grier, was satisfied to have mud tossed into her face all through the same race, which Princess Crusader, from the Joe Leiter stable, won after a stout-hearted dash down the stretch.

She caught and passed the favorite, Golden Light.

TWENTY GRAND IS RETIRED FOR REST OF SEASON

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The retirement for the season of Twenty Grand, winner of $259,925, was announced today by James Rowe, trainer of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable.

The big bay has been out of training since receiving a slight leg injury in winning the Jockey Club Gold cup at Belmont Park, Sept. 19. Although Twenty Grand is eligible for several rich fall faces in Maryland, Rowe considered it unwise to put him back in training for the events.

Twenty Grand will be raced next year and has a chance to pass Sun Beau as the leading money winner of the world.

REALTORS TOLD NATION FACES HOUSING LACK

Drug Store Firm Leases North Side Corner.

Present day realty problems were discussed yesterday by the 300 realtors attending the fifteenth annual convention of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards at Aurora. The realtors were welcomed by Mayor Conrad M. Bjorseth of Aurora after which George F. Nixon of Chicago, president of the association, addressed the meeting on "The Right Sized Package for Real Estate."

J. Soule Warterfield, vice president of Starrett Brothers, Inc., builders, gave a talk on "Let George Do It" in which he asserted that the nation was lacking in leadership and urged that those in the real estate and building business get down to their tasks—themselves instead of letting others do their work.

Sees Shortage Ahead.

He criticized the letting of large building contracts merely to provide employment when the contracts as let did not permit contractors to make fair profits. Discussing the doubling up of families as a result of the depression, Mr. Warterfield asserted that we are "unconsciously drifting again toward a housing shortage" and that eventually a huge amount of construction must be put under way to satisfy the needs of the more than $9,000,000 persons in the urban centers.

Discussing the taxation burden on real estate, he urged realty men to determine just what is required to improve the situation and then go to the legislature for relief. In connection with taxes he said that every owner of income property in the country should immediately start putting tax participation clauses in their leases and let the tenants become tax conscious.

Mr. Warterfield urged that plans for the rediscounting of housing securities should be broadened to take in all acceptable securities, regardless of type or of use, when handled by accredited organizations. He lauded the part of life insurance companies in investing in real estate and then urged that the fire and casualty companies who get a large part of their premiums from real estate to increase their investments in realty. This should make an additional four billion dollars available for real estate, he added.

OUTWARD FLOW OF GOLD FROM U. S. EXPLAINED

Decline in Stock Is Not Alarming.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Within the last six weeks the United States has sent to other countries upwards of $500,000,000 more gold than it has received. The daily and weekly reports of the New York Federal Reserve bank showing this continued outflow of gold naturally have caused some misgivings, although financiers have regarded it with equanimity.

The flood of monetary gold which has been flowing from New York into the coffers of Europe was swelled by $17,762,400 yesterday. This brings the total net loss of gold to approximately $568,000,000 since Sept. 1. Of the gold transfers announced by the federal reserve bank the bulk, or $42,000,000, was for France.

What has caused this great export of gold? Where is it going? What is the effect on the United States? These are some of the questions the layman is asking. These questions were answered by Chicago bankers yesterday and, without technicalities, their explanations are summarized here.

Recently at New Peak.

About six weeks ago the gold stock of the United States reached a new peak above $5,000,000,000, which was more than half the monetary gold of the whole world. This vast gold store had been built up as the result of the world war and the long period of prosperity afterward during which foreign nations bought more American goods than they sold goods to us. Thus, between 1921 and last month our stock of gold rose from $1,460,560,000 to above $5,000,000,000.

However, not all the gold in the United States really belonged to this country. When Germany and France inflated their currencies the people of those countries became alarmed and bought American dollar credits. The same thing happened to a lesser extent when England suspended the gold standard recently. In this way foreign countries piled up large credits in this country and left them here because these American credits were fully backed by gold.

It is estimated that a few months ago the French nation had credits of nearly $500,000,000 in this country and that other foreign credits were half as much more. So this sum was really foreign money held on deposit in this country and not really American gold, although it figured as part

Container Cars Boon to Rail Service

BY SCRUTATOR.

The rapid development of the automobile in the last decade has created a difficult transportation problem.

The railroads, from which the motor truck and the bus have taken a large share of their former business, evince no unanimity of opinion as to what shall be done about it. Some would weight motor transportation down so heavily with taxes and governmental regulation that it would be forced to yield much of the tonnage that it has taken from the rails. Others would adopt it and coördinate its operations with those of the railroads.

Motor transport on a large scale was born in the world war. In the early days of the battle of Verdun with their railroad communications destroyed the French hurriedly devised a system of motor transport and moved up a whole army corps in ten hours. A city of a quarter million people was kept supplied, and through one hamlet in the rear of the lines 5,000 vehicles passed each day.

Industry Learns Lessons.

Lessons of this kind were not lost on industry. In 1913 there were 63,800 motor trucks registered in the United States; in 1919 there were 794,272, and in 1930, 3,480,939.

The traffic handled by this rapidly increasing number of vehicles had to come from somewhere and much of it was taken from the railroads. The effect on the railroads of the great diversion of tonnage to motor transportation was not fully recognized until the poor business year of 1930. Since then there has been livelier interest in the methods by which various lines are attempting to solve the motor truck problem.

Carriers in the southwest have inaugurated free pickup and delivery service. The Chicago and North Western, New York, New Haven and Hartford, the Pennsylvania, and others have been experimenting with railroad operation of truck lines. Containers for handling less than carload shipments have been put in use. A new light container made of plywood and a special truck made by the International Harvester company to haul it to and from the railroad were demonstrated the other day at Mount Vernon, Ill.

Adopts Active Policy.

The Pennsylvania railroad recognized the probable growth of motor transportation several years ago and adopted a policy of active participation in that field.

This company in some cases has substituted trucks for local peddler freight trains, replaced box cars with containers for certain traffic, and has experimented with ferrying truck bodies on flat cars. Its policy of substituting bus service for poor paying passenger trains has resulted in the elimination of 798,561 unprofitable steam train miles per annum with an estimated annual economy of $478,240.

The railroads' terminal costs are relatively high and line haul costs low. The Pennsylvania's plan is to coördinate the two so that the peculiar advantages of each may be retained. This policy has been explained by J. F. Deasy, vice president of the company.

"On the basis of sound economy and coördination of highway and rail service it is obvious that the motors should perform the terminal deliveries and the rails the line haul. Acting together, the motors and rails should be able to give the public cheaper transportation with improved methods without lessening the return to either."

Mr. Deasy does not subscribe to the theory that drastic regulation should be imposed on truck transportation to drive business back to the railroads.

"The question of coördinated transportation in my opinion is an economic one and not a regulatory or legislative one," he says. "So long as the railroads are permitted directly or indirectly to have the same opportunities as any other individual or firm to engaged in highway transportation and be subject to the same form of regulation, that is all, in my opinion, that the railroads could possibly ask for."

CONTAINERS REPLACE BOX CARS

New type of equipment helps railroads to compete with motor trucks for less than carload freight shipments. Each section is transferred from flat car to truck for city delivery.

WOOLWORTH COMPANY DIRECTORS DECLARE $2 EXTRA DIVIDEND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 14.—Amid the gloom of dividend reductions and omissions came the announcement today that the board of the F. W. Woolworth company declared an extra dividend of $2 a share in addition to the regular quarterly distribution of 60 cents, making a total of $2.60 to be paid for the final quarter of 1931.

The extra dividend is payable Nov. 15 to holders of record Nov. 1, while the regular quarterly is payable Dec. 1 to shareholders of record Nov. 1.

Word that stockholders of Woolworth would be rewarded with an increased return on their investment was heard for the first time when it was proposed several months ago to recapitalize the company's British subsidiary, F. W. Woolworth & Co., Ltd. This has already been accomplished and shares of the subsidiary are listed on the curb.

Directors of the Continental Can company declared today the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share on the common stock, payable Nov. 14 to holders of record Oct. 31. The company is the second largest in the field.

A.T.&T.Co., Gen. Electric Show Profit

Earnings reports for the first nine months of 1931 were issued yesterday by American Telephone and Telegraph company and the General Electric company.

American Telephone failed to earn its quarterly dividend in the third quarter, reporting $2.11 a share against the $2.25 payment. For the first nine months, however, there was a margin of 25 cents a share over dividend requirements. General Electric's profit of $1.07 a share for the nine months fell short of dividend requirements of $1.20 for the three quarters.

The net profit of A. T. & T. for the nine months set a new high record at $128,456,315, equivalent to $7 a share on 18,345,713 shares of common stock outstanding. This compares with net earnings of $123,450,182 in the corresponding period of 1930, which was equivalent to $8.13 a share on the 15,184,389 shares then outstanding. Dividends paid during the period totaled $121,646,888 as contrasted with $101,119,330 in the first nine months last year. The surplus after deducting dividends was $6,809,426 this year as compared with $22,330,851 in 1930.

For the third quarter of the year net income amounted to $39,346,472, equal to about $2.11 a common share, as against the quarterly dividend of $2.25. The quarterly earnings compared with $43,924,430 in the preceding quarter and $41,653,370 in the like quarter of last year.

General Electric reported net profit for the first nine months of $30,753,850, against $42,518,708 in the same months of 1930. Profit available for the common stock in 1931 was equivalent to $1.07 a share, as compared with $1.47 a share in 1930. In both periods the stock outstanding amounted to 28,845,927 shares.

Orders received by General Electric in the first nine months of 1931 amounted to $202,700,916, compared with $267,651,832 for the comparable period last year, President Gerard Swope announced. Sales billed in the 1931 period totaled $206,138,961, against $287,886,541 in the corresponding months last year. Mr. Swope reported that 139,697 stockholders received dividends in October, as compared with 133,163 in July and 97,638 in October, 1930.

Gifford Issues Statement.

Walter S. Gifford, president of American Telephone and Telegraph, issued the following statement with the corporation's report:

"During the first nine months this year the Bell system had a net loss of about 207,500 telephones, or 1 1-3 per cent of those in service at the beginning of the year. For September, however, there was a net gain of 12,500 telephones and the usual seasonal increase in long distance calls. Special sales effort is being taken with the view of improving growth in the number of telephones and increasing the use of toll and long distance service.

"The total operating revenues for the Bell system for the first nine months were 1.9 per cent below those for the same period last year. Total operating expenses, including depreciation and taxes, were 2.8 per cent below those in the corresponding period in 1930.

"For the nine months the earnings of the company, as shown by the income statement, have exceeded dividends by $6,800,000. In addition the company's net equity in the undistributed earnings of its subsidiary companies, including Western Electric company, for the period was approximately $3,500,000.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 14.—Dribbling sales weighed the share market to moderately lower levels today in face of a number of favorable developments in the domestic business field which might have counted upon ordinarily to buoy grading sentiment.

Diehard pessimists of the street have a far east war scare to harp upon just now and what with the aid of a rumor that soviet Russia was preparing to intervene in the quarrel between China and Japan they were making the most of it today.

Probably the fuss doesn't make much difference to the average onlooker one way or the other so far, but this is and long has been a professional market and almost any old thing will serve as an excuse for a price drift one way or the other, it seems. The trend was upward last week and it was the bears' turn again this week.

Incidentally, on the face of the closing figures of today the market had lost about 40 per cent of the gains it registered on the enthusiasm created by the so-called Hoover credit revival plan and the advance information that something was to be done to help business.

Rail Shares Decline.

The losses in today's leisurely trading affair ranged from 1 to about 3 points in the main list with an occasional setback running as high as 10 points. Railroad shares were fairly hard hit again and the utilities had to take another drubbing.

There was pronounced evidence of Uneven but sharp price gains have been scored in hogs and lambs the last few days, and both kinds continued their erratic climb yesterday. Lambs reached the highest levels since Oct. 2 and showed gains of 75c to $1.00, compared with the middle of last week, while bulk of hogs sold at the highest prices since Sept. 22.

Lightest weight hogs and pigs are 50c to $1.00 higher than early last week, but 170@225 lb averages, which comprise bulk of ogerings lately show comprise bulk of offerings lately show spot.

A dense fog made buying and selling difficult at the opening yesterday and trading was slow during the first two hours, but activity featured the late trade and the clearance was good at $@10c advance. All interests were eager for hogs at the upturn, large local packers coming in for a fairly large share of the better grades selling at $5.40 and above. Prime 240@270 lb averages topped the market at $5.70, while the general average moved up 5c to $5.30.

The movement out of storage has reached full swing. In spite of the almost record hog slaughter in September, cold storage holdings on Oct. 1 dropped to 474,636,000 lbs, and compare with 898,063,000 lbs on Sept. 1. Lard dropped to 69,627,000 lbs and compared with 96,047,000 lbs on Sept. 1 and with 121,926,000 lbs on Aug. 1. The five year average for Oct. 1 is 112,-809,000 lbs.

Today's Hog Bid $5.70.

Buyers were willing to pay $5.70 for medium weight hogs for today's delivery on the "to arrive" market, but in view of yesterday's active cash trade, sellers ideas for later in the week are near the $6.00 line. Hogs weighing 170@210 lbs were bid $5.40. December hogs were sold at $4.65 and others were offered at $4.75, but most bids for December and January contracts were held at $4.50@4.60.

Cattle sold on a livelier market yesterday and medium grades recovered some of what was lost earlier in the week, with the finish highest of the day in view of the lighter supply in sight for today. Yesterday's offerings exceeded epectations, but demand was broad and the clearance better than when receipts were lighter.

Eastern packers are aggressive and paid $10.50 for 29 steers averaging 1,318 lbs. Numerous sales were made at $10.00@10.25 and the proportion going below the $6.00 line was smaller. A favorable factor in the cattle market is the rapid out of storage movement of all food products. The total of all kinds of frozen meat in storage on Oct. 1 at 568,843,000 lbs, the smallest of the year, shows a drop of 19 per cent compared with a month ago and 43 per cent compared with two months ago.

Lambs Bring $7.25.

Additional advances of 25@50c were scored in lambs yesterday, the bulge carrying top natives to $7.25 and top westerns to $7.00. Bulk of best grades of slaughter lambs went to packers at $6.75@7.00, and with thin kinds getting plenty of support from country feeder buyers, the $5.25@5.50 lambs shared in the strength.

Shipments of lambs from Chicago to eastern packers for slaughter during the first two days of this week showed an increase of almost 50 per cent compared with a week ago. Aged sheep and yearlings were also stronger yesterday. Feeding lambs met broad demand at $5.25@5.50, but good solid mouth breeding ewes had to go for slaughter at $3.00 in the absence of country demand for replacement stock in breeding flocks.

WHEAT PRICES REACT AFTER AN EARLY BULGE

3 Day Advance Checked by Selling Orders.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Profit taking and weakness in the stock market caused a sharp reaction in wheat yesterday after an early bulge of around 1¢ to a new high on the present movement which carried prices 6¾@7c above the low of last week.

Selling against offers and by recent buyers on the belief that a three day straight advance was sufficient for the time being checked the upturn at 55⅝c for the May and later there was fairly general selling by the local element. However, the market showed a relatively firm undertone throughout the day and closed unchanged to ⅛@ lower, the December being 50c; May, 54@54¼c, and July, 54¾c at the last.

A house with Pacific coast connections was a good buyer of December wheat during the day, which attracted some attention, as the trade has become somewhat nervous over the Chinese-Japanese political controversy, fears being expressed hostilities in that section might involve Russia and would further complicate the export of grain from that country.

Already the decreasing clearances from there has commenced to affect the world's market, and cables received yesterday claimed that bread rations had been increased, which was taken as indicating there would be less grain to come forward to the Black sea ports.

Europe After Wheat.

There has been a large foreign demand for North American wheat during the past few days with sales estimated at 2,500,000 bu or more, the bulk of which has been Manitobas, but included some hard winters. There was buying of futures at Winnipeg early by the seaboard and by houses with continental connections, but this was offset later by hedging pressure.

Favorable weather in the three Canadian provinces has resulted in threshing making rapid progress and farmers are delivering the grain in volume at interior points. According to Broomhall, a leading European authority, the small amount of wheat now afloat on ocean passage is causing apprehension abroad as to future supplies.

It is estimated that there are around 15,000,000 acres in the winter wheat belt that would be greatly benefited by moisture, and the recent storm is now reported to have missed some important producing sections in the southwest. Seeding in the dry area is delayed and the crop is reported to have made a poor start with some damage caused by wire worms.

Cash Corn Firmer.

An advance of ¼@½c in the cash corn basis combined with charters for 365,000 bu to eastern lake ports had some effect on futures. There was less pressure than of late and with short covering and support from locals the finish was unchanged to ⅛c higher, December finishing at 34⅝@35c; May, 39@39¼c; and July, 40¾c.

Oats were higher early on buying by commission houses, but the late weakness in wheat led to local selling and the finish was well toward the bottom with prices unchanged to ¼c lower, December being 22⅛@22¼c; May, 24⅞@25c, and July 24¼c. Charters were made for 135,000 bu to Buffalo.

Rye prices held within narrow limits and closed unchanged with December finishing at 38⅝ and May 41¼c. The small movement of new crop rye to terminals is attracting attention.

EGG FUTURES EASIER

Slatting at the opening broke November eggs ½c on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. The delivery worked back to the previous close, but declined again, closing ⅝@¾c lower. December was off ¾c. Butter was up ⅛@¼c in better trading. Poultry was quiet, closing unchanged to 4c lower. The first delivery of Maine potatoes in Boston on the exchange contracts were made today. Sales—Butter, 2,054,400 lbs; eggs, 1,452,000 dozen; potatoes, 770,000 lbs. Deliveries—Eggs, 2 cars Maine Green Mountains [Boston]. Prices follow:

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the Average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 6 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest, at the Reduced Rate, is charged only while you have the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:
